WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT, chief justice of the Supreme Court, President of the United States, Secretary of War, rode to his grave in Arlington Cemetery on a gun carriage, the first United States President to be buried there.

A military funeral was, perhaps, not what he would have suggested, but he was entitled to it as former Secretary of War, and commander-in-chief of the army and navy.

Before burial the body of the late chief justice lay in state for three hours in the Capitol, on a catafalque, upon which has lain the coffins of Presidents Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Harding.

How LINCOLN stands out in that, or any list. How soon men become unimportant and are forgotten.

Lincoln, never.

Ominous and threatening for India is the beginning of Mahatma Gandhi's campaign of "no violence, but refusal to obey" against the British.

Gandhi and his followers march in protest to make salt tax-free and smallpox marches with them.

Three are dead, 22 prostrated by the disease. The British have made a desperate fight against the various plagues in India, smallpox included, with the natives fighting against them.

It has never been possible to prevent natives bathing in the filthy Ganges, occasionally swallowing water upon which dead corpses are set adrift.

Under British rule the population of India has increased by 100,000,000. It would soon diminish under native rule, with the aid of smallpox and other plagues.

This small item of news interests managers and stockholders of railroad and steamship lines.

An airplane, driven by a Diesel engine, flew from Detroit to Miami in 10 hours 15 minutes without stopping, with Chief Engineer Willson of the Packard Co. and Walter Lees, pilot.

And the trip cost for fuel $8.50.

"What we are trying to build is a big seaplane, an airplane with power enough to defy all storms and to be able to take passengers from the Atlantic to the Pacific for $25 each.

You will be able to travel 3000 miles for less than it costs to send your voice on the telephone wire today.

It is said that President Hoover is willing to listen, but not enthusiastic, about that "guarantee by Uncle Sam suggestion." Welcome information regarding the "suggestion" is that in consideration of France obliging England as regards battleship building the United States shall undertake to send men to be killed and money to be spent in Europe, in case another nation should attack France.

The plain English is that we are to pull chestnuts out of the fire for the British friendship underwrite future war difficulties of France, an admirable nation, but one that has been at war pretty steadily for twelve hundred centuries.

Any American government that should give such a guarantee, or remotely imply such a guarantee, would be unworthy of office and would not hold it long.

There is plenty of money in the country, the difficulty is to get it.

Secretary Mellon needs $450,000,000 for Uncle Sam.

The public offers to buy twelve hundred and ninety-one million dollars' worth of Treasury certificates. There is plenty of water in the oceans, lakes and rivers. The trouble is to get it on dry soil that needs it.

There is plenty of wealth in the United States. The trouble is to distribute it widely, evenly, consistently.

New York city, fighting the "Reds," proposes to deport all alien radicals. The police commissioner furnishes employers with lists of radicals on their payrolls, and the radicals are dismissed by the hundreds.

While men fight men, even with considerable odds on one side, there is no great objection.

But it is suggested that New York expel children of "Red radicals" from public schools. That is like a suggestion to put all the sick people out of hospitals. What is the purpose of our public school system? Will its managers admit that it cannot cure a child of his radicalism, and make him an admirer of what radicals call our "capitalistic system?"

Supreme Court Gets Rum Buyer Case

FARRAR CASE IS TAKEN TO HIGH COURT

Hub Rum Buyer Complaint Is Basis of Test Action Before Full Bench

The case of James E. Farrar of Watertown, held by Judge Morton in federal court not to have been guilty of a crime in purchasing liquor, was today taken to the United States Supreme Court.

The action was taken by the Department of Justice as a test case to determine whether the purchaser of intoxicating liquor is guilty of conspiracy.

The appeal was made from the recent decision of Judge Morton, in which he ruled the purchase of liquor was not a crime.

The Government already has pending before the court a case involving a conspiracy between a purchaser and a seller to transport intoxicating liquors.

In announcing the filing of the second case to determine whether the purchasing of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes is of itself a violation of the prohibition act, the department said the action was taken in view of the diversity of opinion of various judges on the question.

Judge Morton sustained the contention of Farrar's counsel that Section 5, Title 2, of the national prohibition act, under which the government sought to convict him, referred only to those legally entitled to buy and sell liquor under permits, such as druggists and hospitals. This section of the act says in substance that no person shall sell, barter, transport or purchase liquor without first obtaining a permit.

Judge Morton held further that the enforcement section of the Volstead act is Section 3 and that this section clearly eliminates any liability or any kind for the purchase of liquor.

Ashes of Mrs. Bryan to Be Buried Today

Washington, March 12 (AP)—With private ceremonies the ashes of Mrs. Mary Baird Bryan will be committed late today to a grave beside that of her husband, William Jennings Bryan, in Arlington cemetery.

Only Rep Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida, a daughter, and William Jennings Bryan, Jr., a son, who brought the ashes from Hollywood, Cal., and a few close friends are to attend the ceremony at the grave. Mrs. Bryan, an invalid for 12 years, died Jan. 31.

Torrey in Plunge to Death

Mr. Torrey landed on the kitchen roof. The window of his suite was open.

A report made to the police was that Mr. Torrey had committed suicide. He had been under treatment since last September.

He had been living at the hotel for four months, and because of ill health had engaged an attendant. She was not present at the time of the fall.

Hotel officials expressed the opinion Torrey's fall was accidental.

VALUE OF TAFT ESTATE SECRET

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The will of William Howard Taft was filed today for probate, although no valuation of the estate was disclosed.

The will was executed June 3, 1926, and was modified by two codicils, one on April 27, 1927, and another on June 1, 1927. Under the original will, Yale University was given $10,000, to be added to the principal of the Alumni University Fund and credited to the Class of 1878.

Wendell W. Mischler, his secretary, was given $5000, and the following specific bequests were made: Mary Jet McNamara, $1000; Annie McNamara, $750; Thomas Halpin, $750.

With these exceptions, and save for his papers and copyrights, the former President left all his remaining estate to "My dear wife, Helen H. Taft."

Simple Shaft to Mark Taft Grave

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The tomb of William Howard Taft will be marked for posterity with a memorial shaft befitting the high place he held in the hearts of the American people.

The monument is to be selected by Mrs. Taft and their three children, who chose the sylvan nook in Arlington National Cemetery in which the man who was President and Chief Justice is now at rest.

Simplicity is to be the dominant characteristic of the marker.

Sir Ronald and Lady Lindsay Sail for U. S.

Southampton, March 12 (INS)—Sir Ronald Lindsay, New British Ambassador to the United States, sailed for America today aboard the Acquitania. He was accompanied by Lady Lindsay.

For only permanent under-secretary at the foreign office, Sir Ronald was elevated to the ambassadorship to succeed Sir Esme Howard, who recently retired.

DOHENY LOSES FIRST ROUND

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The trial of Edward L. Doheny, oil operator, charged with bribing Albert B. Fall, Secretary of Interior in the Harding cabinet, began today after Justice Hitz overruled Doheny's plea that to put him on trial for bribery would place him in double jeopardy.

The defendant maintained that the question of his giving $100,000 to Fall in 1921 already had been decided by a former jury.

Failing to secure a jury from a panel of 28, Justice William Hitz today summoned another panel.

Frank J. Hogan, his counsel, said the oil man was convinced he would be acquitted.

Doheny was accompanied by Mrs. Doheny and a number of friends.

Woman Lifer in Michigan Freed

Lansing, Mich., March 12 (AP)—Mrs. Etta Miller, a victim of Michigan's former "life-for-liquor" law, was free today for the first time in 14 months.

The 50-year-old mother, who began a life sentence in the House of Correction after her conviction Dec. 21, 1928, on a fourth liquor felony, returned to her home and her husband. She was released pending a new trial.

STARTLING QUESTION IS PUT TO DOCTOR

One Physician Testifies That Officer Suffered From Psycho-Neurosis

Intimation that Oliver B. Garrett was attending cattle fairs and buying cattle on dates when his personal physician reported him confined to his bed by illness was made today at Atty.-Gen. Warner's investigation of the pensioned patrolman.

A veiled charge to that effect was [illegible] in a question abruptly shot at Dr. John G. McCormick, Garrett's personal physicians, by Damon E. Hall, Warner's special assistant in the probe ordered by the Legislature.

"Would you be surprised to learn that during the periods that Garrett, according to your report, was confined to bed at Hingham he was attending cattle fairs?" Hall asked.

"I would be very much surprised," Dr. McCormick calmly replied.

Another huge throng battle for admittance to the public hearing today as the attorney-general's office pursued its inquiry into Garrett's public and private life—an investigation ordered as a result of caustic criticism and a wave of ugly charges following his pensioning.

DOCTOR CRITICIZED

Dr. McCormick was criticized for not taking to the hearing the originals of his records bearing upon treatment of Garrett. He had made copies, he said, but copies were not acceptable and he was sent from the earing room to fetch the original records.

Dr. McCormick followed three other physicians and a dentist on the witness stand. Their combined testimony resulted in a composite picture of the suave and well dressed pensioner as a psychoneurotic with slightly flat feet who yells because he likes to yell.

GARRETT PSYCHO-NEUROTIC

Dr. Arthur W. Fairbanks of the Boston retirement board declared him to be psycho-neurotic. He could not say from which one of several accidents that condition might have resulted or whether it was due to a mental strain.

Dr. John A. Foley, another member of the retirement board, testified that Garrett had slightly flat feet, and by the laugh which followed the pensioned officer, occupying a front row seat, was not in the least abashed.

The testimony that Garrett yelled because he liked to yell was offered by Dr. Mark M. Bush, Garrett's dentist, who related conditions as he found them at Garrett's Allston home on Feb. 21 when were sent there to discover why their former comrade was shouting loud enough to be heard by neighbors.

FOUND HIM YELLING

That incident followed extraction of Garrett's teeth and Dr. Bush said he found Garrett suffering from the normal reactions to extractions, but in addition to these he was yelling.

"I asked him if his mouth hurt," the dentist testified. "Garrett replied, 'No.'

"I asked him why he was yelling.

DOCTOR SAYS EX-COP FAILED TO MENTION WAGON INJURY

He said he liked to yell."

The other physician testifying was Dr. Frederick W. O'Brien of Beacon st., X-ray specialist. He stated that X-ray plates of Garrett's skull, made by him on Sept. 3, 1927, a month after the accident on which Garrett based his pension claim, showed a simple skull fracture that might have been suffered from three weeks to a year previous to the X-ray.

Dr. Fairbanks, who was the first witness, examined Garrett with Drs. Foley and Cochrane at City Hospital last month, pronouncing him unfit for further duty in the police department. He said he had made notations of injuries suffered by the former policeman.

These were suffered January, 1924, February, 1925, and June, 1927, prior to the accident of August, 1927, on which Garrett's retirement was based.

Dr. Fairbanks declared that during his examination he did not notice a vacant expression on Garrett's face, on which expression Dr. Bailey had previously testified he diagnosed a concussion of the brain.

"He was intelligent, keen and alert," he said, "and I remembered I had never seen a patient more eager to prompt and obviously trying to assist in every way throughout a difficult situation."

As the morning session got under way a dozen men, recognized as being engaged in liquor activities in Boston, made their appearance around the State House.

Of the group who appeared four were able to gain admission to the hearing room. The others, because of lack of room, had to remain in the corridors.

The presence of the men, who were recognized as being more or less interested in the rum trade, resulted in the rumor that all had been summoned to the State House for questioning by Atty.-Gen. Warner.

Two of the men admitted they expected to be called upon to give testimony during the hearing. They did not say what information they would divulge or how important it was to the investigation.

Dr. Fairbanks, under direction by Atty. Damon Hall, said he was consulting neurologist at City Hospital and that he was on the examining board of the Boston retirement system.

On Jan. 31, 1930, he said, a report was made to Police Commissioner Wilson that an extensive examination had been made of Garrett and that the former policeman was unfit for further duty. Dr. Fairbanks, said Drs. Foley and Cochrane cooperated in the examination.

Atty. Hall—I assume, doctor, that the history of Garrett was of importance in your deliberations?

A.—Yes.

A.—And you made notes from it?

A.—Yes.

Dr. Fairbanks said he made notations of injuries received by Garrett in June, 1924, February, 1926, and June, 1927.

Q.—In this file was there any information about Garrett's being thrown from a delivery wagon and striking on his head?

A.—No.

The witness said he received reports of injuries to Garrett occurring on August 2, 1927 (on which Garrett based his claim for retirement on pension): May, 1928; March, 1929, and August 23, 1929.

The last date, he said, was that on which the accident at the Marshfield Fair occurred (details of which Garrett refused to give his superior, Capt. McDevitt, on the ground that he was off duty).

In addition he said he had a report from Dr. John McCormick, physician, in which Dr. McCormick stated that Garrett was suffering from a concussion of the brain, possible internal injuries, nervous shock and was unable to concentrate on any work.

Questioned by Atty. Hall, Dr. Fairbanks said he had made a complete neurological examination of Garrett.

He said the center of Garrett's forehead showed a thickening said to have existed since the accident of Aug. 2, 1927. He also said the examination of the 12 cranial nerves from the brain to ass if any of them were injured. The first nerve that I examined was the olfactory. I used vanilla and peppermint which I applied alternately on both sides. The left side was slightly negative, which would be only caused by catarrh. I next examined the optic nerve and there was no ground effect there.

"I then examined the third, fourth, sixth nerves which control the muscles of the eyeball and that he was perfectly clear and I remembered at that time that I had never seen a patient who was so prompt and obviously trying to assist in every way throughout a difficult situation."

"He was absolutely truthful and showed every desire to co-operate," said the witness.

Continuing his testimony Dr. Fairbanks said:

"After we were through the examination I asked Garrett if he was nervous. It was obvious that he was under a very heavy tension, although under good self-control, and he said, 'Who wouldn't be?'"

During this testimony, Garrett appeared very much interested, leaning forward in his seat in the front row, listening intently. Dr Fairbanks then took up his own own neurological examination of Garrett.

"I examined the second nerves which control the vision and found no abnormality," he said. "I then examined the fifth nerve which was normal also. I then examined the seventh nerve which controls all the facial movements and that was normal.

"I next examined the eighth nerve which relates to hearing and that was normal or ordinary tests. I used the tuning fork test. The seventh and ninth nerves controlling the sense of taste were next examined and all substances except sugar were readily identified. He tasted the sugar solution, but couldn't identify it.

Doctor Says Garrett Was Keen and Alert

Q—Were you at any time informed that the injury to Garrett's teeth had in fact occurred several weeks subsequent to the date reported?

A.—No.

Dr. Fairbanks then described the examination of Garrett at the City Hospital in January.

"Garrett said he suffered from nausea, nervous depression and discharge of blood from the nose," said the witness. "After he told us of his condition and symptoms Dr. Wilson came in and informed me that in July, 1929, he operated on Garrett's nose.

Q—Did you observe at any time a vacant expression on Garrett's face?

A.—No. He was intelligent, keen and alert. During the hour and a quarter of the examination he was perfectly clear and I remembered at that time that I had never seen a patient who was so prompt and obviously trying to assist in every way throughout a difficult situation.

"He was absolutely truthful and showed every desire to co-operate," said the witness.

Continuing his testimony Dr. Fairbanks said:

"After we were through the examination I asked Garrett if he was nervous. It was obvious that he was under a very heavy tension, although under good self-control, and he said, 'Who wouldn't be?'"

During this testimony, Garrett appeared very much interested, leaning forward in his seat in the front row, listening intently. Dr Fairbanks then took up his own own neurological examination of Garrett.

"I examined the second nerves which control the vision and found no abnormality," he said. "I then examined the fifth nerve which was normal also. I then examined the seventh nerve which controls all the facial movements and that was normal.

"I next examined the eighth nerve which relates to hearing and that was normal or ordinary tests. I used the tuning fork test. The seventh and ninth nerves controlling the sense of taste were next examined and all substances except sugar were readily identified. He tasted the sugar solution, but couldn't identify it.

Slight Tremor Found in His Tongue Nerve

"The other substances used in that test were salt, vinegar and quinine. I examined the 10th nerve which controls the larynx and that was normal. The 11th nerve which also normal. The 12th, which controls the tongue, showed a moderate tremor and that test was negative.

Dr. Fairbanks then said he examined Garrett's reflexes and that the reflexes of the lower extremities were normal and the superficial reflexes were far more active than normal.

He said Garrett showed some unsteadiness while rotating from left to right with his eyes closed, that his grip was strong and that his facial co-ordination was good.

There was a slight tremor in the tongue and lower jaw, he said. The sensation to touch and pain was normal everywhere.

"That concluded my neurological examination," he said. "There was no evidence of any bad mental condition at that time, and contact with environment was good."

Q—(By Hall)—At some subsequent time did you examine Dr. O'Brien's X-ray plates of Garrett?

A.—Those were examined before my examination of Garrett.

Q.—What did the X-ray plates indicate to you? A.—I should say that there had been at some time previously a fracture of the skull through the frontal bone.

Q.—Was there any evidence in the X-ray plate of depression in the fractures? A.—No, none whatever. This shadow on the plate appeared to be an old affair.

Q.—Assuming that the X-ray plates were taken within a month or five weeks after August 2, 1927, would you say that the shadow which you saw on the plates were remote than August 2, 1927?

Q.—Assuming that the X-ray plates were taken within a month or five weeks after Aug. 2, 1927, would you say that the shadow which you saw on the plates were more remote than Aug. 2, 1927?

A.—I saw it, I don't think I could say when it occurred, except that it was an old fracture.

The question was put again in different form and the doctor replied that the shadow indicated was from an old injury which had healed with considerable rapidity.

Q.—Did it appear to you that whatever was disclosed on that plate to you was more than four or five weeks old? A.—I don't think I am competent to say.

Witness then testified he saw Garrett again on Jan. 31, 1929, and he was asked as to what his condition was on that date.

He replied: "I knew he was suffering from a condition due to an injury to the head. The symptoms were largely complaints on Garrett's part.

The witness then said: "Dr. Wolfson told me after his autopsy operation, he had to tell Garrett flatly he didn't wish to see him again. I felt the man did suffer and that he had definite symptoms which are ordinary, every-day occurrences and such as we meet with all the time and are driven to desperation to remedy."

Q.—Was it a functional nervous disease that he had on Jan. 31?

A.—I should class it as psychoneurotic condition. I do not altogether approve of the term but it means a sort of psycho and neurosthenility. It is accompanied by such symptoms as headaches, nausea, high nervous tension and loss of control.

DUE TO MENTAL STRAIN

Psycho neurosis may have its origin in mental strain he admitted in answer to a question by Hall.

Q—Assuming that Garrett had been thrown from a milk wagon in 1914 and in June, 1927, had been hit in the face, his nose broken and teeth injured; in August, 1927, was in an automobile accident which you have described; in August, 1929, had been in an accident at the Marshfield Fair, during which latter accident he sustained a possible fracture of the ribs and had been unable to concentrate, was in a highly nervous condition and under great strain—can you tell whether it was possible from which of these things the psycho-neurosis condition arose? A.—Absolutely not.

TO DETERMINE FITNESS

Dr. Fairbanks then testified that his examination of Garrett was merely to determine his then fitness for police duty. He also said psycho neurosis is sometimes curable. Firemen and policemen, he said, should be in perfect physical condition to perform their duties.

"I can't say how he may be in a year from now," he added. "I cannot say today what may happen in the future."

The next witness was Dr. Frederick W. O'Brien of Beacon st., graduate of Tufts and an X-ray specialist. He told the investigators that he first saw Garrett on September 2, 1927, in his own office on Beacon st., and he thought Mrs. Garrett, Dr. McCormack and perhaps one or two others were with him. He made no personal examination, but made X-ray pictures of the skull, left, right and frontal.

POINTS TO FRACTURE.

Looking at plates which he had before him and which were introduced as exhibits, he indicated a mark on some of them and said:

"In the right frontal is an oblique line which represents a so-called linear fracture of the skull. It was not there at a later time and makes it conclusive that it was a fracture of the skull."

Q.—Can you tell how old that fracture was? A.—From three weeks to a year before the plates were made.

Q.—Was it a simple or compound fracture? A.—Simple.

He then said that although it was a question for a neurologist to answer, it was his opinion that a brain injury was possible with a linear fracture.

SAW GARRETT AGAIN

Dr. O'Brien saw Garrett again on Sept. 17, he said, at which time he made plates of his teeth and sinuses. The sinuses were normal, the plates showed. There were two abscesses at the roots of the teeth, one on the upper jaw right and one on the upper jaw left.

Q.—Was there any evidence on Sept. 17 of fractures of the teeth.

A.—No, sir.

Q.—When did you see Garrett again? A.—I saw him again June 26, 1928, at which time I examined the spinal column at the place where it joins the head, the skull and the upper jaw left. I made complaints of pains, and also the sinuses again.

NO INJURY TO SPINE.

The plates showed no evidence of injury to the sinuses, which were normal, he said. Plates of the spine showed no injury to the cervical spine. Plates taken on that date, June 26, 1928, showed that the line which appeared in the plates of the previous September had entirely disappeared, the fracture having healed.

Q.—So that the June plates showed that the skull was then normal? A.—Yes.

Dr. O'Brien next saw Garrett on May 3, 1929, he said, after Garrett had complained of pains. He made plates of the frontal region of the skull and found there had been no definite bone change.

His assistant saw Garrett, July 27, 1929, he testified, and made X-rays of the sinuses, apparently being Dr. Wolfson desired it done. The X-rays showed the sinuses still normal.

Dr. O'Brien testified it would be impossible to tell which of the many injuries received by Garrett was responsible for the head injury that he found.

Q.—Did Garrett have the appearance of a man mentally disturbed and worried? A.—That is a fair characterization. He always complained of these pains in the head.

Q.—He always appeared as if he had a load on his mind? A.—Yes, he had this pain and that was load enough.

Dr. John A. Foley of Dorchester, one of the Boston retirement board doctors, agreed with the testimony given by Drs. Fairbanks, and said he had nothing to add except that he had made an entire physical examination of Garrett and found him to be perfectly normal—"except for slightly flat feet." The closing words drew a hearty laugh from the crowd, recalling the time honored nickname for policemen—"flatfeet."

Dr. Mark M. Burke, Garrett's dentist, told of treating the former liquor raider at various times down to the time of the treatment in July, 1929, for terrific pains in the teeth. He continued, saying of the treatment last month, including Feb. 21, 25 and 27, on which dates extractions were made.

On Feb. 28, the doctor said, Mrs. Garrett called him and said that Garrett was "carrying on and creating a fuss." Dr. Burke went to the Garrett home in Allston and found the normal reaction to extractions, he said, but in addition Garrett was "yelling."

"I asked him if his mouth hurt," said the dentist. "Garrett replied 'No, I asked him why he was yelling. He said he liked to yell."

Dr. John Sears McCormick of Boston and Marshfield, Garrett's family physician, took the witness chair and said he was a graduate of Albany Medical College.

Q.—How long have you known Mr. Garrett? A.—Since 1923.

Q.—Were you his intimate friend? A.—No.

Q.—Well, you spent week-ends at Hingham with him, did you not? A.—Never.

Q.—Did you know Mrs. Garrett before you knew Garrett? A.—Yes, for ten years. She worked for me occasionally as a nurse.

Q.—You knew her when she was Mrs. Wendler? A.—Yes.

Q.—Have you brought your notes with respect to the treatment of Garrett? A.—I have so many notes in my files that I had copies made of the Garrett treatment.

Q.—We asked you for the original notes. You thought this would simplify matters.

Q.—We want you to bring the original. You are not finding fault, but we must have them. A.—I shall be glad to comply.

Dr. McCormick then told of treating Garrett on September 1, 1923, for the first time, for pains in the abdomen, and daily thereafter for more than a year, or to October, 1926. Thereafter less frequently for a nervous condition, sleeplessness and headaches.

Garrett Complained of Pains in His Head

On August 2, 1927, he visited Garrett at Hingham. On September 30, following, all the symptoms had cleared up except unbearable headaches, he said.

Q.—You remember, do you not, that the other day we asked you how you could have records of visits to Hingham for treatment of Garrett, when police records show he was working on those days?

The witness said he could give no explanation of this matter.

Q.—Would you be surprised to learn that during the periods that Garrett, according to your report, was confined in bed at Hingham, he was driving his car to and from and buying cattle? A.—I would so very much surprised.

Q.—Now, the symptoms he showed following the accident of August, 1929, were exactly the same as those which were in evidence during the 1927 treatment? A.—No.

Q.—Well, he complained of a nervous condition, did he not? A.—Yes.

Q.—And inability to concentrate on definite work? A.—Yes.

Dr. McCormick left the witness chair while instructions from Attorney Hall to go for his original Garrett notes.

At the opening of the afternoon session Atty. Hall arose and addressing Atty.-Gen. Warner said: "I now call Dr. Charles Harris to the executive files and also from the files of the police commissioner. The records of an investigation of Mr. Garrett in 1928."

"We are not at present prepared to give the complete history of the origin of this investigation.

"In order that it desire it to be distinctly understood that no adverse intimation whatever against anybody because as I do not present at this time the full history of it. Very likely additional search of old file will disclose its origins, but I understand, subject to later verification by Gov. Fuller requested the State police to investigate certain phases of the Garrett matter, and then transmitted the same to Md. Wilson.

"I shall first read the report of the state police to Gov. Fuller as transmitted by him to Wilson, then Wilson's reply thereto, and then sworn statements of Mr. Garrett and Capt. Patterson, taken by Wilson and transmitted by him to Gov. Fuller."

Nothing to It, Says Wilson Regarding His Resignation

While the Garrett hearing was getting under way today Police Commissioner Wilson came out emphatically with the statement that he has not resigned.

"If my resignation was up there," he said, "Governor Allen would tell you and I would tell you. It is not there. Every so often this story gets about, but I can assure you that there is nothing to it."

Cannot Fix Garrett's 'Unfit-Duty' Injury

EFFORTS to draw from Dr. Arthur W. Fairbanks, a member of the Boston retirement board, an admission that Garrett's "unfit-for-duty" condition might have resulted from injuries received outside the line of duty met with little success at the Garrett hearing today.

"Absolutely not." Dr. Fairbanks replied to a query whether it was possible to determine which one of several accidents resulted in Garrett's psycho-neurotic condition.

He admitted that condition could have been caused by mental strain.

WOMEN OF BAY STATE BATTLE 18TH REPEAL

Mrs. Peabody of Beverly Directs National Bodies at the Capital Hearing

Washington, March 12—Led by women of Massachusetts, friends of prohibition appeared before the House judiciary committee today the view that the womanhood of America was lined up in solid support of the eighteenth amendment and was prepared both hence and at any time to combat moves looking toward its repeal.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Mass., chairman of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, took charge of the witnesses, who argued that the wets had failed to provide a "workable solution" in the event the dry statutes were repealed.

The women supported their case by presenting statements from Mrs. Henry Ford and Mrs. Thomas A. Edison.

The women witnesses were drawn from a wide field. Some were prominent in club and social circles while others spoke as chairmen of nationally known women's organizations.

A "political creed" of the Women's National committee for law enforcement, outlining 5 points in support of the Eighteenth amendment and the Constitution as a whole, was presented.

Mrs. Peabody said the creed had been adopted only yesterday. The fifth point of the creed reads:

"We believe that under the existing act the buyer is equally guilty with the seller in illicit transactions in liquor."

Mrs. Lewis Jerome Johnson, of Cambridge, Mass., told the committee that while thoughtless people "assert there is more drinking now than before prohibition, those who remember when there were only open saloons on street corners and bars in hotels and restaurants and alcholic punches at cold spreads and weddings and saloons at college games, know from observation as well as from government reports that drinking on the way to and from work, between classes in university halls and other casual drinking, is very much lessened."

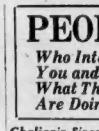
Chaliapin Sings Doleful 'Stock Market Blues'

New York, March 12—Feodor Chaliapin has been straining the powerful voice that has entranced thousands by joining in the chorus of that very common ditty, "I'm a Stock Market Blues."



Feodor Chaliapin.

That was revealed by the State Bureau of Securities after a raid on the offices of Otis W. Rowe Associates, Inc., and the First State Financial Company, Inc., Fifth ave.

Morris Greenberg of Brooklyn was in the offices, and was subpoenaed for examination.

When a telegram addressed to Chaliapin's name on a telegram led to the knowledge that Chaliapin had changed his tune, at least temporarily. The telegram told Chaliapin he had lost all he had invested in National Bancorporation of America.

Frances Williams, Star, in $100,000 Love Suit

Detroit, March 12 (INS)—A $100,000 alienation suit against her holds no worries for Frances Williams, blonde star of the George White "Scandals."

"Sure, I'm being sued, but my attorney tells me not to talk about it," she said.

Mrs. Bertha Jones of Pittsburgh, charges alienation of the affections of her husband, Allen M. Jones, pianist.

"Did he give you a ring?" Miss Williams was asked.

Galli Curci Cancels Concerts, Sails Home

Paris, March 12 (AP)—Mme. Amelita Galli Curci, who retired recently as prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, is a passenger in the remainder of her European tour and is sailing today for the United States.

She assigned as reason for the cancellation criticisms in Budapest papers of what were considered exorbitant fees exacted by the

Mme. Galli Curci was hissed and booed in Budapest. She said she was not in good voice because of a cold.

Mme. Galli Curci said she considered her fees quite reasonable. They were only $2200, or less than half of the American level.

here in an endeavor to start for home next Wednesday or Thursday. The City of New York is on the drydock and the steamer Eleanor Bolling goes on tomorrow for refitting.

When leaving the British warship Laburnum, after an inspection tour, Byrd received a 13-gun salute, his first admiral's salute since his promotion by his country.

Dr. Lawrence Gould, geologist of the expedition, said that the discovery of coal on Mt. Nansen had convinced him that the Antarctic until a comparatively recent geological period had either had tropical or subtropical climate. Dr. Gould said he had determined further that the great barrier was a floating sea of ice anchored to islands and mountains.

Byrd Sees No Cause for Row With Britain

London, March 12 (AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Wellington, New Zealand, today said Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd was of the opinion that there was no reason for any controversy between the British Empire and the United States concerning the latter's claims in Ross Dependency, Antarctica.

U.S. MOVES TO SAVE 'BIG 5' IN FRENCH CRISIS

Briand Insists on a Security Guarantee as Price of Reduction

London, March 13 (AP)—The naval experts of the United States, Great Britain and France met at St. James Palace today and tackled the task of trying to find some solution of the grave crisis which exists in the naval armament conference growing out of the French tonnage demands.

The delegations today were facing what was described in well-informed quarters as close to an impasse because both the United States and Great Britain have indicated they cannot concede France's demand that she be given a security pact in exchange for reduction in her navy program.

This, however, did not deter the experts from trying to find some way out of the dilemma.

It was expected that the entire day would be devoted to an analysis of the French figures involved in her claim for a 724,000 ton navy

NO GREATER CUT

Beside the French discussions Secretary Stimson and Senator Reed got together with Reijiro Wakatsuki and Admiral Takarabe for further discussion of the problems between the United States and Japan. The conference lasted an hour and a half.

An American spokesman said after the meeting that while the points of differences were narrowing, it could not be said there was agreement on any single point.

It was indicated that the Americans feel they have exhausted all possible suggestions looking toward an agreement and that the next move must come from the Japanese.

The American spokesman scoffed at reports coming from the United States that the United States and Great Britain would be willing to reduce battleships by three more down to 12.

It was said emphatically that reduction would be only to 15, and then only after settlement of the question of auxiliaries.

FRENCH FRANCE STANDS.

A Frenchman close to his country's delegation here declared: "There will be no weakening.

"The French attitude is that they must have the right to build this tonnage through they probably never will build it. It appears that they will put all their cards on the table and go for broke with their original tonnage figures unless some sort of security pact is forthcoming, and such a pact seems extremely doubtful.

"This stand of the French does not for that matter mean that agreement will not be reached. In fact, the French believe that a two-power agreement is probable, containing at least three points: A further battleship holiday for five years, the theory of limitation by category tonnage, and humanization of submarine warfare.

"There is general agreement among the five powers on these points."

SEE 3-PARTY PACT.

"Again the French feel sure that America, Great Britain and Japan will sign some sort of a three-power pact, which already has been discussed here.

"But the important thing to them is that they will be permitted to go home with the right to build whatever fleet their needs require, with further efforts at actual limitation and reduction to be left to the League of Nations, which in the French view is the proper functionary to undertake arms reduction, anyway.

costing $2,500,000, is the largest private craft ever built.

The world might once have envied Mr. Morgan. Now it is pleased to have him encourage the shipbuilding industry.

A modern cabin and suit buyer can travel to Europe on a boat free to anybody more comfortably than Mr. Morgan can go on his big private yacht Corsair.

Mr. Morgan's $2,500,000 yacht is an expensive toy compared with such a ship as the Bremeh, which cost about $50,000,000 in the United States.

We live in democratic, almost "socialistic," days without realizing it.

The public park is finer than anybody's private estate. The public golf course is finer than any public, not for private cars, and the finest ships are for everybody.

The elder J. P. Morgan would be interested to hear about this handsome Corsair. Not a big son, who closely resembles him.

The original Corsair was a small boat by comparison. But the late J. P. Morgan enjoyed it.

On Saturday he would go aboard, from a dock on the Manhattan side of the East river. And on Sunday morning, in the dining salon he would play religious music, most disleifully, on a machine driven by footpower.

LONG TERM FOR LOWELL MAN

Walter Mace, 40, of Lowell, an adjutant attached to the Salvation Army branch of that city, was sentenced to serve from 7 to 10 years in State prison at Charlestown by Judge James H. Bisk in Middlesex Superior Court at East Cambridge, on charges resulting from the story of a Lowell high school girl.

A jury found Mace guilty of a statutory offence on Edith J. MacPhail who first met the defendant while she was playing a cornet at Salvation Army meetings.

According to the police, Mace, on a promise of marriage, prevailed upon the girl to accompany him to Revere, later taking her to Everett.

HOUSE REVIVES BARBER BILL

The bill to establish a State board of registration in barbering, defeated in the Senate by one vote, was revived in the House and referred to the committee on ways and means.

Substitution for the adverse report of a committee on the bill was moved by Rep. Tony A. Garofano of Saugus. He declared the modern barber wants to see every shop compelled to carry out sanitary improvements.

Rep. John Holmes of Attleboro, against the bill, did not believe that much advantage would result from a board of registration in barbering. In 20 years' practice as a physician, he said, he had not seen one case of barbers' itch.

Thief With Taste Steals Tombstone From Quarry

A discriminating thief, who wished to choose his own tombstone, stole a red granite cross from the Sunnyside Quarry on Columbia st., South Quincy, police were informed, by the proprietor, Oliver Musselle. The cross, of polished stone, was six feet high.

CLOAK STRIKE TO BE CALLED

Date for a general strike of the 21,000 garment workers affiliated with the A. F. of L., will be set at a meeting tonight of heads of the six local unions of the International Ladies' Garment Workers.

A conference committee, made up of David Dubinsky, general secretary-treasurer; Vice-President Max Amdur, and Phillip Kramer, failed to reach an agreement with manufacturers represented by I. J. Colpak, president, and Saul F. Matthews, secretary.

The break came over the question of establishing a working week of 40 hours in five days, instead of the present system of 42 hours in five days. Increases in wages and the plan to drive out sweatshops were agreed on, but the employers would not concede the 40-hour week.

GERMANY O. K'S. YOUNG PLAN

Berlin, March 12 (AP)—The Reichstag today gave final approval to the Young plan by a vote of 270 to 192 and then, by a rising vote, also approved the German-American agreement by which Germany's reparations payments to the United States are regulated.

The Young plan measure now only requires President von Hindenburg's signature and publication of the ratification in the Official Gazette for the plan by which the financial aftermath of the World War has been liquidated to become law as far as Germany is concerned.

The plan does not go into international effect until ratified by the other powers which will call for a cessation of the reparations commission in Germany, the withdrawal of the foreign commissioners from the Reichsbank and of foreign control of the federated railways.

Doctor Discovers That Garrett Had Flat Feet

Dr. John A. Foley's statement that Oliver B. Garrett had slightly flat feet caused a hearty laugh in the throng attending the public hearing at the State House today

"Except for slightly flat feet," said Dr. Foley, qualifying his statement that Garrett's physical condition was normal.

POWER CO. OWNS PAPER STOCK

Washington, March 12 (INS)—Testimony to the effect the American Gas & Electric Company does not own stock in any newspapers, but that the Appalachian Power Company, a subsidiary, does hold 240 shares of preferred in the United Newspapers, Inc., of Wheeling, W. Va., which was taken in part payment for a debt, was presented to the Federal Trade Commission by H. M Sawyer, vice-president of the American Company at the resumption of hearings today on the financial structure of the American Company.

He said the Appalachian Company also held 276 shares of preferred stock in the Wheeling Intelligencer and the Wheeling News as collateral security for a debt, and that it could not be voted.

Asked if the Appalachian, through owning stock in the United Newspapers, had anything to do with the policy of the paper, Sawyer replied, "emphatically no."

Ex-Hub Cop's Illness Causes Tie in Town Election

Meredith, N. H., March 12—The illness of a former Boston policeman at his place of retirement here caused a tie in the election of first selectman here. Austin Moulton, the Democratic candidate, received 311 votes, and so did Ralph Whiting, deputy sheriff. So at a cost of $125, a special town meeting will be held in two weeks to vote again for the position.

The sick former policeman is Munroe Garland, who used to be a cop in Dorchester. He was so ill that his wife, who had intended to vote for Whiting, had to stay home and nurse him. The couple are living on a farm in Meredith Neck, about seven miles from Meredith Town Hall.

100 INJURED IN RUMANIAN RIOT

Bucharest, March 12 (INS)—More than 100 persons were injured today, some of them seriously, when a mob of Rumanian students stormed the Town Hall of Klausenburg during a demonstration against Jews and Hungarians studying at the university here.

After the students took possession of the Town Hall they resisted efforts of police and a detachment of troops to get them out of the building. During the clash the students hurled stones and other missiles at the police and troops from windows and roofs.

The students were not routed until the troops charged them with bayonets.

Among the injured were many women.

CHARGES SALEM IN GAS DEAL

Salem city authorities approved the new schedule of the Salem Gas Light Co., on an understanding that the Eastern Massachusetts Light Co. would erect a $5,000,000 plant there. City Solicitor Louis F. O'Keefe of Peabody charged before the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission, on the protest of the mayor of Peabody against the new schedule of rates.

Vernon M. F Tallman, an expert witness for the company, informed the commission that the new schedule, based on last year's consumption, would reduce the company's income by $6000, but maintained it would ultimately bring about increased sales to domestic users which has been hampered, he said, because of the present flat rate.

Henry F. Knight, general counsel for the company, told the commission that the new schedule was filed to allow the company to increase its sales.

The hearing will be resumed at the State House March 20 at 10:30 a. m.

URGES SALE OF INCINERATOR

For the first time in 20 years a Cambridge mayor appeared before the City Council when Mayor Richard M. Russell asked for a suspension of rules in order that unemployment in the city "the worst in its history," might be relieved.

Mayor Russell asked that the council agree to sell the city incinerator to the Daggett Chocolate Co. for $25,000. The company wants the incinerator in order to construct an addition to its candy factory.

In his plea for immediate action Mayor Russell said that the construction of the addition to the chocolate factory and the extra persons to be employed in the larger plant will help toward relieving unemployment.

The council referred the matter to the committee on public property which will meet officials of the chocolate company today. There will be a special meeting of the City Council tomorrow night to act on the matter.

Haiti Needs Marines, Says Gen. Russell

Washington, March 12 (INS)—Haitians need the U. S. Marines for some time to come, Brig.-Gen. John M. Russell, U. S. M. C., American high commissioner at Port au Prince, said in his annual report for 1929, made public by the State Department.

The report covers the disorders of last December which resulted in the killing of 10 Haitians by a Marine rifle volley. Russell attributed the disorders to disgruntled politicians.

Hartford, Ct., March 12 (AP)—The slayer of Mrs. Frances Sylvester, 50, mother of 12 children, left no clues, police said today.

The body, with head crushed in and clothes torn, was found in underbrush near the Connecticut boulevard in East Hartford, her home. Her purse containing $5 was found in her pocket.

A high school girl was attacked there by a negro several months ago. Her screams attracted a passer-by, and the assailant fled.

Playwright Dunning and Girl Injured

Bridgeport, Ct., March 12 (AP)—Philip Dunning of Westport, playwright and theatrical producer, was under observation today in Bridgeport Hospital with possible internal injuries and an injury to his back received in a fall into a gasoline station oil pit.

The accident occurred while he was going to the aid of Miss Jessie G. Henry, who had fallen into the same pit as she was getting into an automobile.

JOB DEADLINE CASE CITED

In answer to Dr George M. Kline's request for details to substantiate the charges that the State Department of Mental Diseases had established a "dead line" in age for applicants, John J. Walsh, chairman of the Civil Service Committee of the State Department of the American Legion, wrote the commissioner.

He stated that a veteran, qualified in every way, had been refused a job as engineer at the Danvers State Hospital because he was over 40.

Dr. Kline told Walsh previously that he had not heard of any "dead line" for applicants and asked for a specific instance.

Hope for Big Steel Merger Fades Out

Youngstown, O., March 12 (AP)—Merger with the Bethlehem Steel Co. was before directors of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., today with all indications pointing to failure at the outset.

An all-day conference of millionaire steel leaders involved was held in Cleveland in what was considered an effort to overcome Ohio opposition to the consolidation. It believed opponents of the merger won out. Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who attempted to include the Youngstown company in the recently created Republic Steel Corporation, declined to make a statement, but his hearing indicated his interests had halted the merger.

$1,000,000 Bangor Will in Spanish

Bangor, Me., March 12 (AP)—The will of Wilson D. Wing, lumberman, written in Spanish in Chili in 1889 and disposing of an estate estimated in excess of $1,000,000, was filed for probate today.

The document provides for the creation of a trust fund of $100,000, the income to be divided among the three children, Adeline and Caroline of Bangor, and Wilson G. Wing of Providence, R. I. The widow is named residuary legatee.

5,000,000 Slaves, Asserts Lady Simon

Nottingham, England, March 12 (AP)—Lady Simon is authority for the statement that 5,000,000 human beings in the world are in slavery. She so informed the National Council of Evangelical Free Churches.

CLAIMS FULLER TARGET OF BILL

A bill to amend the election laws to compel independent candidates to file their papers at the same time that candidates file in the primaries, which is now in final stage of passage in the House and Senate, was today characterized as a move to "clip the wings" of former Governor Fuller, by Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware.

Sawyer attempted to amend the bill by having it take effect in 1931 The move was defeated. Sawyer pointed out that the former Governor has been holding over the heads of the Republican leaders the threat that he will run as an independent in the event that a candidate not to his liking is named in the G. O. P. primary.

"If this bill is signed by the governor," said Sawyer, "it removes the Fuller threat because if he wants to run as an independent he must file before the primary takes place. As the law stands at present he could file independent papers after the primary."

Lindbergh's Mother May Lose Detroit Job

Detroit, March 12—The board of education, following the lead of the City Council, which recently ordered about 1700 men employed in various city departments discharged, is considering discharging all married women, aliens or non-residents of Detroit.

Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, mother of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, is one of those who would be discharged if the resolution before the board of education is passed.

Stock Sales Banned Until Fraud Trial

New York, March 12 (AP)—A preliminary injunction restraining Howard-H. Under, chairman of the board of Bankers' Capital Corp., from further sales of stock until his trial on fraudulent stock sale charges is held, was obtained today by William H. Mitholland, deputy assistant attorney-general.

The Bankers' Capital Corp., the Bankers' Capital Co. and the Bankers' Financial Trust also are named in the injunction.

Confidence Man Takes Over $100,000

New York, March 12—A man "in a cream-colored office coat" gained the confidence of a Wall Street messenger, took a package containing $100,000 in securities from him and escaped.

The theft occurred in the heart of the financial district, where scores of plain clothes detectives were on duty Louis Moorehead, 56-year-old messenger, was the victim.

COLBY'S PREXY SAYS COLLEGE CRUSHES PLAY

The United States is becoming a nation of "vociferous rooters" rather than of "participating sportsmen," getting exercises vicariously, demanding that the game be short and snappy and result in victory on our side, so that we may pay our bets and get home in time for dinner. That is the warning of Franklin W. Johnson, president of Colby College, in an exclusive article penned today for International News Service.

By FRANKLIN W. JOHNSON,
President of Colby College.

Waterville, Me., March 12 (INS)—The recent report of the Carnegie Foundation dealing with what may be called the "shady side" of college athletics has attracted wide attention.

An earlier report, from the same source, on athletic sports in English universities was of more value to the thoughtful reader, though less interesting to the general public.

This report revealed a marked difference in the attitude of English and American students toward athletics and provided an explanation for the fact that the recruiting and other undesirable practices found in many American colleges are unknown in similar institutions in England.

Our interest in highly specialized sports and the perfection of team work tends to limit the number of participants to a few and to aim at the production of a machine that will work with unerring precision. The spirit of play, which is essential to a justification of our sports on educational grounds is in large measure crushed out.

The gruelling grind to which our teams are subjected aims to provide a spectacle for the multitude and to win a championship for alma mater.

The games which receive most attention in college are suitable only for youth and provide little training and small incentive for the development of habits of healthful, physical recreation in adult life.

The result is that we are becoming a nation of vociferous rooters rather than of participating sportsmen. We get our exercises vicariously, demanding only that the game be short and snappy and result in victory for our side, so that we may pay our bets and get home in time for dinner and the evening's game of bridge.

2 Slain in Battle of Rival Bootlegs

Williamson, W. Va., March 12 (INS)—Two men are dead, another is seriously wounded and a fourth is in jail here today, while authorities of three states, West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia, are investigating details of a battle in the mountain fastness of the tri-state border region, which is believed to have climaxed the meeting of rival "moonshine" bands.

Ontario Divorce Court Bill Killed

Ottawa, March 12 (AP)—A bill to establish a divorce court in the Province of Ontario was defeated in the House of Commons by one vote. The division was 78 for, 79 against.

Liberals and Conservatives broke party lines while progressive, labor and agricultural members supported the bill. Premier W. L. MacKenzie King and R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, were paired. A similar measure was defeated at the last session.

20,000 SHOWER GOLD ON GANDHI IN HIS MARCH

Ahmadabad, India, March 12 (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, and 79 of his disciples today completed the first lap of their 20-day march to Jalalpur, inaugurating their civil disobedience campaign for complete Indian independence.

About 20,000 persons gathered at the entrance of Gandhi's quarters when the mahatma and his followers set out and showered money upon him.

The procession then traversed the road to the village of Asali which was reached after a four hours' march. About 125 were in the group then. About 100 townsmen with flags, garlands and music received the marchers.

Gandhi plans to remain in Asali today making one public address when a purse will be presented to him in behalf of the villagers.

Several film camera men accompanied the marchers.

The secretary of the Gujaret provincial congress committee in a message to Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the All-India Congress, said Gandhi began his civic disobedience march amidst unforgettable scenes unprecedented in the history of Gandhi's seminary.

Millionaires and laborers, he said, vied with each other in wishing godspeed to the marching column. Thousands of men, women and children followed the procession for miles in orderly array, while thousands lined the route and showered coins, currency notes, flowers and saffron on the mahatma.

Rioting Breaks Out in Bombay as Gandhi Starts

Bombay, India, March 12 (AP)—Disorders occurred in Bombay today as a consequence of demonstrations in celebration of Mahatma Gandhi's inauguration of the civil disobedience campaign at Ahmadabad.

Showcases were smashed in two provision stores when a crowd parading through the streets saw European customers inside. Windows of the offices of The Times of India were also smashed.

Miss Madeline Slade, an Englishwoman, resident in India, has become a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi and is urging complete independence for the British possessions in Hindustan and Indo China.

Hub Doctor Wins Paris House Drive

Paris, March 12 (AP)—America's contribution to the International University City, building on the outskirts of Paris, is almost completed and will be dedicated April 28.

The American House was not projected until several buildings had already been erected and were occupied. Under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Homer Gage, Boston, a campaign for funds was organized in the United States. Paris Americans donated $50,000.

Czech Poet Dies

HOLD SUSPECT IN MAIL PLOT TO POISON

Skowhegan, Me., March 12 (AP)—Ivan Williamson, 42-year-old Madison mechanic, today was held in $1000 bail for a continued hearing on a charge of attempted murder by sending poison through the mail.

The warrant on which Williamson was arrested at Madison alleged an attempt on the life of Ross Snell of Madison. Although but one charge was lodged against Williamson, Sheriff Elton L. Markham of Somerset County said he believed Williamson was also responsible for letters containing poison and directions for taking prepared for six other Madison residents.

Williamson, who retained Mayor Harold L. Dubord of Waterville as counsel, did not plead and the continued hearing was set for Madison on March 20. Sheriff Markham said Williamson had been questioned for several hours, but made no statements.

Union Cemetery Will Be Closed

At a meeting of the health commissioners held at City Hall today it was voted that Union Cemetery in South Boston would be permanently closed by the city and that work to beautify and perpetuate the old burial ground would be started at once.

WHALEN'S 'RED' WAR TO GO ON

New York, March 12 (AP)—Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen today defended his action in giving names of Communists to their employers as being an effort to block mass action.

He made his statement after 18 Columbia University professors had voiced criticism of the campaign to weed Communists out of industrial organizations.

"Any man or woman," said Mr. Whalen, "has the same right to be a Communist that he or she has to be Democrats, Republican, churchman or atheist, provided always that he or she keeps within the law and confines his or her Communism to discussion and acts which are lawful.

"Where we have definite information of plans to commit crime that includes, among other things, the placing of men in certain organizations or businesses, it is our duty to block such plans."

Italian Troops in Battle in Tripoli

Rome, March 12 (AP)—The war department today announced that a battle was fought March 6 between Italian native troops in the south of Tripoli and a fleeing rebel tribe headed by the chieftain Suleiman Sefennaser.

The chief and one son were among those killed. The chief's widow and five other sons were captured when the whole caravan was taken. Sefennaser was one of the outstanding figures of the Tripoli rebellion.

CONVICTS RUIN PRISON GOODS

Wethersfield, Conn., March 12 (AP)—Convicts employed in the shirt making shops at Connecticut state prison have destroyed by slashing a considerable quantity of finished goods ready for shipment, it was disclosed today by Warden Charles S. Reed.

The value of the shirts was placed at about $600. Warden Reed said that spiteful prisoners frequently destroy shirts when guards are elsewhere.

In the past the destructive tendencies of prisoners have been laid to alleged grievances as to their food. The prison administration says that prisoners are now fed better than formerly, having steak and griddle cakes as a part of their regular menu instead of goulash.

Condemns Age Ban On Employment

Editor Boston American:

These people who have nothing else to do but write up fool systems that bar young men 25 to 40 years old from a chance to earn an honest living should be sent to a brain specialist for observation.

Some "smart" Republicans predicted that if Al Smith was elected the stock market would crash, factories would lay off men and we would have hard times and unemployment. But the wind turned in another direction, so the ineffecient G. O. P. is to blame. W. J. H.

Mental Culture Way to Happiness

Editor Boston American:

Real mental culture consists of conflicts between the intellect and the emotions. The battle is sometimes long drawn and hard fought, but reason must finally be victorious or chaos will reign.

The hatred complex or emotion is closely associated with anger, envy and revenge. Hatred and revenge are twin demons, which together with their wicked offsprings, scorn and contempt, do so much to wreck human happiness and produce the sorrow of the world.

These emotions arise from the natural human instincts and cannot be suppressed, but may be sublimated or tempered with tolerance.

Unemployment, unfair, immoral, unpopular laws circumvent the basic biologic life urge for freedom, happiness and prosperity and breed hatred, revenge crime and revolution.

The unemployed might derive great benefit from physical culture provided they had some food to digest in the process. There is, however, plenty food for thought in our social problems. Let us think, analyze and form opinions. This is mental culture.

Let us control our emotions (feelings), read and think clearly, broadly; unbiased by race, religious or political prejudice. Then justice, happiness and prosperity will gradually replace injustice, crime and misery.

Let us go to the polls with a firm resolution and cast our ballot for the common good unswayed by political bombast commonly called "bunk."

Vets Urged to Aid Bonus Measure

Editor Boston American:

Hon. William P. Connery, Jr., of Lynn, is boosting the immediate payment of the soldiers' adjusted service certificate, which calls for the full face value on the certificate. I would like to have all the vets that are in favor of this bill write to their senators and congressmen, asking them for a speedy passage of the bill.

I have received between 6000 and 7000 signatures and Post 6 and Post 291 both of Lynn and Post 210 of Saugus, American Legion, have gone on record as being in favor of the bill. This bill is sponsored by the Hon. Wright Patman of Texas. Get going vets and help us out. Bill Connery is a World War vet and is trying to push the bill through.

Criticizes Mayor Of Somerville

Editor Boston American:

It seems strange that Mayor Murphy of Somerville should be bounded and need a bodyguard to protect him from job hunters. Hasn't every mayor of any city had the same experience? He should have thought of the situation when he was running for the office.

He should see that the citizens of the city get jobs, and not outsiders. Whatever building work that is going on in the city employs aliens, as well as the manufacturing plants and warehouses of Somerville. The mayor has established a municipal employment office which is a farce in every way. What the people of Somerville want is a mayor who is on the job in City Hall, where he belongs, not one that is telephoning from some remote place every half hour. J. J. S.

Sees British Law India's Salvation

Editor Boston American:

In reading the Boston Evening American, I saw among the quotations about Gandhi one which is quite misleading.

The Sepoy Rebellion, or mutiny was caused by dissatisfaction, but brought to a head by the British soldiers having to grease their cartridges with "pig fat," which was against the religion in India, and therefore repugnant. The British soldiers did it always, but the native soldiers rebelled.

The native soldiers were not placed in a cannon but in front of it and blown to pieces. Nothing to what they did to English residents.

India is not a unified nation and if the British flag should go down there would be war between the different nationalities. British law and order saves India and China from chaos.

CHARGE HUSTON G. O. P. CHIEF, HIDES DATA

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, testified before the Senate lobby committee today that he knew nothing of missing records of the Tennessee River Improvement Association.

Called concerning his knowledge of activities in connection with Muscle Shoals legislation Huston, a former president of the improvement organization, said W. Worthington, executive chairman of the association, was probably the only person who could give the committee the desired information.

Chairman Caraway charged that Worthington was "dodging" the committee. After Huston said the secretary was ill in Detroit, Caraway remarked he would remain "sick" until there was no danger the committee would question him.

Huston said his former organization had collected between $400,000 and $500,000 since it was created several years ago.

Caraway broke in sharply at one time to assert that Huston had told the committee nothing it did not already know.

"You are concealing information," Caraway charged.

'I have concealed nothing," Huston replied quietly.

Caraway came back by declaring Huston some years ago had been charged before a Senate committee with "getting money and keeping it" in connection with expenses of delegates to a Republican convention in Cleveland.

Asked if that "were not embarrassing," the Republican chairman answered:

"I have never been embarrassed by anything of that kind."

Huston, who denied reports that he was to resign as Republican chairman, said he had discussed with President Hoover "the erroneous information about my connection with Muscle Shoals and my retorted resignation," but he gave no details of the interview.

Before Huston became Republican chairman, a few months ago he was president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association which has advocated the bid of the American Cyanamid Company to lease Muscle Shoals.

Rainy Sundays Boost Letter Writing at Smith College

Northampton, March 12—At Smith College Sunday is a popular day for the mail (and there is no mistake in the spelling).

The college has completed a survey showing that the student writes an average of 2 1-11 letters every Sunday that the sun shines. When it rains, correspondence is heavier.

That makes a total of about 3203 letters written by 2000 students every Sabbath.

About 200 students receive "special deliveries" regularly every week. (And in this connection the other spelling may go.)

NEW SIX COMING TO SELL UNDER $900 FIGURE

Detroit, Mich., March 12.—With the peak spring buying season just around the corner, motor circles here are stirred with persistent reports that a leading manufacturer soon will introduce a new car, presumably a six, fully equipped at a factory price well below $900. The announcement of this car is expected to be made about the middle of March.

The usual experts are still at a loss for detailed information concerning this latest "mystery car," but there seems to be no doubt of its sensational performance in road tests over the country. The body is believed to be an exclusive development of the all-metal type. The engine is said to incorporate many mechanical refinements with accessories and equipment usually found on higher-priced cars.

With approximately 78 per cent of all cars registered selling below $1000, it is easy to account for the public interest manifest in rumors of any new car that is to be introduced in this popular price class. Volume production of automobile factories and continued economies effected in manufacturing processes enable the public to continue to enjoy more performance, style and comfort for their automotive dollar than at any time in the history of the industry.

HENSHAW NEW EXECUTIVE FOR BUICK

Charles S. Henshaw, well-known automotive executive, returned this week to active participation in the car merchandising branch of the industry as manager of the Noyes Buick Sales Co., announced by H. K. Noyes, president.

P. A. Eddy, his predecessor, has been assigned the Central Connecticut territory, and will be manager of the Capitol Buick Co. of Hartford.

Mr. Henshaw brings to Buick the experience of a varied and outstanding career in the automotive field. He entered the industry first as representative of the New York Tire Co. in the Eastern States, and later of the De Dion Bouton Motor Co. During 1902 he joined E. R. Thomas of Buffalo in the manufacture and distribution of the Thomas "Flyer" automobile, remaining with him up to 1912. He then became associated with former Governor Alvan T. Fuller as general sales manager of the Packard Motor Co., holding that position until 1914, when he was chosen by Dodge Brothers as their representative for the Boston Dodge Brothers organization, which in the ensuing years Henshaw built up to a force of several hundred employes, marketing 25,000 vehicles, with annual volume running into millions of dollars.

"The Golden Rocket demonstration featuring the superior performance of the new Oakland V-type eight on the streets of Boston is meeting with enthusiastic public response," says Dwight T. Hersey of the local Oakland-Pontiac distributors.

"Hundreds of persons already have taken advantage of the opportunity to ride in the Golden Rocket cars. Each day sees a greater number of volunteer passengers. We hope that before March 31 about everybody in the city will have had a ride in the new Oakland eight, as its many features of comfort and performance may be fully appreciated.

That the new De Soto Straight Eight is the lowest-priced Eight in the world is only one of the many appeals that this car is making to thousands of buyers. It is distinctly the kind of car that gives no hint of low price in any characteristic.

It is a big car—roomy and comfortable. It is a powerful car that gets away like a flash, and is capable of sustained high speed. Its Unisteel type of body and chassis construction affords new measures of sturdiness and safety. And its mechanical features and equipment parallel those found in Eights selling for hundreds of dollars more.

There is nothing commonplace about the De Soto Straight Eight—despite its low price. And, anyone who will spend five minutes behind the wheel will find that there is far more to recommend its ownership than its low price—sensational as that is.

SOME DESIRABLE TERRITORY OPEN TO DEALERS

SPRING SALE BY OLDSMOBILE VIKING

As part of a nation-wide prosperity movement to inaugurate an early spring buying season, a sale of used automobiles was opened Saturday by Oldsmobile-Viking dealers in Metropolitan Boston. The sale will continue for a week longer.

This sale, held primarily to assist in leveling the peaks of seasonal buying which recently were subjected to governmental criticism, offers exceptional opportunities for the motoring public to obtain unusually fine automobiles at low cost, according to G. E. Mahoney, city sales manager for Oldsmobile-Viking.

"There are several reasons why this sale should be of particular interest to those who desire good automobiles at unusually low prices," said Mr. Mahoney. "In the first place there is a wide selection which may not be available later when the rush of spring buying opens. This wide selection has been made possible by the fine business done by Oldsmobile-Viking dealers in this locality since the first of the year, which has resulted in a good stock of quality used cars being assembled.

"In addition to this wide selection, these cars have been carefully reconditioned during the past few months which, normally, constitute the quietest season for our service department. By taking advantage of this available time the cars have been given unusual attention by our service mechanics.

"Price, of course, is another important factor. Due to the deserved popularity of Oldsmobile and Viking we have not been required to make undue allowances for cars received in trade, with the result that they have been priced in accordance with the true value they represent.

"The re-sale of automobiles is an economic factor which has proven of value to millions and has aided, in no small way in broadening the use of cars in this country by providing quality transportation at minimum cost.

"About 20,000,000 of the automobiles today being operated in this country, or approximately four-fifths of the entire number, are more than one year old. In fact, it is a truism to say that every car operating is a used car. Each and all have the same inherent value and the same number of miles of transportation whether they are in the hands of the first, second or third owner.

"Automobiles as they have been designed and built in recent years have long wearing qualities. Power plants are being made stronger and better than ever before. The use of pyroxylin paints and improved upholstery materials have added materially to the life of car beauty."

De Soto Second in Monte Carlo Rally

An American-made De Soto finished second in the recent Monte Carlo rally, European auto reliability classic, defeating a field of 24 other American cars; 36 French cars, 26 English, 21 German, 11 Italian, 2 Belgian, 2 Czecho-Slovakian, 2 Polish and a Hungarian machine. Driven by Count Albert Berlseco, the De Soto finished only .008 of a point behind the winner, Hector Petit in a French La Licorne car. Included among the 133 American and European machines entered in the annual event were some of the highest-priced motor cars of both continents.

Here's How to Test for 'Gas' Mileage

One of the best processes to test the accuracy of the gasoline system of a car is to first drain the vacuum tank and run the engine until it stops. This will be an assurance that all gasoline is removed from the carburetor bowl.

With the main tank disconnected, put one quart of gasoline in the vacuum tank and note carefully the mileage on a test run. Repeat this with three more quarts and total the results for miles per gallon figure. The cause for low mileage might be poor compression, a retarded spark, or dragging brakes.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds, bronchial troubles.

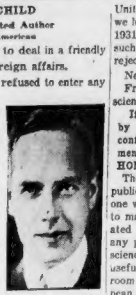
Security Pact Means U. S. Entangled, Says Child

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD
Former Ambassador to Italy, and Noted Author
Copyright, 1930, by Boston Evening American

THE United States has never been afraid to deal in a friendly way with other nations to settle our foreign affairs.

On the other hand, we have wisely refused to enter any European political system where we pawn in advance our freedom to remain aloof from affairs which are none of our business.



RICHARD W. CHILD, Former Envoy to Italy, and Noted Writer.

There are many propagandists, professors and others who want to shake an empty basket of peace-oats to get us into the European corral. They always try to confuse our desire for peace—our willingness to deal with others directly and generously and fearlessly—with a supposed duty to join some United States of Europe.

No better instance of this has ever been seen than in the case of the present Naval Conference in London.

We were able to build a navy equal to that of Great Britain, plus Japan's, but we went to London saying, "We will reduce navies if you will; we are for peace and for relieving taxpayers everywhere of the unnecessary burdens of any naval race."

What do we get for our pains?

We get an invitation to enter a pony League of European Nations; to enter as a MINORITY member.

Some gullible Americans actually fail to see that if we enter any agreement to "consult with European nations in case of a threat of European war," we would be doing precisely what we would do on larger scale if we went up to the front door of the Big League run by the European Powers and jumped in—mouth first.

In either case what we are asked to do is to agree in advance that we will sit in at the European game any time IN THE FUTURE.

As a price for our efforts to get naval reduction we are asked to join this new Bush League of Nations. The fact that we are all there merely to "consult" does not, as any practical international politician knows, help us at all. A "consultation" always has the purpose of deciding something just as the "consultations" of the Big League are aimed at deciding something.

Security, but Not Ours

The case might be of some threatened row which was none of our business. We can always by our own free will make rows our business. If some wily European diplomats had their way we would be—a minority member—in a diplomatic hole—losing some nation's friendship — perhaps all nations friendship—in the snarl!

If we enter any "security pact" the case is worse—worse perhaps than entering the Big European League itself.

What the mothers and fathers of America want less than anything is to see their sons drafted for any war because we have signed any security pact.

But a security pact is not a pact for our security, but for some foreign nation's security. It is a pact for us to make war to guarantee the security of foreign nations. It is a MILITARY ALLIANCE.

We want no military alliances with European nations in advance of some future European brawl.

We refused to enter the League because we wanted to keep out of brawls. We did not care to take responsibility for their settlement.

We entered the World War as a free agent. We can always do that again. Do not forget it.

These agreements to "consult" or agreements to enter security - pact - military-alliances are not for us.

Are we asleep here in America as our representatives walk along near the edge of a diplomatic chasm, lured by talk of world pacifism and teased forward by "fraternity?"

A Prodigious Folly

Does anyone fail to see that it is just as bad to be wheedled into the Ladies' Entrance of some pony-League of Europe—and sometimes worse—as it is to back down on our firm National decision and then go into the Big United States of Europe League amid the cheers of all American super-sentimentalists and the chuckles of all Europe's patient propagandists.

America will continue to support measures for peace, mind her own business and deal openly and courageously with problems AS THEY ARISE.

Getting handcuffed to any United States of Europe so that we lose our freedom of action in 1931 or 1950 or 2000 A. D. is such a prodigious folly that we reject it.

Neighborliness today.

Freedom to use our own conscience tomorrow.

If that policy is endangered by our presence at a naval conference to reduce armament, WE SHOULD COME HOME AT ONCE.

The yardstick for American public opinion on this subject is one which limits our obligations to matters which can be negotiated today. Beyond that limit any proposal to check our conscience, our free agency or our useful isolation in the cloakroom of the theater of European difficulties is to be vetoed by Americans with all their good sense AND VIGOR.

MYSTERY THEFT OF PAINTINGS

London, March 12 (AP)—Mystery today surrounded reported disappearance of 18 paintings which the owner of Carlton House Galleries here announced had been stolen from him.

Police were told they included four Rembrandts and works of Rubens, Van Dyke, Gainsborough and other famous painters. The total value was said to be many thousands of pounds.

Police were reported saying that if the pictures were stolen they must have been taken while the building was open.

Florence, Italy, March 12 (AP)—A 14th century painting depicting the Virgin and Child, said to be of great value, has been stolen from the Petrina Church at Montalone.

Chance for Boston Experts Pan Teams A Golfing Millionaire

EXPERTS are unanimous in picking the Boston teams to finish in the cellar; so the boys have some chance—the experts pick 'em in the spring, but never mention that in the fall; it goes under the head of unfinished business—an expert is in a tough spot: if he's right, the boys say things are in the bag—when he's wrong, which is generally, what they say to and about him is nobody's business.

Einstein must have made out that intricate hockey playoff schedule—it's a common proposition, which was okay when the game was just a little thing—now that it's big business, it's all sour. A change will be made soon—there's too much chance for the fining and buriapping charges—the racketeers haven't invaded hockey yet, but they're likely to chisel in any time—those boys are harder to keep out than mosquitos—they believe in variety and always are looking for the change—spring is here, but hockey keeps on to the last possible playoff.

SONNENBERG is going to wrestle in Australia. Then for the first time in his career, he will be down under.

PRIMO CARNERA denies he is engaged to London girl; it likes these American engagements much better—Judge Landis refuses to let ball clubs travel by air; a couple of crashes would drop him out of a $65,000 job—Dassy Vance gets the hop on his fast one from that Fountain of Youth he has discovered—Knute Rockne has tossed away his crutches: it's time for spring practice at South Bend—Uncle Wilbert Robinson says his team will be a pennant contender: it's just a spring habit—Bill Tilden keeps winning in Nice tourney; that's nice—Henry Lamar fouled in the first round of his comeback; that makes him some kind of a contender—appendicitis operation may prevent Lloyd Waner from starting season with the Pirates: that cut hurt the whole team.

ONE cannot blame the boys who howl:
They pay five bucks, and see a foul.

GREAT racket, this pro golf. Horton Smith of the winsome smile was unknown two years ago. Now he's on the way to millions. He copped a flock of tournaments in the winter campaign of '28 and kept going through the summer. He collected his dollars where he found them this winter along the sun kissed stretches of California, Texas and Florida.

Now he has been signed up by the world's most exclusive golf club — an outfit in New York that none but millionaires may join. He will get a large salary for the use of his name, and meanwhile will trickle around the land, shooting the big money matches.

He's only a kid, but he has earned more than $100,000 in a pair of forays. He will be a millionaire before many more seasons pass, unless he loses a leg, or suddenly goes blind. It's a great racket, for the boys, with the stuff, like the fight game.

But before you take it up, consider the thousands who waste their best young years, trying to cut into the golden circle. Shattered dreams do not make the march back to the factory any happier, or ease the strain of riding the bumpers. And many a hopeful kid edged back home that way from the Southern battlefields in the last few years.

STANISLAW PETKIEWICZ ran out on Latvia, wherever that is, so now he can't run here. The League should do something about that.

DID you know that Holy Cross and Georgetown are about the only two colleges in the country that make money on baseball—that Lou Magnolia is making a bit of a pest of himself explaining that Miami verdict—that blondes in Miami wear a dime a dozen—that most smart card players can deal a bridge hand of 13 trumps—that the boys all are trickling back into the market—that Johnny Risko is the most satisfactory workman of all the heavyweights—that we have not previously mentioned Babe Ruth; or Sharkey; or Phil Scott—that that's a record.

Frank Boucher Out With Bad Injury

New York, March 12 (INS)—Frank Boucher, New York Ranger center, was suffering from a broken collarbone today as a result of the hard hockey played in a 3-to-3 tie between the New Yorkers and Les Canadiens.

YALE FAVORED TO CAPTURE ICE SERIES

Tonight's Lineup

Referees—Ag Smith and Donald Smith.

Time—Three 20-minute periods.

Although the Boston Garden is three-quarters sold for the third and final game between Harvard and Yale tonight, the Harvard A. A. announced that there will be enough tickets on sale to take care of the last minute rush.

A few thousand tickets were still on hand at noon.

WITH the Elis a 10-to-6 favorite, Harvard and Yale face off in the deciding game of the three-match hockey series at the Garden tonight.

16,000 people will jam the big sporting palace to the rafters as the traditional college rivals go to battle in the deciding game.

Harvard, with one leg on the title and decidedly on the short end of the betting odds, is ready to make the fight of their lives for this all important victory. Yale's sextet is equally anxious to come through on the winning side, and justify their claim as the greatest college hockey team ever assembled.

The Crimson sextet has slipped considerably from the power they showed in dropping Yale at New Haven in the first game. In fact, those who have followed the checkered career of Coach Stubbs's stick handlers claim they have gone stale.

Coach Joe Stubbs himself, however, is not convinced that the Harvard team has gone so far off form that they cannot give Yale a merry battle on ice tonight.

Over-Anxiousness Blamed for Harvard's Defeat

Stubbs declared after that second game in which Yale skated to an easy 3-1 win, that Harvard was simply over anxious to settle the series. The players were not following his instructions as they should, and consequently the New Haven aggregation had an easy time of it.

To see Harvard with five men making futile attempts to score on Yale when only two Elt skaters and a goalie were on the ice would seem to bear out the truth of what the Harvard coach says. The Cantabs forgot they were dealing with a team that could outskate and outshoot them.

Yale arrived in Boston today looking the picture of confidence. The Noblemen are set on tripping John Harvard in this final game and are anxious to tuck the final decision away in their bag of tricks.

The stage is set and the players are ready. If the battle is anything like the third game at New Haven a year ago, when Harvard went down to a glorious defeat after four overtime periods, the fans are in for the best hockey show of the season.

CARNERA K. O.'S MONTGOMERY

Minneapolis, March 12 (AP)—Bully Montgomery, once famous as a Center College gridder and weighing 220 pounds, today is the newest member of the society of American first nighters who have been knocked out by Primo Carnera, the ninth to gain admission since the Italian giant's invasion of the United States got under way.

Montgomery was willing but his battle ardor cooled early in the initial round of a bout scheduled for 10 rounds last night and he was staggering as he sought his corner when the bell rang ending the first round. A flurry of gloves from the 275-pound Alpine slugger in the second round sent Montgomer- to the canvas twice, the second time to stay, when the round was only 1 minute 15 seconds old.

First K. O. for Kane

M.A.C. to Have Soccer Team Next Fall

Amherst, March 1—Following an informal trial of the sport last Friday, announcement was made today that M. A. C. would put a varsity soccer team on the field for the first time next fall, and play the following six-game schedule: Oct. 4, Worcester Tech at M. A. C.; 11, Fitchburg Normal at Fitchburg; 18, Springfield at Springfield; 30, Amherst at M. A. C.; Nov. 8, M. I. T. at Cambridge; 15, Connecticut Aggies at M. A. C.

Joseph Johnston of Wakefield, former first-division halfback and coach of the Montreal Gsenadiers and now enrolled at the greenkeepers' school at M. A. C., will be the speaker at a meeting of candidates tomorrow night.

'Gas House Rules' for Old Timers Game

Next Saturday night, March 15, at the Boston Y. M. H. A. gymnasium, the Old Timers from the West End House and the "Y" on Beaver st., are to meet in their annual basketball game.

Many stars of former days will be found on the lineup of each team. The West End House will be represented by such men as Davey Klein, Charlie Meirick, Al Seidenberg, Sid Smith, Moe Rowe, Butch Levine, Sam Krivitzky, Joe Singer, Ernie Burnce, Joe Blumenthal, Joe Krafeur, John Donnelly, and Fritzy Saperstein.

The Y. M. H. A. will depend on George Richmond, Ben Rubin, Sam Rivkind, Dave Bugatein, Sam Fanger, Henry Semansky, Dan Rotman, Jack Tushins, Red Golner, Doc Fine, and Nat Krock.

Councillor "Ollie" Ruby, himself an old time basketball enthusiast, will officiate. "Gas house" rules will prevail, with strangle hold barred.

BRUINS SCORE VICTORY OVER BLACKHAWKS

By BILL GRIMES

ONE more game credited to the Bruins, for they turned by Chicago, 4 to 3, last night and they now have stepped through 17 contests without suffering a defeat and incidentally been on the winning end of 11 consecutive games.

TINY THOMPSON is having trouble with a bone bruise on his right hand. After the first period he played with an extra pad on his right glove, which saved him some bad cracks, for the Hawks peppered him from all angles during the second and third chapters.

JOE COOK did a fine job on Cooney Weiland before the game. He was going to trade Cooney's old car even for a new one, but just as he was about to produce the contract for Cooney to sign, Manager Art Ross had him thrown out of the dressing room.

EARLE MILLER is one of the craftiest left wingers seen here in many moons. He was dangerous every second he was on with the puck in Boston ice. As Jimmy Herbert would say: "He is smart around that old postoffice."

THE Bruins pulled out for Chicago today on the Century. Myles Lane did not accompany the team as he was unable to afford the time from his studies at Harvard Law School.

GEORGE OWEN did a fine all-around job last night. He was in the right spot to prevent goals on at least a half dozen occasions, while offensively he was superb.

CHUCK GARDINER was fortunate that he was not seriously injured when he was struck on the side of the head by a Dit Clapper shot. Dit let one fly from the wing with more than his usual amount of loft and Gardiner's head deflected the puck high up into the crowd.

NEITHER Art Somers' game nor his actions have improved. He is making a grave mistake when he thinks he can high stick his way to fame in the N. H. L.

COONEY WEILAND scored three more goals last evening and also was credited with an assist for laying a pretty pass on Dit Clapper's stick for the odd goal. His feature stunt was the goal he scored from a face off in front of Chuck Gardiner.

WOMEN TO HOLD MEET AT GARDEN

The women's indoor national track and field championships of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States will be held in the Boston Garden, Saturday evening, April 19, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the committee on women's athletics of the New England A. A. U.

Eight title events will be contested: 40-yard and 220-yard dashes, 50-yard hurdles, 440-yard relay, eight-pound shot-put, standing broad jump, running high jump and basketball throw.

There will be an industrial 50-yard dash open to workers in any sphere of business who have not placed in a national or district championship; invitation 440-yard relay races, 50-yard dash handicap and novice 50-yard dash.

No woman will be allowed to compete in more than three events, of which not more than two shall be track events. The relay shall count as a track event. Regulation A. A. U. gold, silver and bronze championship medals will be awarded winners of first, second and third places in each championship event. Suitable prizes will be given to winners of first, second and third places in other events.

Frisch Expected to Sign Contract Today

Bradenton, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Frankie Frisch, captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, was expected in camp today with his contract signed and ready for the season's work. Chicles "Flint" Rhem, a holdout, came to terms and was in uniform yesterday afternoon.

Bad Weather Slows Up Braves

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12—It never rains in St. Petersburg, so it must be something else. But whatever it is that has been causing all the dampness hereabouts, it certainly isn't doing the Braves ball club any good.

Florida, and St. Petersburg in particular, has been noted for years as a spot where a ball club could train without fear of excessive rain. Yet three times in the past week the weatherman has ordered a deluge. Even a hurried meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, with Al Lang presiding, couldn't stop the deluge that hailed the ball game for a half hour.

Had there been four and a half innings completed at the time of the interference, the contest might have been called off altogether. In between the rainy days the air has been damp and raw, the result being that there are a number of sore throats, aching joints and lame arms in camp.

Of course, a few days of hot sunshine, of the brand for which St. Petersburg is famous, would soon mend all this. But, on the other hand, if this exceptional weather continues the Braves may suffer considerably, despite the fact that Judge Fuchs, during the past winter has had all ailing tonsils and teeth of his athletes removed.

Sect. Cunningham Confined to Bed With Sore Throat

Even Secretary Ed Cunningham has been confined to his bed with a sore throat and has been forced to forego the pleasure of counting the customers as they push their dollar bills through the box office window at Waterfront Park.

It is rather an inauspicious time for St. Petersburg to provide this

QUINN AFTER OUTFIELD BERTH

WITH any kind of a break from the weather man, Coach Joe Gilmore will take Boston University's baseball squad, 60 strong, out to Riverside today, where the Terrier diamond aspirants will go through their first workout of the year at Nickerson Field.

After three weeks of indoor drilling the boys are all primed and ready for a workout in the open.

Although the gym practice is a great conditioner, it can hardly take the place of outdoor practice on a regulation field.

For the first week the pitchers will do little or no throwing, as it is still pretty breezy and chilly out at Riverside, and the twisters will confine their efforts to chasing flies. A pitcher's legs need conditioning as much as his arm, and with this fact in mind, Coach Gilmore will see to it that his pitchers do plenty of work on the cinder track.

Nickerson Field in Shape for Practice

With close to 40 men seeking the four infield and three outfield berths, competition will be keen. Nickerson Field diamond is in splendid shape, and the infielders and outfielders will step right into the positions they are seeking and show their wares as fly chasers or grounder handlers.

As soon as the pitchers are suf-

We Know SPIT is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

... the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency ... join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Do you remember the old, filthy cigar shop where the man in the window rolled the leaves with dirty fingers... and spit on the ends? More than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit! The modern CREMO METHOD of manufacture protects you against this abomination—gives you the finest cigar quality plus the cleanliness of Certified food!

Tufts Football Candidates in First Spring Practice

FOUR VETS OF 1929 CLUB MISSING

THE Tufts varsity football candidates, who reported Monday for spring practice, will get their first bit of work today under the newly appointed coach, Lew Manly, former assistant to Arthur Sampson, who resigned to take up his duties at Columbia next fall.

Manley, who came to Tufts from Wooster College, where he was a lineman, has had four years of experience under Arthur Sampson and is expected to use his system in the coming Jumbo campaign.

About 50 candidates are expected to report for the first session, which will take the form of a blackboard talk. Inside work will probably be the main feature of the spring program, with a little conditioning exercise at the end of the spring practice.

Coach Manley will have a good veteran combination about which to build the Jumbo 1930 edition, having lost but four men from last year's team.

Tufts' Ends and Tackles Positions Remain Intact

The guard and center positions are the only ones which will cause any trouble, both Ruggeiro and Rachdorf, guards for the last two years, and Tobey, a third year center, being lost to the team.

The tackle and end positions remain intact while the backfield loses only Joe LeMaistre the big fullback.

The better than average yearling team of last fall is expected to supply enough material to plug these gaps. In Brunke, Howe, Cochran, Bennett, Belkus, Hymanson, Mann, Russell, Clayman, Clark and Uanna of last year's Cochman, the new Tufts coach has a group of men who may displace some of the regulars of the 1929 team.

Syke Rachdorf will help Manly through the spring practice in which the Tufts formations will be taught, while Godfrey, Arianson, Huber, Ingalls and Lupien will be busy with baseball and unable to take any part in the spring practice.

ficiently accustomed to the outside conditions, batting practice will get under way but at the present time the Terrier coach will not risk anyone's arm.

Stan Quinn and Santo Marino, two of the best of the Terrier football players, reported for the nine and are hot after regular jobs. Quinn is after an outfield berth and Marino will give Jake Arkin opposition at second base.

Quinn, a junior at B. U., is making his first appearance on a Terrier baseball squad. He was a star outfielder in and about Maine where he played ball for the last three summers. He is a big boy, weighing close to 200 pounds and shapes up as a heavy-sticker.

Dugan and Gumpright Seek Shortstop Berth

Marino was a sub infielder on the squad a year ago, bowing to the veteran Arkin at second base. Although Marino may not catch on as a regular he is pretty certain to stick with the squad. Bill Dugan and Andy Gumpright, subs a year ago, are fighting for the shortstop berth.

British Women's Golf Team Picked

London, March 12 (AP)—The British women's golf team to oppose the United States representatives at Sunningdale, May 1, in the first match of its kind ever held, was announced today.

It consists of Miss Molly Gourlay, captain; Miss Doris Chambers, Miss R. Corlett, Mrs. Latham Hall, Miss P. Lobbett, Miss Jean McCulloch, Miss D. Pearson, Mrs. J. B. Watson and Miss Enid Wilson.

The name of Miss Joyce Wethered, England's premier woman golfer and present holder of the national championship, is conspicuously absent from the list. Miss Wethered has chosen to retire from competitive golf because of the effort required to keep in form up to the high standard necessary.

Glenna Collett, American champion, who beat Miss Wethered a year ago in a memorable match for the British title, will lead the invading Americans.

Freddy Lindstrom and Terry Report

San Antonio, Tex., March 12 (AP)—Big Bill Terry and Freddy Lindstrom, big guns of the New York Giants' attack, finally have reported for work, but both are somewhat the worse for wear.

Lindstrom, who has not yet signed a contract, finished his first workout with a blister on his throwing hand, while Terry didn't earn wait for his first practice to complain of a sore thumb. He had it when he came to camp.

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

3 QUEENS OF THE SHINING LANES WHO HAVESCORED MANY STRIKES

Agnes Kovar — Katharine McArdle — Mary Murphy

Bowling, like all other lines of sport, has found women keen competitors for the honors won on the shining alleys. Hundreds of women in New England have taken up the sport with enthusiasm that outrivals the men in many cases. The Boston Evening American photographer, in his wanderings about town, happened in at the Recreation Alleys and found Misses Agnes Jean Kovar, Katherine McArdle and Mary Murphy of the United Shoe Machinery League getting in a few practice rolls before taking part in the weekly roll-off of the team.

BAD WEATHER HURTS BRAVES

type of weather. For both the Boston and New York ball clubs end their contracts for playing in this town this year.

Al Lang has been dogging the footsteps of both Judge Fuchs and Col. Ruppert with blank contracts and a ready fountain pen.

No doubt both gentlemen will sign for another training spell in St. Petersburg, as both the judge and the colonel realize that the customary St. Pete weather is ideal for baseball training purposes.

But then, it is providing a grand opportunity for Phoenix, Ariz., and other rival towns to do a bit of propaganda and Al is just a bit worried at present.

Bill McKechnie is having a bit of worry himself. Bill is beginning to see that he hasn't quite enough pitchers in camp to toss 'em up in batting practice, morning and afternoon, and to pitch in the exhibition game which are scheduled for every day including Sundays.

Ray Mitchell Reports to Coach McKechnie

The arrival in camp today of Ray Mitchell, veteran twirler of the Fresno Club, was almost a godsend. When Ray approached McKechnie and asked permission to work out with the team, Bill fell on his neck and wept tears of joy.

The Braves have but 12 pitchers in camp, while most of the other clubs in Florida have at least 20. With several of the flingers suffering with lame wings and Bob Smith's bad finger, there is a real scarcity.

One advantage of this scarcity is that the younger members of the crew are able to get on the mound and gain a bit of experience throwing them up to Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

We doubt however, judging by the way the Yankees have been smacking their offerings, the rookie youngsters fully appreciate this advantage.

Crucial Court Game for Lions and Penn

New York, March 12 (AP)—The crucial battle of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League will be fought at the Palestra in Philadelphia tonight between Columbia and Penn, sole contenders for the 1930 championship.

Penn, title-holders in 1928 and 1929, must conquer the high scoring New York outfit to remain in the chase. Columbia, in any event, can get nothing worse than a tie in the final standing. If Penn can turn back the Lions and then conquer Princeton in the final game of the season at Philadelphia Saturday,

May Add Lacrosse to Tufts Sport List

Prof. Clarence P. Houston, director of physical education at Tufts College, announced today that lacrosse might be adopted as a sport at Tufts College if student interest in the game warranted it. If Tufts has a team they will be coached by Dr. James Bragger of Boston, who captained the Harvard lacrosse outfit several years ago. He will be assisted by Charles E. Marsters, Boston Lacrosse Club.

Marjorie Morrill in Third Round

Miss Marjorie Morrill advanced to the third round in the women's singles of the Boston city and district badminton championship at the University Club, by defeating two opponents.

In a first-round match, she eliminated Mrs. W. S. Febiger, 11—0, 11—0, and later defeated Mrs. L. W. Pierce, in the second round, 11—3, 11—3.

'Learn to Swim' Class at Boston Y. M. C. A.

In promoting a learn to swim campaign among the boys of the Boston Y. M. C. A., swimming Coach William C. Hultgren is awarding swim buttons to all boys who can pass the required tests given in connection with the beginner's series.

In order to receive one of the reorganition buttons, a boy must swim 100 yards, using two different strokes and swim 25 yards on the back without using the arms.

DUFFY WIELDS AXE ON B. C. HURLERS

THE scramble for pitching berths on Boston College's mound staff has been reduced to 13 contestants by the first swing of Coach Hugh Duffy's axe.

Seven of the unlucky number are veterans and the other half dozen are trying out for the first time. Duffy plans to retain eight twirlers for the season if it is feasible.

The veterans now on the mound roster are Capt. Pete Herman, Jim "Shaker" O'Connor, Jim Donovan, Henry Plausse, Charley Murphy, Jim Reagan and Long John Dixon.

The six rookies, who have shown enough stuff in the two weeks' practice to be worthy of retainment, are Jack Maloney, Ed Gallagher, Andy Mullaney, Barney Curtin, Art O'Brien and Fraser. Pete Herman and Jim O'Connor are two of the finest prospects in college ranks, though.

O'Connor Was Late in Rounding Into Form

Herman and O'Connor were used rather seldom last campaign, Herman especially. O'Connor worked a few of the major games and looked immense at times, although he didn't really hit his best form until the final Holy Cross contest, when he pinned one of two seasonal defeats on the champion Crusader nine.

Herman and O'Connor, however, went out in summer campaigns and blinded their opponents. Herman won 12 of 13 assignments in the fast Cape Cod League while O'Connor was credited with 19 victories in 21 starts.

And though both have yet to show Coach Hugh Duffy anything to rave over, they have it in them and are expected to burst forth as leading college pitchers this coming spring.

Donovan and Dixon, the Norwood boys, Charley Murphy and Plausse, are all pitchers of great prospect. Reagan, the last of the seven, is less experienced than the rest but was good enough a season ago to be kept all year. He pitched but one inning and retired the opposing side with three pitched balls.

Gallagher and Mullaney stand out among the rookies. Art O'Brien was a whiz in Quincy High and St. John's Prep but his arm went back on him. He was a visitor to the noted Dr. Knight of Buffalo, fixer of busted flingers and has hopes of getting back in old form.

American Glue Five Play Colored Giants

On next Thursday night at the Civic Hall in Norwood the American Glue Company five will meet the Boston Colored Giants in a professional basketball game. In the preliminary game the Norwood hoopsters, composed of this year's high school quintet, will play the Boston All-Scholastic five in an amateur rule contest.

MacFayden, Carroll and Durham Will Hurl Today

ED MORRIS IS DOWN WITH BAD COLD

By JOE CASHMAN

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 12—Danny MacFayden, Ed Carroll and Ed Durham will do the pitching for the Red Sox in the second exhibition game with the Pensacola Naval Base nine here this afternoon.

When these three hurlers have worked, all of last season's right-handers, except Ed Morris, who has a bad cold, will have engaged in competition.

All of which is added proof of our contention of a few days ago that Manager Heinie Wagner is satisfied that experienced pitchers will be his best bets this season and is determined to get them in shape before trying any experiments with rookies.

Except for the pitchers and Jack Winsett, new fly chaser, who will play a few innings in right field, the Sox lineup will be the same as in the first game. Berry will catch MacFayden, Ashy will receive for Carroll and Connolly will work with Durham.

These three catchers are sure to be retained, unless Johnny Heving shows up, and even if he does, it is a question whether he will be able to beat out either of the kids.

Sox Second String Infield Better Hitters Than Vets

Todt, Regan, Reeves and Rhyne will start in the infield. After five innings, they will be replaced by Sweeney, Miller, Holman and Narlesky. Thus far, there appears little to choose between these two quartets.

The veterans look a shade better in the field, but the new players seem to have an edge with the stick. Scarritt and Bell will play left, Cicero and Oliver will patrol center, and Barrett and Winsett will scamper in right.

Wagner wishes that Jack Rothrock would put in his appearance so he could field two garden trios and compare them.

Bell, while a fine prospect, isn't ready for big time yet. Winsett, latest addition to the outfield squad, shapes up in practice as a first-class player. He hits the ball hard, far and on a line, and has no fear of southpaws which is unusual as he is a left-handed batter.

Some who played with him in the Southern League last year intimated that he wasn't so hot in the field. In his few appearances here, however, he has looked as good in the field as at the bat.

He is very fast and has the longest stride of any player on the club. He judges fly balls well and catches them most gracefully. He has a good arm, too. In fact, all the Sox outfielders have good arms.

Red Sox Not Getting Right Competition

Oliver's wing brings memories of ash deadly throwers as Speaker, Hooper, Lewis, Jackson, Walker and Meusel.

And Scarritt, Barrett, Cicero and Rothrock are better than the average when it comes to throwing the pill. They are all pretty good all-around gardeners.

If Wagner doesn't keep all six trying to decide who to let out bids fair to cause him several sleepless nights. The Sox won the first game with the Naval Base nine without any trouble.

They ought to win again today, but they may have to fight a little harder for the verdict. Ruffing Russell and Gaston were too much for the Gobs.

Wagner would like harder opposition than the sailors can offer but none is available hereabouts, and he figured his charges will profit more meeting the Gobs, comparatively weak as they are, than playing among themselves.

JUMBO BATTERS HAVE WORKOUT

The Tufts hurlers threw them up batting practice under the watchful eye of Ken Nash today. Lefty Hatch, Wallie Burkhardt, Tewksbury and Gibbons were the pitchers who were showing up well in the lasting sessions.

Lou Adams and Charlie Haber were absent, but will be used today, while the others take only a light workout.

Harry Arlanson showed his old form at the plate and was hitting everything that was fed up to him, while the others found difficulty in meeting the pitchers' slants.

Coach Nash is using Morton, Edinger and Martin behind the plate almost exclusively in hopes of working one or more of the trio into capable understudies for Arlanson, who is the only veteran receiver that the Jumbos have.

Martin is the best of the trio with the willow, but lacks experience and will need careful attention from the Jumbo mentor.

Few Errors

Twenty American League pitchers, in 11 games or more each, went through the 1929 season without making a single error.

MR. BOSTON —by— JACK CONWAY

Jim Maloney Is to Pass Up Hub Rings

"JIM MALONEY will not appear in a Boston ring before the outdoor season," said Mr. Boston today. "When at Miami Beach, Dan Carroll told me he felt that Shamus would prove a better attraction here if he did some battling in out-of-town rings.

"The South Boston warrior has stood up regularly in this city that he has worn out his welcome. The fans are rooting to see him licked for no other reason than because he has been winning.

"The sport mob is with an athlete while he is battling his way to the front, but once he has reached the heights they like to see him pulled down.

Jack Conway

"Maloney has won a flock of fights hereabouts during the past two years. Ricardo Bertazzio defeated him on a foul, but otherwise for that loss Shamus has always finished in front.

"Now the fans want to see Maloney beaten and they refuse to pay to see him against ordinary kind of opposition. That is why the Maloney-Friedman show didn't do so well financially. The fans figured Maloney was a sure winner and they didn't want to be there, when it happened.

"Shamus picked up $15,000 for his bout with Mouse Boquillon in Miami and can get other good purses away from home. It is likely that Jim will appear in the semifinal for a juicy purse when Jack Sharkey mingles with Max Schmeling at the Milk Fund affair in June.

"If Maloney sticks to his plan to tour the country, Boston and New England fans will start clamoring to see him in action. It will be then that some careless promoter will step in and sign Maloney and Schaaf. This is a 'natural' and will draw $50,000 in anybody's ball park."

Billy Henderson Says Lamar Kayoed Rival

BILL HENDERSON, who handled Henry Lamar in his bout with Joe Bonovie in New York, called Mr. Boston on the telephone.

"Lamar hit Bonovie with everything but the well known bucket in their bout in the New York Garden," said Billy. "He knocked Bonovie cold with a right hand punch to the body. Bonovie claimed foul and the referee fell in line with him.

"Lamar later informed Matchmaker Tom McArdle of the New York Garden he is ready to tackle Bonovie again and that he does not ask a cent of compensation for his services."

Tommy MacFarland Has New Fistic Star

TOMMY MacFARLAND, who used to be quite a scrapper himself 10 years ago, dropped in to hello Mr Boston.

"I want you to meet Little Jack Dempsey," said Tommy, as he pushed a rugged looking youth forward.

Mr Boston shook hands with the youngster and gave him a critical looking over.

"How much do you weigh, lack?" queried Mr Boston.

"I'm about 122. You see, I'm only 18 years old. Maybe I'll get heavier later on."

The youngster listened modest as Tommy told how Little Jack can lick his weight in wildcats.

"If he is only half as good as you say he is, he had ought to get some place in the fistic game," said Mr. Boston.

Babe Ruth Holdout and the Ballyhoo

"I NOTICE that the Yankee owners deny the charge that the story about Babe Ruth's holdout was merely ballyhoo," went on Mr. Boston. "I feel, though, that the thing was all staged. Everybody in Florida knew two weeks ago that Babe Ruth had come to terms with the Yankees.

"Baseball magnates apparently are taking a page from the book of the late Tex Rickard who always contended it was unwise to announce anything big without first getting everybody steamed up over it. Babe Ruth was kept on the front pages of the newspapers for three weeks.

"The Yankees are now in an excellent position to get back some of the money which they will have to pay the great Bambino in salary.

RED SOX CAMP ONE OF FLORIDA'S BUSIEST SPOTS

The Weatherman has interfered with the Red Sox training schedule more than usual this year but when that troublesome gentleman is absent, Coach Heinie Wagner takes advantage of the situation, and sends his charges along at a torrid pace. Regardless of all the handicaps experienced, the club is rapidly rounding into shape and as Wagner said, "will make plenty of trouble in this year's American League fight."

HARVARD NAVY ON RIVER

Harvard had approximately 100 crafts upon the Charles river today.

Four of these boats contain the varsity crew squad, nine more make up the varsity 150-pound crew squad, and six hold the future class eights.

Six freshman heavy crews make up the freshman first squad, while five eights make up the 150-pound squad, and four more take care of the dormitory oarsmen.

The remainder of the boats of the Crimson fleet are those controlled by the single scullers coached by French, and are by far in the majority.

This means that Harvard continues to send out as many shells as ever and this year's early start has increased the usual quota by about 20 daily.

The 34 eights and some 60 or 70 singles that go out each day from both boathouses keep about 250 men busy for most of each afternoon learning or perfecting the sweepswingers' art, which is by far the most popular sport of the spring season in sports at Cambridge.

This year's varsity crews are under the new mentor, Charles J. Whiteside who has already won the record of his pupils.

Class Crew Coach Ed Brown declared last week that the varsity squad at present is a good deal ahead of the corresponding time last year.

The material for the first Crimson eight looks to be no better than average this year, and the new mentor will have to do some wonderful things with it in order to produce a championship eight.

Coach Bert Haines, who has been assisting Whiteside until the sights got out on the water, has one of the most promising freshman squads he has ever had.

His first boat will undoubtedly have Gerald Cassedy, ex-Noble and Greenough stroke, in the pace-setting seat; Henri David, Bancroft and Malcolm, all members of last year's Browne and Nichols crew that won the Thames cup in the English Henley regatta and Robert Saltonstall ex-Exeter oarsman.

BOUQUILLON TO FIGHT MONTE

Mose Bouquillon, French heavyweight champion, has been signed by Col. Bob McKirdy of the Arena A. C. to clash with Joe Monte of Brockton in the 10 round feature bout at the Arena next Monday night.

Bouquillon is one of the greatest French fighters ever to visit these shores. He has fought two 10 round bouts with Primo Carnera, the giant Italian, fought a 10 round draw with Emmett Rocco and was just beaten in the wire by Jim Maloney in the recent "Battles of the Palms" at Miami.

His second bout with Carnera in Europe was one of the most sensational fights ever seen in the Old World. Carnera, the biggest man in the ring today, figured to have a push over but he was rudely upset and it developed into a knockdown, drag out battle with both men taking many trips to the canvas.

Bouquillon has engaged in 49 bouts and an even 40 of these have found the Frenchman on top by a knockout victory.

In Monte, Bouquillon will be tackling a battler who is liable to put him away in a punch. Monte, right now at the top of his form, believes there is not a heavyweight in the world who can beat him.

If Monte can get by the French man he is sure to be in demand all over the country for plenty of the topnotchers have been ducking Bouquillon since he showed so well with Maloney.

Many Entered in "Ring" Tournament

The greatest number of boys ever entered in a local amateur boxing tournament will compete in the third of the Diamond Ring elimination series for novices next Saturday night at Mechanics Building. Every class from the 112 s to heavyweights is loaded with ambitious boys and there should be some fierce scrapping before all the winners are crowned.

Last week's fights were as torrid as any the "purex" have ever shown and this week's are expected to be even better. There will be two more eliminations tourneys after Saturday night with the grand finals Saturday, March 29.

Cantab Cubs Plan Big Diamond Year

The Cantab Cubs, one of the foremost semipro teams in New England, will start their 1930 baseball season at Saturday when candidates report to Manager George P. Lewis at Russell E. Hoyt Field, Cambridge.

For the infield there's Jerry Donovan of R. C.; Meeker Kowander of Cambridge Latin, Abe Kats of Cambridge Latin and Tom Curran, former B. C. high star.

Farrell Watches Harvard Workout

Eddie Farrell, Harvard's track and field mentor, made his first appearance since the I. C. 4A meet on Soldiers Field yesterday afternoon. The track men are taking light workouts three times a week and the weight men are practicing daily under Jakko Mikkola.

Paul Vonck is showing up well in the hammer, having daily competition with Hal Movius and Murdock Finlayson.

Farrell expects to have his entire force out by next week for there are only a few weeks left in which to decide upon members for the William & Mary trip Easter vacation.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

The theory that the bulger-faced club will automatically correct sliding or hooking has no foundation in fact at all. Its sole purpose is to produce a greater compression in the ball, and this it can do because a degree of this compression is small as to be almost immeasurable. If produced by one means or another, has a most advantageous effect in the resilience of the ball. At the instant the ball leaves the clubhead it takes a pear shape, or egg shape, which is the nearest we have ever been able to approach its actual appearance at the instant of its greatest compression, no camera having as yet been invented which would be fast enough to photograph it. But we know this compressing action takes place because we know that no other action could possibly take place; we also know that the ball goes forward for the obvious reason that, since it cannot go back farther, the solid face of the clubhead resisting it there, and since it cannot go sideways because of the forward action of the club, it rebounds in a forwardly direction, which is the reverse direction in its case. That's what makes it go.

GRAND RAPIDS CHAMP TO BOX HERE

MARTIN LEVANDOWSKI, Grand Rapids light heavyweight, will top the Grand Rapids team of ring stars, which will invade the Hub, Monday night, March 24, to meet the cream of Boston, Cleveland and Montreal simon pures.

Levandowski is regarded as one of the greatest light heavyweights of the present day and as he is planning to become a professional shortly after the nationals, it is expected that he will soon make a bid for the crown. The Grand Rapids star annexed the national title here last year and he has not met defeat since.

Bouts will be staged in six classes for this interstate tournament, including 112 118 126 135 147 and 175. In addition there will be two open classes, 160 and heavyweight, which are expected to attract all the top-notch Greater Boston boys.

Tom Kanaly, who is in charge of the tournament, promises to select one of the best balanced teams that ever represented the 'Tub in a similar tournament. Many news stars have been uncovered in recent ring tournaments and no doubt some of these boys will be given an opportunity to show their worth in this event.

FLYING COURSE FREE WITH NEW PLANE

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

In order properly to announce the beginning of operations of the North Shore Airways, an Arrow sport biplane and sufficient flying instruction for a private pilot's license is being offered for $3000, according to Bob Bernson, general manager of the company.

Perhaps the most interesting part of the announcement is the fact that Mrs. Dolly Bernson, sales manager for North Shore, has complete charge of the offer, and was the first to start the idea on its way.

Although not yet a pilot, Dolly had about three hours instruction last fall and "Slim" Halstead, chief pilot of North Shore, declares that an equal amount of time, or perhaps a little less, will see her flitting blithely around the sky all by herself.

Dolly stated that the Arrows were brand new ships, listing for $3300. The cost of a private pilot's course in instruction is $600, so this offer is more than a "bargain day" affair.

The Arrow Sportplane is a two-place, side-by-side biplane, powered with a 65-horse LeBlonde engine.

While the opening of the new company, which will operate from Beverly Airport, was scheduled for last Saturday, bad weather and poor field conditions made the start impossible. Active student work will not be started for a couple of weeks but all the planes of the company are ready.

Barring poor flying conditions, a limited amount of flying will be done during the next few weeks, and by the time the weather has settled down to its summer stride, most of the improvements contemplated for the Beverly Airport will have been completed.

A new Buhl three-place airsedan Carl Johnson is demonstrating at the airport is powered with a 300-horse Wright Whirlwind and with three people, including the pilot, will roar through the sky at an even 150 miles an hour wide open cruising at 135.

G. O. P. WOMEN DODGE VOTE ON DRY LAW

By NANCY BREWSTER

THE sentiment of Massachusetts Republican clubwomen on the repeal of the 18th amendment will never be tested, their leaders said today. The women will not follow New York Republicans and record themselves officially one the question.

This decision has been forwarded to Republican women's organizations throughout the State, and without exception they have resolved to abide by the State ruling.

The action of the National Republican Club of New York, which voted in favor of repeal on a resolution which 461 supported and 335 rejected at a stormy session of the club, was not approved of by Massachusetts Republican women. In local political circles, the women looked with disfavor on the vote taking, and pointed to it as one of the reasons for the party breaks.

Mrs. Frank Rae Batchelder, vice-chairman of the Republican State Committee, disparaged the Manhattan party program.

"Such a vote not only splits the party, but weakens its program," she said. "We in Massachusetts believe it best not to take a vote on such a moot question and we have so instructed the clubs. They may talk about it and listen to erudite discussions, but they will not vote on it, for to do so would break the club into factions and defeat in ultimate purpose of the party.

"Prohibition is not a party issue in this State. It may be in New York. We Republican women wish to strengthen our party. To it is the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment the issue, which our party does not consider part of its platform, would weaken and undermine the party.

"We feel that prohibition is an individual problem to which each one of us should give careful and deliberate consideration, but which should not be placed on club programs for final decision."

Mrs. Batchelder pointed out that the action of the New York Republican Club was taken by men and not by women.

Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs, head of the Republican Women's Club of Massachusetts, expressed herself in hearty accord with the Republican State committee policy on prohibition. She pointed out, the club had followed the suggestion to reach out and regain the racial groups, without which the party can not achieve success in this State. Hence, Mrs. Nelson W. Howard, as director of the political department, has arranged a series of racial nights, the appropriate programs of music and lecture.

Tonight is Negro Guest Night and Mrs. Frederick E. Judd, chairman of the Hampshire County Division, is to be the evening's hostess. On the program will be John W. Schenck, assistant United States district attorney; George W. Goodman secretary of the Urban League Mathew Bullock, member of the Republican State Committee and State Parole Board; Richard H. Hill lecturer; Maj. Larkland F. Hewitt of the 372nd Infantry. Mrs. John B. Hall, president of the Republican Women's Study Club; Mrs. Nelson S. Whiteman, president of Unity Circle and chairman of Negro Work, Women's Division of the Republican City Committee of Boston.

The negro in every phase, social, political and educational, will be discussed and his contribution to the civic, state and national life of the country expressed.

SECOND MARNE HERO KINDLY, SAYS MOTHER

Mothers were the "second line of defense" in the World War, as in all wars. Now the Government is going to send to France, that they may view the last resting place of their hero sons, the Gold Star mothers of America.

The Second Battle of the Marne had just started . . .

To Top Sergt. Jordan Phee, 21, son of Mrs. Helen G. Phee of Germania st., Jamaica Plain, was given the honor of firing the first gun for the A. E. F. in that great battle.

After several days of effective work by the battery he commanded, the end came suddenly for that tall, slim youth. A huge shell was heard screeching its approach: "Duck, boys, duck," shouted Jordan, his first thought being for their safety.

The shell exploded nearby. As the men crouched, they saw the youth stiffen suddenly, then crumple to the ground.

This young man subsequently was hailed by Rev. Fr. John O'Reardon, who dedicated the Jordan Phee square, as "a perfect specimen of American manhood."

More Chances in U. S. Than Ever, Says Secretary Davis

Washington, March 12 (INS)—In a radio address to the youth of America on "The Flag and Opportunity," Secretary of Labor James J. Davis declared there is no country in the world where opportunity may be more readily developed than in the United States.

"Opportunity is more plentiful today than it ever has been," he said. "We live a richer life than even our parents did. We do infinitely more things than our parents did."

Daring Story of Eternal Love Triangle

Ardeth Carroll, beauty, lives in the, drab home of her Aunt Stella. Neil Burke, downstairs, claims Ardeth as his. She is uncertain. She yearns for a fuller life. She quarrels with her cousin, Bet, whose room she shares. Ardeth sees the man of her dreams, Ken Gleason. Neil is furiously jealous. Jeannette Parker, society girl, plans to use Ardeth in a scheme for revenge.

CHAPTER 5

"COME back for that sandalwood fan you were looking at last week, Miss Parker?" Ardeth asked as she came up to Jeanette.

"No. Something more important. You." Jeanette blew a cloud of cigarette smoke down her long, thin nose and looked mysterious. "Ardeth, love, you and I are going into business together."

Ardeth regarded her with puzzled golden eyes.

"I'm fed up on society stuff," said Jeanette loftily. "I'll kick and scream if I have to go to another tea or a dance or a bridge game! I've become an Earnest Worker, Ardeth. I'm going to open a shop and you must come and run it for me."

Ardeth looked her astonishment. "A shop? You!"

A Parker turned shopkeeper! Jeanette smiled. Very pleasant to have this girl's obvious admiration. Soothing to vanity bruised by years of playing second fiddle to a younger and prettier sister.

"Yes, infant. A shop—I" she nodded. "I told you I was utterly fed up on the social end. You've no idea how I'm run ragged, Ardeth. The price of popularity, I suppose!" She shrugged with an air of comic helplessness. "But I happen to have a mind which demands food—and I'm out after a career, darling." She flipped the ash from her cigarette airily.

The other girl stared at her, uncertain how to take this.

Ardeth could not begin to guess at the tangled events which had led up to Jeanette's present.

What Jeanette would not admit —even to herself—was that this sudden decision on her part was a pose. It was to be an excuse for shining socially as did the younger and prettier Cecile.

Jeanette was already practicing little slighting remarks about "idle women," which she would toss out to admiring male acquaintances—hoping they would take the hint and mark the difference between her own efficiency and her sister's frivolity.

"Her business" would provide a convenient excuse for refusing invitations to dances and house parties where she would be a wall flower.

"I'd love to go, of course—" Jeanette would say airily, "but I'm a working woman now, you know. . . . My business . . . I'm so devoted to it. . . ." She would give a little expressive shrug. That line should go well with men.

She went on. "I'm going to open a small specialty shop in the finest shopping district. No especial line, you know, but the newest and most expensive novelties. The latest perfume. Or slipper buckles. And Spanish shawls. And I want you, infant, to come and tend shop for me."

So long as it pleased her she would play at "keeping store." But she wished to be free to put on her hat when the mood moved her to drift to the St. Francis or the Fairmount in the afternoon to board of her business over the tea-table.

Ardeth was to be the crew Jeanette would be all the officers.

"I'll pay you whatever you're getting here . . ." she went on capably. "I must have you with me—"

Ardeth had turned away and was absently shoving about package of incense with one slender finger. Her face was carefully business-like, but her heart had set up an exciting pounding.

Instead of Jeanette's torrent of words she was listening to a tremulous inner voice. Ken Gleason—he had been in the Parker group yesterday. If she went with Jeanette—some day Ken might come into the shop—he would speak to her. Was this to be the way?

She tried to tear her distracted thoughts away from him. This was an important move . . . Here, where she now was, there was an assured future. If she went with Jeanette she would be dependent upon a rich girl's caprice.

How the sun had gleamed on his hair yesterday. And that strange moment when his deep gaze had met her own and had been unable to glance away.

"Well . . ." Jeanette's voice was half amused, half offended.

Ardeth had the impression of being in the grasp of some fate too strong for her. The sense that she was being breathlessly hurried along—to what?

"I—I—All right, Miss Parker—" she heard herself stammering. "I'll take it. When do you want me?"

Jeanette's black eyes snapped. She was suddenly feverish for action. "When you can get away from here. I want to open in time for the Fashion Show. I know of a place on Grant ave. I can rent . . ."

"The end of the week, then."

Mayor Backs 15 Million School Bill

BOND ISSUE IS ATTACKED AT HEARING

Curley Urges the Measure as a Means of Aiding Prosperity at Present Time

Sharp criticism of the bill agreed upon by Mayor Curley and the school committee to spend $15,000,000 within the next three years for school purposes, under a bond issue, was voiced at a hearing today before the legislative committee on municipal finance.

Senator Frank W. Osborne, chairman of the committee, said that the interest over the 20-year bond period would amount to $6,000,000.

"This bill might well be called a bill to pay $21,300,000 for an expenditure of $15,000,000," he declared.

Mayor Curley pointed out that the departure from the pay-as-you-go policy, which he himself put into effect in 1916, is justified by the emergency that the city finds itself in

DEFENDS HIS STAND

"We are in the hands of the Philistines," he said with a smile, referring to the committee

"I might point out that the Philistines used you pretty well in giving you a $16 tax limit," came back Sen. Osborne, and the Mayor duly expressed his gratification over that action.

At the opening of the hearing John J. Hurley of the school committee informed the committee that his board and the mayor started off with different opinions but had gotten together as the result of conferences.

BOARD FAVORS ISSUE.

With the exception of Committeeman Gray, he said, the school committee had voted in favor of the 20-year bond issue. Gray, he added, differed in only one detail, and that was that he thought the bond issue should run for but 10 years.

The mayor said Judge Michael J Sullivan of the survey committee a staunch supporter of the pay-as-you-go policy, believes in a departure from this policy during the present emergency.

The speaker revealed that plans made and land bought, on which buildings are to be erected, already retain an expenditure of $8,000,000 he referred to this as a legacy from the previous administration.

The mayor, continuing, said that building activities were held up during the war and that it was not until 1920 and 1921 that some relief was experienced when $2,677,000 was appropriated and expended.

He said he was anxious to help bring about some measure of prosperity.

He gave it as his opinion that employment will quicken within the next 30 days and that general prosperity will return within 60 days. He believed that the good sense of Congress will provide protection to American industry.

MacMillan Film to Be Shown Free

Esquimaux life of Southern Greenland and Smith Sound is to be shown in motion pictures in Children's Museum, Olmsted Park, Jamaica Plain, at 3:30 next Sunday. The films have just been received by Comdr. Donald M. MacMillan. There will be no admission charge.

On Saturday at 3 o'clock a Tercentenary motion picture, "A Pilgrimage Through Historic New England," will be shown at the museum.

SHOE PACT NOW COMPLETE

Signing of the peace agreement with shoe labor unions by the Federal Shoe Company of Lynn ended a strike in progress earlier in the day and completed the list of manufacturers who are parties to the pact.

About 400 workers left work in the morning when the firm refused to pay prices agreeable to them.

Every shoe manufacturing concern in Lynn is now signed with the unions for one year to settle difficulties over prices and working conditions either at conferences of their own or through the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation.

Performs Autopsy After Sudden Death

Medical Examiner Timothy W. Leary will perform an autopsy in the Southern mortuary today to determine the sudden death at his home of Joseph McNamara, 32, and married, of Blade ave., Jamaica Plain.

McNamara, who was a laborer, arriving at his home from work told his wife that he was suffering from a severe cold and had pains all over his body. He was immediately ordered to bed. Mrs. McNamara went to prepare a hot drink for him and she was gone about five minutes in the kitchen and upon her return her husband was dead

South End Woman Buried in Calvary

Six grandsons and grandnephews were bearers at the funeral of Mrs. Celia C. Clogher from the residence of her son, Dudley J. Mulrenin, Norfolk st., Mattapan. She was in her 86th year and the widow of James Clogher, who up to the time of his death was a prominent business man of the South End and actively identified with all movements tending toward the freedom of Ireland.

Requiem mass was celebrated in St. Angela's Church by Rev. Ralph Harris, who also read the usual committal prayers at the family lot in Calvary Cemetery.

PERSONAL TAX DELINQUENTS START RUSH

Curley Ultimatum Heeded; City Employes Must Present Receipts

A rush of personal taxpayers to the collector's office to settle their bills followed the ultimatum of Mayor Curley

Notice to city employes, who compose more than 20 per cent of all delinquents, that unless they settle before April 1 the amount of their bills will be deducted from their pay envelopes, inspired other delinquents.

Mayor Curley and Collector Johnson began the campaign against delinquents more than 10 days ago and municipal department heads have been quietly commanding employes to present receipted tax bills for inspection.

The most flagrant offenders are the owners of automobiles who have paid no attention to repeated demands of Collector Johnson for the payment of the motor excise tax

City employes, who own motor cars, have paid poll taxes but have refused to pay the excise tax

Public Works Commissioner Joseph A. Hurley has been scrutinizing tax bills shown to him by employes of his department for some time.

The inspection started in the fire department when district chiefs called upon all subordinates not only to produce receipted bills for 1929, but to also produce similar bills for the three preceding years.

The April 1 "deadline" for delinquents who are not city employes has not been set because constables are gunning for such debtors and unless they make payment on sight they will be lodged in Charles st. jail.

Installation of Woman's Club Held

Installation of officers for 1930 was held at the meeting of the Cambridge Women's Democratic Club, held in the headquarters East Cambridge, last night. Mrs. Josephine Reardon Murphy, organizer and president of the club presided

The new officers are: Mrs. Murphy, president; Mrs. Margaret Quinn, vice-president; Mrs. Mary Gallagher, secretary; Miss Cecelia Quinn, recording secretary, and Mrs. Mary Maloney, financial secretary.

Plans for a May party celebration to be given under the auspices of the club were discussed.

Customs Inspector Given Promotion

Customs Inspector David E. Tyler of Lakeview ave., Natick, and in the government service for the past 31 years, has been named by Collector W. W. Lufkin to be station inspector at Hoosac docks, Charlestown, with supervision of the inspection and weighing force of customs men in that area.

Tyler succeeds William J. Sleep, who died suddenly aboard a train on Jan. 4 while on his way to Boston from his home in Reading.

Given 90 Days to Make Checks Good

Henry Ritter, proprietor of a "gas" station in Prospect st., Cambridge, was found guilty of larceny of 4608 gallons of gasoline from the Pennsylvania Oil Co. by worthless checks.

He was given 90 days in which to make restitution by Judge Edward A. Counihan, Jr., in East Cambridge District Court.

Mrs. Robert H. Culbert was to present a resolve of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs expressing opposition to the repeal of the Baby Volstead act.

TWO YOUTHS SENTENCED FOR LIFE

Paul Smith and Earl Baker of Malden Plead Guilty to Second Degree Murder

Paul Smith, 19, and Earl Baker, 20, both of Malden, must spend the rest of their lives in Charlestown State prison for the slaying of William J. Fendell, Saugus storekeeper, on the night of Jan. 2

Both pleaded guilty of second degree murder in Essex County Superior Criminal Court today. They were given life sentences by Judge Wilfred Gray

George A. Leet, 16 years old, also of Malden, escaped a similar sentence because it was shown that on the night of the holdup and murder Leet did not take his gun from his pocket. He pleaded guilty of armed robbery.

Pleas by his parents and two teachers of the Brown junior high school in Malden where he was a pupil until a year ago failed, however, to save him from sentence of 16 years in Concord reformatory.

Mrs. Clara Leet in pleading for her son said she believed he would never be in trouble again if given another chance

John E. Rowell and Miss Lena E. Patten both testified that "George hasn't a mean trait in his body."

As far as could be learned no relatives of either Baker or Smith were in court

LOSES IN LAW SCHOOL CASE

Mrs James White, Everett divorcee and daughter of a Cherokee Indian, today lost her fight to force the Portia Law School to permit her to finish her law studies.

Henry P. Fielding, former assistant district attorney of Suffolk county, appointed master to hear the petition today filed a report in favor of the school

The master said that no unjust discrimination had been made because of race and color, but found that Mrs. White "was improperly using her knowedge" of law in business deals

Three years ago Mrs. White brought slander suits against the chief of police and other Everett officials

Awarded Second Prize for Good "Ad"

Paul Donelan, until recently advertising manager of A. Stowell & Co., now advertising manager of the Gorham Company, silversmiths, located at Providence, again receives honors for achievement in display and newspaper advertising from the Clock Manufacturers' Association of America

In 1927 Donelan won the grand cash award of $100 in gold; in 1928 a framed certificate of merit, and this week another cash award in the 1929 annual nation-wide contest, from W. S. Hays, secretary C. M. A. A., 644 Drexel building, Philadelphia, Pa.

Abolition of Tolls Doubles Traffic in Cape Cod Canal

With the abolition of tolls, nearly twice as many vessels passed through Cape Cod canal in 1929 as in 1928, according to government announcement today. The total last year was 10,317, as compared with 5771 in the previous year.

Cargo tonnage, which in 1928 amounted to 1,465,782, last year reached a total of 2,165,465. This included 710,142 tons of coal, which was an increase of more than 500,000 tons.

GARMENT MAN ACCUSES GIRL

Miss Shirley Bloomenthal of Holborn ter., Roxbury, was arrested in the garment manufacturing district on a warrant today, charged with assault and battery on Adolph Miller, a garment worker.

Miller accompanied Special Officer George Gardner to the district, pointed out Miss Bloomenthal and said she had attacked him with a nail file She was booked at Lagrange st station

Officials of the International Garment Manufacturers' Union said no specific time had been set for the strike they have decided to call, but it is expected to start tomorrow morning, to last only two days, without picketing and for the purpose of demonstrating strength to the manufacturers.

SEES HUGE GAIN IN ADVERTISING

More than a billion and a half dollars will be spent in advertising during 1930, according to L. D. Gibbs, president of the Advertising Club of Boston, in an address today at the opening meeting of the New England Conference of Sign Contractors and the Electrical Advertising committee of the New England division, National Electric Light Association

"Advertising," said Mr Gibbs, "is the voice of business and it is part of our work to make that voice well modulated and have it carry the conviction of lasting qualities for business in general and the products in particular in which we are interested. Each medium of advertising has its place The newspaper not only catches attention through its advertising columns but it emphasizes the ideas and opportunities made known through advertising, so that electric signs and electrically illuminated boards serve to clinch the arguments."

Job for Radio Man Open at Army Base

There is a vacancy for an experienced radio operator or clerk in the Third Signal Service Company at the Boston Army Base, according to a notice issued today. The army needs also 43 men for regular duty.

The vacancies are at Fort Proble; Fort Adams, R. I.; and Fort H. G. Wright, N. Y. There are also a few openings in the 18th Signal Ranging Battery at Fort H. G. Wright, on Fisher's Island, off New London, Conn

LYNN'S MAYOR ACCUSES COPS

Two charges were made today by Mayor J. Fred Manning of Lynn against Patrolmen Horace Bill and William F. Gillespie, suspended following complaints of beating a man

The mayor will hold a hearing soon and both officers will face charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and assault and battery on Ormand Delaney, 42, machinist.

The suspended patrolmen are given 72 hours in which to decide on a stated trial, or to plead guilty and accept the mayor's decision as to punishment.

Delaney, father of four children, is in a serious condition in Lynn Hospital, where 32 stitches were taken in his head. He says he was beaten for refusing a drink where he had bought son a liquor.

1000 SEEK JOBS ON HUB PIERS

Nearly 1000 men called at employment points on the water-front today in quest of jobs announced by Surveyor of Customs Herman Halvorsen, and with the arrival of ships several hundred of them will be hired

The employment points have been in existence for some time but because they felt men out of work did not know of the opportunities, the authorities decided to make the announcement

Although there were no ships on hand this morning, several were expected soon. Of those seeking work, 100 applied at the army base, 250 at New Haven pier 2, Northern ave.; 150 at Marginal and Orleans sts., East Boston; 300 at Hoosac docks, Charlestown, and 175 at Mystic docks.

Prisoner Gets Dope, Woman Held

Her friendship for Leo McKenna of the South End, who is serving a term in the House of Correction at Worcester led to the arrest today of Miss Mary Banford, 35, of Tremont st., South End, on a charge of mailing him five grains of morphine.

Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Jenney, she pleaded not guilty and was held in bonds of $1000 for hearing on March 17.

TAMPERING OF WITNESS ALLEGED

Two Others Are Arraigned for Attempt to Change Testimony After Wife's Victory

Charged with conspiring to obstruct justice in connection with his divorce suit, Joseph I Eldridge of Newton, Boston investment banker was arraigned with two other men today before Judge Devlin in municipal court.

The case was put over until tomorrow so that the court could learn definitely of the outcome of the divorce proceedings, which attracted so much attention last year and which ended in a decree for Mrs. Helen L. Eldridge although she was censured in the court for "reprehensible conduct."

Mrs Eldridge soon after began arraignment of her husband went to Middlesex Probate Court with Lieut. Hines, Sergt. McKenzie and Attorney Fred Katzman and got [illegible] with Judge Harris, who had presided in the divorce case.

Arraigned with Eldridge were Joseph Birck and Frederick J Morris. They are alleged to have sought to induce Thomas L. Johnson to change his testimony. Johnson had testified at the divorce trial that he never accused misconduct between Mrs Eldridge and Edmund O'Heirn whose kisses Mrs. Eldridge had admitted were "very nice."

5 CITY CLERKS PROPOSED FOR LIFE TENURE

Secretary of State Cook Pays Tribute to Efficient Service

As a tribute to faithful and efficient service, life tenure is recommended for five city clerks in the Commonwealth by Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, formerly city clerk of Somerville for many years.

Secretary Cook designated the five city clerks as the most efficient in the State before a legislative committee.

The clerks who were thus singled out, some Republicans and some Democrats, are: Frederick Burke of Cambridge, Frank M. Grant of Newton, J. Albert Sullivan of Brockton, Malcolm E. Midgley of Worcester and William G. Carter of North Adams.

GRANT SENIOR

The dean of these five officials is Grant, who has been clerk of Newton for nearly 20 years.

Second in years of service is Sullivan, who for 11 years has been city clerk of Brockton.

He was born in Brockton, was educated in the public schools of that city and was graduated from the high school in 1909.

He served as councillor and alderman and during the war was a lieutenant in the quartermasters department.

Burke, the Cambridge city clerk, and a native of that city, served in the common council, and the legislature. He is a graduate of Rindge Technical school, where he specialized in mathematics.

He was a clerk in the city treasurer's office when elected city clerk in December, 1920.

WORCESTER CLERK

Midgley, who was born in Worcester and was graduated from the Classical high school of that city cut his college course short at Amherst to enter service in the World War. He served 18 months in France.

Five years ago he was elected city clerk, succeeding the late William H. Pratt.

Carter, who was born in Providence 54 years ago, entered politics in North Adams, where he has held office for 18 months out of 1920 when he was a successful candidate for the office of assessor. He was re-elected for three years in 1923, but resigned in December, 1924, when elected city clerk.

Her 'Tiny People Course' Wins Renown

$50,000,000 BOOM FOR HUB OUTLINED

Mayor Curley Says Building Program Depends on Trades

Development of a Greater Boston that would increase the population from 800 000 to 2,000,000 is necessary to the future prosperity and progress of the city, in the opinion of Mayor Curley, expressed in a talk before a group of architects and contractors at Brown's Cafeteria, Inc., 169 Devonshire st.

Mayor Curley voiced an optimistic view of future prosperity and suggested a closer co-operation on the part of the people of the metropolitan area.

Mayor Curley said he hopes it will be possible through an understanding between the employer and the employe to bring about an agreement among the building trades that will tend to alleviate the so-called jurisdictional disputes.

If such can be accomplished, he said, Boston will embark on a program of construction of a major character that will open up an opportunity for the unemployed, such as the wartime prosperity opened up for the men over 45 and even 60 years old, who in these days, he said, seem to be assigned to the scrap heap.

The mayor said that Boston will embark on a building construction program that will total in excess of $35,000,000 and, perhaps, reach nearer to between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000, if the agreement is reached insuring a strikeless period of two years in Boston.

FOILS ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP GIRL

The screams of the mother of Catherine Duffy, 8, of Dudley st, Roxbury, foiled an attempt to kidnap her daughter, according to police of the Dudley st station.

Mrs. Annie Duffy told police that a large negro grabbed her daughter, who was playing in the backyard, took her in his arms and started to run with her. The child's screams were stopped by the man, who put his hand over her mouth and threatened to break her neck if she did not keep quiet.

The screams of the child attracted her mother's attention, and she ran to the aid of her daughter. The man was evidently frightened by the cries of the mother, for he dropped the child and fled. The mother said the man was accompanied by a woman, who, she thought, was white, and both ran down the street and escaped.

TERCENTENARY ART EXHIBIT

Exhibitions of painting and sculpture from Colonial times to the present were planned at the first meeting of the Art Committee of the Tercentenary Committee of the City of Boston, in the office of William T. Aldrich, 30 Newbury st.

Included will be works of engraving, copper, steel, wood and lithographic—from the days of Peter Pelham, the first mezzotint engraver of Boston—and America—to the present.

It was proposed to ask the cooperation of the 16 art schools of Boston, and of the Copley Society, to produce one of the greatest historical art pageants ever seen in Boston.

WOULD EMPLOY FAMILY HEADS

Amendment of the civil service laws in favor of unemployed men with dependents was discussed in a conference of President Bacon of the Senate and Speaker Saltonstall of the House and the full board of the department of civil service with Governor Allen.

Under the regulations applicants having dependents can be given no priority. When municipalities apply for eligibles to fill position names must be forwarded in accordance with the results of examinations.

Governor Allen is eager to meet the present distressing unemployment situation without overturning the present regulations. He advocates, as a relief measure, restating laborers on various construction activities so that some employment will be provided for every man with dependents.

DANGER AT 1644 R. R. CROSSINGS

There are 1644 unprotected grade crossings in Massachusetts, according to a statement today by Allen H. Wood, Jr., president of the Boston Automobile Club.

"There is one unprotected crossing for every 14 miles of highway of all types," said Mr. Wood.

"The advent of the school bus with thousands of children being transported across railroad tracks daily, has served to bring the problem to the forefront. We must reduce the toll of death and suffering."

Young Wife Happy Now

"Before my little daughter was born I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly. I was able to do my usual work and take pleasure in doing it. We were so happy when a wonderfully fine baby girl arrived to bless our home. I have enjoyed better health since the baby's birth than ever before. I am sure that I owe it all to your medicine and I heartily recommend it to all women who are weak or ailing."—Mrs. Chester Decker, R. R. #1, Wheatland, Indiana.

TRIO NABBED IN STOLEN AUTO

Lieut Stephen J. Gilla' special headquarters unit after a chase of a mile in the South End, arrested three South Boston young men for larceny of an automobile and found another stolen car while chasing the alleged thieves.

Special Officers Edward Kirby, Daniel McDonald and Roy Bonning while driving in Waltham st., noticed a stolen car, the property of Max Meizer of 375A Longwood ave., which was taken in Rutland sq., earlier in the morning.

After chasing it through several streets in the South End the flying squadron forced the machine to a sidewalk in Dover st and at the point of guns placed the trio under arrest.

Forty-five cars stolen in various divisions throughout the city during the past 30 days have been recovered by Lieut Gilla' squad.

CAT CATCHER IS FINED $10

For catching a mouse there's nothing like a cat and for catching a cat there's nothing like catnip. The mouse catcher receives only praise, but when the law catches the cat catcher, then comes trouble.

In South Boston court today Ralph Collins, 17, of Whitney st Roxbury, was arraigned for tormenting cats.

Patrolman Powers said he found him at P and West Fifth sts. in an automobile surrounded by catnip with mewing cats all round. In five burlap bags Collins had seven cats the patrolman testified.

"What in the world was he going with seven cats?" Judge Logan inquired.

"There's a lot of mice in my house and I wanted to get rid of them," Collins explained.

"But seven cats," cried the court. "You must be troubled with a lot of mice."

"I am," said Collins.

"Ten dollars," said Judge Logan. Which would have bought a lot of traps.

Maj. Hines and Wife Direct Publicity

For the first time a man and his wife will direct the publicity this year for the conventions of the American Legion in Boston next October and the auxiliary as a result of appointment of Mrs. Paul H. Hines as chairman of the publicity of the auxiliary.

Her husband, Maj. Hines, had previously been appointed chairman of the publicity committee for the Legion.

Both Major and Mrs. Hines are former newspaper workers.

Noted Engineer to Lecture at Tech

Maj. William C Gotshall, internationally known engineer, big game hunter and traveler, will deliver the next Alfred lecture for seniors, graduate students and members of the faculty of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

His subject will be "Reflections of an Engineering Experience."

Proparvulis Club to Conduct Bridge

The Proparvulis Club is planning a shamrock bridge at the Hotel Somerset this Saturday afternoon, at 2 30. Miss Anna Comerford, vice president of the club and general chairman of bridge for the year, has appointed Miss Catherine Downey of Jamaica Plain as chairman of the bridge.

She is being assisted by the following officers and committee: Misses Frances Willis, Elizabeth Donoghue, Mary Condon, Margaret Donoghue, Emma McGlone, Betty Murphy, Anne McGuigue, Anna Downey, Catherine McIsaac, Beatrice Conley, Mary Downey, Agnes Loughran and Margaret Gavin.

Strong Box Looted in South End Office

Breaking into the office of the Consolidated Machinery and Electrical Company on Harrison ave, South End, today, thieves forced open a desk drawer and rifled a strong box. Their loot consisted of $17 in cash and $152 in checks and stamps. Entrance was gained by a rear window opening on Harvard st.

Abe Lipman, president of the concern, discovered the break when he opened the office for work today. Fingerprint experts were sent to the scene.

MARIONETTES GO ON TOUR

Three youths and a girl, amateur marionette makers — were made proud and happy today when told that the figures they had been working on for more than a year were so well made that they may take them on tour.

The four young people are Lester and Milton Tarnopol, Joseph Jones and Katharine Brazzell. Their instructor was Miss Helen Lyvers, director of dramatics at the South End House.

The marionette makers will give performances in and around Boston at first and then throughout New England, their equipment being portable and readily set up anywhere. The list of plays is headed by "The Adventures of Patelin," a 15th century French comedy.

Making marionettes is a difficult task and the fashioning of the 20 made at the South End House took a year because it was impossible to get the group together more than two evenings a week.

Miss Lyvers was a member of Tony Sarg's company for four seasons, taught marionette making last summer at the Gloucester school of the Little Theater, and during the summer usually stages a show every Saturday for the children of the town she happens to be in.

Gilbody Funeral Will Be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Thomas A Gilbody, brother of Mrs. George A Gilbody of the war-time 101st Infantry, who died yesterday at the age of 70 at his home, 3 Van Winkle st., Dorchester, will take place tomorrow morning with a high requiem mass at 9 o'clock in St Gregory's Church.

The deceased was a retired city employe, a lifelong resident of Dorchester and a member of St. Gregory's court, A. C. O. F. He had been ill a few weeks, but his death was a surprise to his many friends. In addition to his son, Maj. Gilbody, who was a member of the Boston City Council for several years, he is survived by a daughter, Miss Winifred Gilbody, with whom he lived.

Bit Nose of Man Who Kept Him Awake by Singing

Because Francis O'Neil insisted on singing while James Ely, a night worker, was trying to sleep, Ely had to pay a fine of $10 in Cambridge court today for assault and battery.

O'Neil testified that when he refused to stop singing Ely bit his nose. The pair live in the same lodging house on Franklin st., Cambridge.

Boston police and superintendents of hospitals throughout Greater Boston are searching for two young Donaldson, Ct., girls who left their homes Tuesday saying they were going to Boston to secure employment in hospitals.

The girls were supposed to arrive on the New York train at South Station. Police inspectors waited for them but they did not put in an appearance.

The girls are: Mae Longhetter, 17, five feet, four inches weight 111 pounds, blue eyes, brown hair, who wore a light navy blue dress and hat; and Adeline Bazzell, 18, five feet, five inches, weighs 128 pounds, brown hair, dark brown eyes and wearing a gray mixed coat.

WOMAN BURNED FIGHTING FIRE

Her efforts to extinguish a fire, which police say was started by children playing with matches in her home at 237 Bennington st., East Boston, nearly cost Mrs. Concetta Laracella her life today.

Aroused by screams of the young sters, Mrs. Laracella rushed into the front room to find it enveloped in flames.

After leading the children to the street Mrs. Laracella rushed back and attempted to hold the flames in check until firemen arrived.

SISTERS AID YOUTHS TO SAFETY

Possible Tragedy Averted by Timely Discovery of Blaze by Patrolman Scannell

Twelve children, between the ages of 7 and 15, who are staying at St. John's House for Children, Arlington Heights, were aroused and brought to safety when a fire broke out in an adjacent two-story wooden building, early today

Prompt work on the part of Patrolman Charles W. Scannell of the Arlington police department, who discovered the fire and sent in an alarm, prevented what might have been a serious fire.

Scannell was standing at Claremont and Wollaston ave, when his attention was attracted to flames coming out of the rear of the building at 14 Claremont ave. He aroused the occupants, notified fire headquarters, and then rushed to St. John's House and notified the Sisters

Several Sisters of St. Anne went through the dormitories, aroused the youngsters, got them dressed as soon as possible and hurried them to the street.

By the time the fire department arrived the house was in flames, and for a time threatened the home for children. The alarm brought nearly every piece of fire apparatus in the department.

The fire started in the rear hall, fire officials say, and worked its way up to the second floor through rooming in the partitions and breaking out on the roof. Sparks landed on several of the buildings, but line of hose playing on these buildings prevented the fire from catching

The children returned to the home when the danger had passed.

GIRL MINISTER IS LOCATED IN FAMILY HOME

Stepfather Denies Search Being Made for Girl Who Vanished From Franklin, N. H.

The mystery over the disappearance 11 days ago in Franklin, N. H., of the Rev. Jewell Imhoff, girl minister of the Pentecostal faith, was cleared when it was learned that she is at the home of her mother in Edenburg, Penn., a suburb of Pittsburgh

The Rev. Floyd W. Nease, president of Nazarene College in Wollaston, from which the Rev. Miss Imhoff was graduated last June, said that he had learned from the Rev. John Gould of Malden, New England manager of Nazarene churches, that she was at her mother's home.

Verification of this was made by H. A. Griffin of Franklin, with whom she boarded, who said that he had received a postcard from her stating that she was in Edenburg. She is reported to be ill and planning to go to Oklahoma to convalesce

J. A. Redmond, stepfather of the Imhoff girl, who was questioned by telephone, said: "The police or anybody else has not been asked to look for Jewell. Neither have the police asked us for any information on her whereabouts. The story that the girl has dropped out of sight is all wrong and so is any report of a search for her."

MAN BEATEN IN SAUGUS WOODS

Saugus police are investigating circumstances surrounding the finding of Eugene Powers, 25, of Central st., Saugus, tied to a tree and badly beaten in the woods off Newburyport Turnpike. Powers was taken to Lynn Hospital, suffering from a probable fracture of the skull. He was in a semiconscious condition and unable to tell what had happened to him

Powers was riding home in an automobile with Philip Duffy of Denver st., Saugus, early today, when the machine had a flat tire on the turnpike near there. Duffy went along the turnpike to a garage, but when he returned with a blowout patch Powers was missing. He heard a scream, 'Run, Duffy!' He went to the garage and telephoned police.

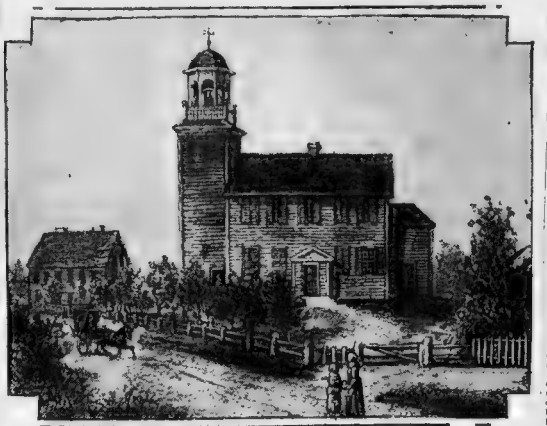
Old Boston in Pictures—No. 204



THE old meeting house in Winnisimmet, now Chelsea, was built in 1709 following the action taken by residents at the town meeting on a petition to build a new meeting house. The original petition was presented in 1706, but no action was taken until three years later when £100 was granted to build the meeting house at Rumney Marsh.

MANNING'S AXE SWINGS AGAIN IN LYNN

Boston Woman One of Three Officials Removed by Mayor

Lynn's official family awaited with interest today the next move of Mayor J. Fred Manning, following the removal from office of some of the city's most prominent citizens and, in most instances, appointees of ex-Mayor Ralph W. Bauer

Dr. William T. Hopkins, personal physician of ex-Mayor Bauer, whom he appointed health commissioner three years ago, was one of the first to feel the axe. Dr. James Dumas, one of the city's younger physicians, was named to succeed him

John Kilvansky, Lynn builder, was named to succeed Miss Eleanor Manning, woman architect of Boston, on the planning board. Mayor Manning, who is not a relative, said that Miss Manning could not find time to attend the meetings

Joseph P. Connelly, who had completed 17 years as a member of the Lynn Park Board when ousted by ex-Mayor Bauer, was put back on the board, and George S. Ross, who took his place, goes into retirement

One of the mayor's closest friends, a former councillor and once candidate for mayor, John R. Wallace, was appointed to the board of registrars. He will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Atty. Joseph D. A. Healey.

Dr. Adams Speaks for Medical Center Fund

In the interests of the fund being raised to unite the Boston Dispensary, the Floating Hospital and Tufts College Medical School in a New England Medical Center Dr. Ivan D. Adams, surgeon-in-general of the dispensary, addressed the men's fund committee in the Chamber of Commerce today.

Wife Can't Move

An injunction to restrain Mrs. Louise M. Page from removing their three-year-old daughter or the household furniture from the family home on First st., Medford, was obtained in Middlesex Superior Court at East Cambridge by her husband, Frank J. Page.

Because of a disagreement, Page declares, his wife has threatened to sell or move the furnishings and take the daughter, Elaine, away with her.

NEW FIGHT ON TO MOVE SHIP

A new legal move to have the four-masted schooner Nancy removed from the sands of Nantasket Beach, where it has rested since running aground in February 1927, has been started by David Maloney of Malden

Maloney, owner of three cottages on the beach close to where the Nancy rests, has circulated a petition among residents of Hull seeking to compel the Metropolitan District Commission to remove the schooner

In his petition Maloney cites that because of the presence of the Nancy he is unable to rent his cottages in summer

Shortly after the Nancy ran aground it became a big attraction and was visited by thousands who paid for admission

For several years attempts have been made to have the ship moved

Man Fined $25 for Bribing Officer

Because he insisted that Officer Asa McKenna of Waltham, take $2 to "forget" a minor infraction of the automobile laws, Arthur Amada of Harrison ave., Boston, was fined $25 and given a three months' suspended sentence in Waltham court today.

Amada admitted a finding of guilty to a charge of bribing a police officer. Pleas for probation and no fine were denied by the court.

West Roxbury Man Held in Liquor Case

Richard J. Walsh of Manthorne rd., West Roxbury, was held in $2000 for the federal grand jury today after arraignment before Commissioner Jenney on charges of selling and possessing liquor. George F. Shively, Jr., of same city, was held in $300 on a charge of possession a the same case.

HOLD NURSE IN BABY DEATHS

Charged with concealing the deaths of two babies, Miss Gladys Pease, 20, of Warren, a senior in the nurses training school at City Hospital, was arraigned before Judge James Parmenter in municipal court today, and held in $1000 for hearing March 17

The continuance was granted at request of Inspector Harry Pierce who informed the court that the bodies had been turned over to Medical Examiner Timothy Leary. Upon his decision as to whether the babies were born alive or dead will depend the nature of the formal charge to be made against Miss Pease

The nurse was arrested by Inspectors Pierce and James Dempsey of the headquarters homicide squad

According to police, bodies of two infants were found in a trunk in her room at the nurses' home

Miss Pease told officers that on Washington's birthday, 1928, she gave birth to a child without medical aid. The child was born dead. Without telling anybody she placed the body in her trunk and went to work the next day. No one at the hospital had any knowledge of what had happened

On February 28 of this year, still continuing her duties as a student nurse, she gave birth to another child, again without medical aid.

FRITZ LEIBER'S "HAMLET" HUMANIZES POPULAR SHAKESPEARE DRAMA

NO MODERN VERSION FOR HIM

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

BY scattered herald and by billboard, also in public print, Fritz Leiber has sent forth a new appeal for interest in the writings of Will Shakespeare. The Leiber claim that Avon's best known dramatist should be intelligently presented instead of simply cast upon the world in stulted phrase appears to be happily bearing its own reward at the Wilbur. For here, last night, "Hamlet" in all its tragic sequences was given an intelligible presentation.

MAKING Shakespeare popular with the masses has been the main objective of some of the most distinguished of actor folk in this generation. They have stressed the point to the extent of making Hamlet a gay, but eccentric, young blade in plus fours. Mr. Leiber attempts no such modernization; frankly, he frowns upon it. But he does insist upon giving the mystery of Denmark ous young Prince of Denmark the benefit of a good many doubts. He will not drag him bodily into the Twentieth Century, but he will invest him with qualities that are human and easy to grasp.

THAT, in the proverbial nutshell, is what Mr. Leiber presented to his audience at the Wilbur last night. The Hamlet that paced the stage was no strutting puppet out of a book; no romantic, half crazed youth making speech with wild gesticulation. It was just a straight-away performance — well spoken and well acted. Of course, much that passed the eye and caught the ear was not in good tune with Hamlets you had met in earlier days. But, on the whole, we are inclined to believe Mr. Leiber was more agreeable, even if lacking in grotesque demonstration.

EVERY young thespian of heroic stature, who has successfully passed the preliminary stages of training, anxiously gazes upon Hamlet as the ultimate goal of his ever-personal achievement. Leiber made a good job of it, leaving neither scar nor scratch upon line or situation. How, if any, actors could do better.

"Rogue Song" Rogue in Action

NEXT DOUG FAIRBANKS FILM WILL BE 'FORTY NINER'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

NEW YORK, March 12—To every inquiring reporter, who came within the gates of the United Artists' studio during the last two months, Douglas Fairbanks has intimated that some one of his past successes would go talkie.

"OH, YES, 'The Mark of Zorro,'" he would say, "I have been considering that and I may have it rewritten. I'll add dialogue."

"The Thief of Bagdad" was my best artistic effort. That would certainly be ideal with spoken lines."

"Robin Hood," now you are talking. What a talkie that would make."

And so on, with the result that every film writer in the country has named one of these as the next Fairbanks screen opening. A matter of fact, none of the former Fairbanks silent movies will be revived as "talkies" as Doug, original dealing with the days of '49, which Doug himself has authored, assisted by Lotta Woods and Porter Emerson Browne, will star the wise Doug, who apparently knows the value of publicity.

Louella O. Parsons

"HELL'S ANGELS" OPENS

THERE is nothing like having lots of good friends. I have appreciated that since I have been away from Hollywood. Every day telegrams have come giving me interesting information. Someone who should know, wires to tell me that "Hell's Angels" will open at Grauman's Chinese theater, "Hell's Angels," you will remember, has been two years in the making and was started long before talkies had any foothold. Howard Hughes, the young producer millionaire, was convinced his picture was all wrong and although he had already sunk two million dollars, he remade the entire thing. Courage, I call it. You can bet on one thing when "Hell's Angels" opens in Hollywood, everybody that can get a ticket will be there in all the dress regalia. It will be a big occasion.

THE Bennett sisters are all pretty and different in their types of beauty. Barbara, a brunette, and with a temperament unlike either Joan and Constance, came West to go into the movies. She brought along her new husband, Morton Downey, and both of them have been much entertained. Barbara so far has not been signed, but Morton will play one of the important parts in "The Devil's Holiday," which Edmund Goulding will direct for Paramount, and which will star Nancy Carroll.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

KEITH'S FILM STEPCHILD THEME

CONRAD NAGEL and Lila Lee head the cast of Radio Pictures' all talking drama, "Second Wife," which opens tomorrow at the new B. F. Keith's.

Fulton Oursler wrote the original play under the title of "All the King's Men" and also is the author of the book which was called "Spochild of the Moon."

The all-talking screen version depicts with dramatic clarity the difficulties encountered by a man and his "second wife," with a step-child in the background.

Unusual situations of a very human character are met by Conrad Nagel as the husband-father, and Lila Lee, in the role of his second wife.

Hugh Huntley, who plays the part of the "other man," makes his talkie debut in the picture, having been brought from New York especially for this part. He played the same role in the stage play during its Broadway run.

Mary Carr is cast as an old nurse, and for the first time in her long career furnishes the comedy relief. Little Freddie Burke Frederick, as the step-son gives a performance which reveals a genius for child acting.

Stage Who's Who

HARRY H. FORSMAN, popular actor with the "Little Accident" company at the Plymouth, was born in Williamsport, Pa., and educated in Lawrenceville, N. J. In 1888, he made his debut at the People's Theater on the Bowery, in Frank Mayo, Sr.'s, production of "David Crockett." Through skillful training received at the hands of Mr. Mayo, the foundation of a successful career was laid. Even to this day, after 40 years on the stage, Mr. Mayo's picture may still be found on Mr. Forsman's dressing table to serve as an inspiration as well as a reminder. Among his numerous New York appearances may be mentioned "Three Wise Fools," "Seventh Heaven," "The Country Sex" and "Way Down East."

POVLA FRIJSH HUB BOUND

EACH artist before the public is an individualist, at least that is the contention and they should be. It is that individuality which characterized Mme. Povla Frijsh which has drawn her from the ranks and placed her high in the ranks of musical art. Madame Frijsh is one of the great individualists not only in the musical world but in the world at large. Her imposing stage presence, her authority of style, her great intelligence, her unending enthusiasm, and her great understanding make her not only an artist but a person of real individuality. On Saturday afternoon at Jordan Hall Mme. Frijsh will be heard in a program of unusual songs, and many familiar ones. Madame Frijsh appeals not only to music lovers, but those to whom music is something of a closed book.

GOSSIP ALONG NEW YORK'S RIALTO

New York, March 12

JUST because Lew Leslie is packing up for a fishing trip within the next few days, don't go away with the despairing idea there isn't going to be another "Blackbird," the sprightly frolic of shonyland which turned so many honest yeomen of the city into amateur tap dancers a season ago. On the contrary, there will be, and part of Lew's vacation is to be spent in planning the new show. Since he probably won't hook any fish, anyhow, the chances are all of his holiday will be devoted to the coming production.

Law will be gone about two weeks, and when he returns rehearsals will be started with a brand-new set of negro stars. And, if all goes well, "Blackbirds" will be on view here the first week of May.

William Bolitho, the peripatetic penman, has just written a new play, and Bela Blau, who feels that mysterious producing organization bearing the title of Bela Blau, Inc., is so excited about it he scarce can contain himself. Indeed, avows Mr. Blau: "The play is so perfect we are going ahead with immediate production plans without a day's delay."

And certain that's service for any author.

The play is unnamed as yet, but its locale is western Germany a few years after the war.

This same Mr. Blau, incidentally, is embarking on an extravagant voyage on the managerial seas this spring. In addition to the Bolitho work he has acquired a drama from the head and hand of S. K. Lauren, co-author with George Abbott of "Four Walls." "We Love," which Phil Dunning has on view at the Golden Theater.

The new Lauren opera is "Reunion."

Both pieces will be done before summer or Bela Blau will know the reason why.

It seems that when the recent announcement of "Children of Darkness" at the Biltmore was made the implication inadvertently crept into the bulletin that Basil Sydney and Mary Ellis are to appear in the autumn in Guitry's "The Fall of Berg-op-Zoom" for the same management, the Messrs. MacGowan & Reed. Wherefor the concoctor of the message is at contrition, for, so far as is known, no such thing is in the air.

Sydney and Miss Ellis will have worked their contract with MacGowan & Reed with the cessation of "Children of Darkness" on Saturday night, and their plans for the fall are not yet laid.

is the title of Winnie's latest film offering—and the cause of all her difficulties. The picture is at the Washington St. Olympia and Uptown and will remain for a week.

"BEST SHOW" HITS HOWARD

THE Old Howard has the burlesque company titled "Best Show in Town." Merriment reigns supreme, and this is especially so when Reggie White makes her appearance. She is known in burlesque circles as a dancer of pleasing personality. Other favorites include Evelyn DuBois "Boots" Rush and Marie Miller. Miss White is genuinely popular. In the leading comedy role, Bob Startzman lives up to his reputation. Others included Lou Costello, Ed Lalor and Sammy Rice.

Beginning next Monday, James J. Corbett will be seen in person.

DIRECTING IS CHILD ACTOR'S AVOCATION

PERHAPS Phillipe de Lacy, who at eleven years is one of Hollywood's most successful child actors and who has an important role in Ruth Chatterton's starring production, "Sarah and Son," at the Metropolitan tomorrow, will grow up to be a suave bond broker or an inveigling real estate salesman. That would be the proper Old Henry twist, but it probably is not Phillipe's fate. He has mapped out his future so carefully and intelligently that it is difficult to believe that he will miss his aim very far. Phillipe's sole desire is to be a motion picture director. Young de Lacy is almost continually employed at one or the other of Hollywood's major motion picture studios. He is the most sought-after child actor. During the many hours when he must be at the studio, but is not actually working on the set, Phillipe is doing either one of two things. He is in the studio school room which every studio maintains for its working children, or he is on the set studying different phases of motion picture making.

News and Gossip of Society; Forecasts of Events in Greater Boston

DAUGHTERS OF NOTABLES IN SHOW

SOCIETY'S MOST EXCLUSIVE club is today eager to not only entertain the general public with a Parisian revue but to serve the large audiences that will see "Vincent Virtues and Vices" beginning tomorrow. In the capacity of ushers, flower vendors, program and ticket sellers. The very cream of the young smart set is putting on this show for the benefit of the Vincent Memorial Hospital and Boston's most distinguished families are represented in the large cast. Taking part in the opening chorus will be Mrs. William C. Cox (Jessie Bancroft), and the Misses Phyllis Ellsworth, Polly Beale, Anne Frothingham, Constance Harper, Jean Lamont Proctor, Carol Rogers, Betty Saltonstall, Anne Sutton, Mary Vance, Kathryn Watson and Barbara Welch, with the following "boys": Misses Frances Burnett, Katherine Davis, Ethel Grew, Cabriella Ladd, Rebecca Hallowell, Dorothea Newman, Isabel Potter, Pauline Shaw, Elizabeth Scaife, Mollie Scott, Rachel Warner and Anna Tuckerman.

A GAY HURDY GURDY NUMBER will be led by Miss Nancy Whitman doing a cane dance and six peasant girls supporting her. These are Misses Justine Prince, Esther Grew, Elizabeth Hamlin, Peggy Read, Mary Curtis, and Helena Thompson. In the "Bubbles" number Miss Louise Fessenden will sing the lead and Miss Nancy Hallowell will do a solo dance surrounded by Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, Jr., and the Misses Laura Robbins, Betty Spalding, Elizabeth Wheeler and Susan and Martha Wigglesworth. Mrs. John E. Thayer, Jr., Miss Elizabeth Scaife, and Mrs. Le Baron C. Colt will enact a skit, "The Silent Prompter." Misses Susan and Martha Wigglesworth will lead the scene, "Just Say So," supported by the Misses Laura Robbins, Anstiss Boyden, Elizabeth Wheeler, Jean Lamont Proctor, Ann Clark, Grace Livermore, Ethel Grew, Cecily Livermore, Susan Delle, Ruth Bayles, Mrs Cox and Mrs. Higginson, Jr.

DANCING SHADOWS, LED by Miss Dorothea Newman, will have several of this same group and the "Call of Spring," likewise draws talent from other choruses. Then comes Mrs. A. Lynde Cochrane in "Dixie Cinderella." One of the cleverest bits on the program will be "The Naughty Nineties," in which caricatures will be presented by Mrs. Augustus F. Doty (Eleanor De F. Jackson), Mrs Richard K. Baker, Jr., Mrs. Le Baron Colt, Mrs. D. L. Weld, Mrs. John E. Thayer, Jr. and Miss Louise Fessenden. The theme song and elaborate chorus of the production, "Apple Blossom Time," follows, then a group of "Strutters" which close the first act.

ONE OF THE SMARTEST acts will be the Russian Cossack drill in which are the following: Mrs J Riker Proctor and the Misses Margaret Bent, Anna Clark, Grace Livermore, Elizabeth Moller, Harriet Pantoni, Edith Gray, Frances Burnett, Anne Tuckerman, Rose Movius, Catherine Olney, Ethel Grew, Rachel Warner, Dorothea Newman, Katherine Davis, Anne Houghton, Elizabeth Thomas, Pauline Shaw, Nancy Means, Grace Cushing, Elizabeth Hovey, Gabriella Ladd, Rebecca Hallowell and Dorothy Lawrence. Miss Elizabeth Scaife as a "bachelor" will lead the 12 girls portraying a "Girl for Every Month" and Miss Nancy Whitman will play stage manager in a comedy skit called "Amateur Night."

THE TALENTED MISS EUGENIA FROTHINGHAM is to give her original slave dance next, and following this will be the lively "Red and Black Steppers." Miss Sally Wambolt and Miss Minna Lindsay are next in a "Boy and Girl" act, followed by an elaborate "Lady of Spain," in which there will be tango dancers and Castilian belles. Miss Anstiss Boyden will lead the "Crazy Rhythm" number in which Misses Ruth Lovering, Catherine Hedge, Rosamond Musgrave, Nancy Hallowell, Lucitia Orlandini and Edith Gray will appear in dexterous stepping. The final act is a dazzling "Jewel" number with Miss Helen Warren and Miss Elizabeth Thomas leading a sextet of "diamond girls" with their escorts, as well as pairs of emeralds, rubies, sapphires and amethyst girls, supported by a silver ballet chorus.

THE WEDDING OF DR. GEORGE C. VAILLANT, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Vaillant of Commonwealth ave., and Miss Susannah Beck at the home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs. Eman Beck, in Mexico City is of interest to a large circle of Boston friends. The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Frank W. Creighton, Episcopal Bishop of Mexico in the presence of the members of the two families, including the parents and sister of the bridegroom. Miss Marian Vaillant. The bride's sister, Mrs. Webster Kent Newcomb, was matron of honor and Bryant Prescott was best man. Dr. Vaillant is an archeologist, connected with the New York Museum of Natural History and it was while engaged in research work in Mexico that he met Miss Beck. Following a honeymoon abroad the couple will reside in New York.

A TEA WILL BE GIVEN AT the Hotel Somerset on March 25 by the British Consul General, Hon. Edward F. Gray, and Mrs. Gray, in honor of W. Bridges Adams, director, and members of the Stratford-on-Avon Shakespeare Players, who will present a Shakespearean repertoire at the Hollis Street Theater during that week.

SOME OF THE POTTERIES and sculpture exhibited by Mrs. Robert Stone (Alice Balch) in a one-man show in the Pennsylvania Academy in Philadelphia will be on display at the Society of Arts and Crafts, beginning tomorrow and lasting through March 26. A few interesting pieces of clay that have not yet been fired are included in the exhibit. Mrs. Stone has won an enviable reputation for fidelity of expression in her sculpture, and has also specialized in potteries of unusual design.

SPRING WEATHER STIRS the enthusiasm of a large contingent of society which is just now arranging European itineraries to include Liverpool on March 28, when the Grand National will be run. Mrs. Daniel Simonds, 2d (Elizabeth Sprague), who has won many blue ribbons in the show ring, will leave next Friday with Mr. Simonds for England and the turf classic. The Charles Sumner Birds, who are now in Spain, will be spectators at the Grand National on their way to their hunting lodge, Rective House, near Dublin, Ireland. Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Smith (Janice Vaughan) are others planning to attend the races. They have been spending the winter at Craven Lodge Club, Melton Mowbray, England, and are booked for the Grand on May 18. They will go to Hamilton directly on their return here. Among those sailing tomorrow will be Miss Diana Loe-Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Loe-Warner of Betchingly, Surrey, England. Miss Diana has been spending the past two years with her grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Sherwin, and her aunt, Mrs. W. H Goodwin, on Beacon st.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD HUMPHREYS of Chestnut Hill have left for a few weeks at Bermuda where Miss Virginia Rice, Mrs. Charles A. Kidder and several other Bostonians are spending spring vacations after a busy social season here. Mr. and Mrs. George Burnett of Southboro are with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Streeter in Havana. Returning travellers include Mrs. Barrett Wendell, arriving today on the Majestic, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill Thorndike with their daughter, Miss Winifred Thorndike, who are lingering a few days in Washington, en route home from Palm Beach.

Right Idea!

This five year old athlete is the son of Mrs. Ethel Jenkins, 31 So. Huntington Ave., Boston. She says: "Seymour's wonderful condition shows my idea is right.

"Whenever he's the least cross or upset or has a cold, I give him a little California Fig Syrup. It always brightens him up; regulates his stomach and bowels; gives him a hearty appetite. I have used it with my boy since he was a year old, and it has never failed to help him promptly."

All children love the rich, fruity flavor of California Fig Syrup. A pure vegetable product, it doesn't gripe or sicken. It always acts gently but thoroughly to cleanse the system of bilious, headachy constipated children. Doctors say it tones and strengthens weak bowels. Try it with your child. See how bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness disappear!

The name California marks the genuine, famous for 50 years. So look for it when buying.

MISS BECKER'S ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mrs. Gabriel W Becker of 504 Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, announces the engagement of her daughter, Marion B. Becker, to Philip Eiseman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Eiseman of 930 Beacon st., Boston, and Sea Bead, Swampscott.

Miss Becker, who is the granddaughter of Simon Vorenberg of Boston, is a graduate of Cambridge Haskell school and of Smith College, class of 1927. Mr. Eiseman is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1925, and Harvard Law School of Business Administration, 1927, and is a nephew of Mrs. A. Lincoln Filene and Mrs. Sidney Dreyfus. He is affiliated with the First National Old Colony Corporation.

The wedding will take place in June at Green Gate, Swampscott, the summer estate of Mr. Vorenberg.

B. U. 'Vocation Teas' to Aid Job Getting

Girls of the senior class at Boston University's college of liberal arts will be guests of Dean Lucy Jenkins Franklin at her office tomorrow afternoon at the first of a series of "vocational teas," which she is instituting for the first time.

Dean Franklin, university dean of women, has seen the gathering surplus of teachers in the schools of the nation, and to prevent girl graduates being stranded in the professional world upon their graduation next June, she intends to face frankly with them the problem of job-getting.

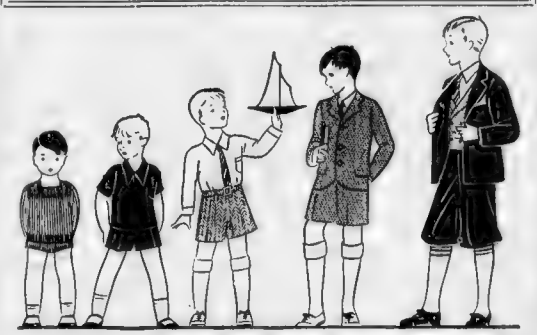
This Modern World

Edited by ANN ARDEN

A Department Devoted to Fashions, Decoration and Social Customs



ANY mother who tried to get a refractory young man of seven into a befrilled blouse and velveteen shorts has realized that the aforesaid young person has already settled upon very definite fashion views of his own! It is interesting to note how early children react to public approval or disapproval—they would rather be punished than wear an outfit that would seem different from that of a neighbor child.

This is especially true of small boys—they very early feel the social pressure of age When at five other boys are wearing frilled blouses and shorts, it is all right, but let a year or two be added and the same outfit becomes definitely babyish and the boy flatly refuses to appear in it.

DRESSING little boys is really a delightful business, they appear so surprisingly masculine in the first small suits which they don. From the time a small boy begins to walk until he has reached the advanced stage of a knicker suit, there are various stages of costuming which he passes through. A brief resume of correct clothes from two to 10 would cover the ages sketched here.

The first little suit past the creeper stage is a knitted affair with overblouse and the briefest of shorts—this is correct for the lad of two to four. It may be alternated with washable suits which have panties buttoning onto a blouse.

BETWEEN three and five the young man about the nursery will appear in tailored looking jersey or cotton suits with mannish looking blouses which either tuck in or are worn over the well-pressed shorts. A number of these jersey models in varying shades constitute the average little boy's wardrobe—they withstand wear and tear admirably.

The first kindergarten suit takes on proportions befitting such a momentous step. Tweed shorts with an actual belt are worn over a cotton shirt. A very grown up striped tie adds the final masculine touch to the outfit.

THE rise to primary grades and the necessity for assuming more grown-up ways calls forth the first actual suit. This is cut in the English manner with high buttoned jacket. It is worn in tweeds for daytime and more formal suitings for dress. The shorts still persist at this age.

Nine or ten years of age is about the time that a young man feels he should have actual knickers—so the shorts are put away and the knicker suit appears, vest and all!

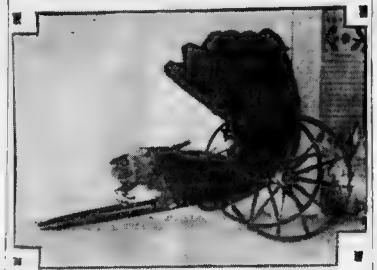
Jobless and Broke, Finds Trinket; Reward $300

Palm Beach, Fla., March 12—Jobless, his rent overdue, his grocery credit shut off, A. S. Ames of West Palm Beach, was walking along dejectedly when he found a mere trinket—a pin. Ames dropped it into his pocket and began reading the want ads in the newspaper. Absently he looked at the "lost and found" column, and then paused excitedly. Hurriedly he re-examined the pin.

Mrs. Leo F. Cummings of Chicago and Palm Beach claimed the pin as her $4500 diamond brooch and paid Ames a reward of $300.

DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 44



Something unusual in the line of children's toys is pictured today. It is a miniature doll carriage of graceful design, fabricated from tortoise shell.

This little two-wheeler has given joy to many generations of young hearts in the past century and a half or more. It is in the form of a jinrikisha and was brought into this country from the Orient 150 years ago by some hardy New England mariner.

The doll carriage, still in perfect state of preservation, even to its silver-rimmed wheels, is in the interesting collection of Mrs. Cecil E Fraser of 64 Boylston st., Cambridge.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, provided the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

FRECKLES

March Worst Month. Will Stay All Summer if Neglected

There's a reason why nearly everybody freckles in March, but happily there is also a treatment for these ugly, rusty blemishes so reliable and simple that no one need stay freckled.

Get a jar of Othine Double Strength from any drug or department store. Just a few nights' use of this dainty white cream and you will know the joy of seeing every last freckle leave your face, revealing the fair, lovely, milk-white skin that has been hiding away under those homely, rusty-brown spots.

March is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they will stay all summer, and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Your money back if Othine does not satisfy.

APOLLO CLUB CONCERT IS THRONGED

By MOSES SMITH

The second of this season's Apollo Club concerts in Jordan hall last night had a program which featured the music of George W. Chadwick, veteran director of the New England Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Chadwick was present to hear excellent singing of three of his pieces—"Saint Botolph" "Song of the Viking" and "Ecce Jam Noctis." The hearty applause of the audience, no doubt, was meant as much for this great figure in American music as for the creditable efforts of the singers and their conductor, Thompson Stone.

Otherwise the program was exceedingly light, to put it mildly. The music, with an occasional exception was of the most innocuous kind. Presumably this satisfied the public of the Apollo Club, since the audience almost filled the hall. But is it not possible to include at least one choral work of fairly large dimensions and solid musical worth not to say a worthwhile novelty at each concert?

Irma Seydel, violinist, was the soloist and, and she, too, picked a program of trifles on which to employ her obvious talents. She was warmly applauded, and added at the end of her second group another trifle, though it was a considerable one, an arrangement of Schubert's "Ave Maria."

Frederic Huddy sang the baritone solo in Villiers Stanford's robust "Cavalier Songs," and Ernest Speth was the soloist in an Irish folk song, "Has Sorrow Thy Young Days Shaded?"

Mrs. Sayre to Speak at B. U. Banquet

Mrs. Jessie Woodrow Sayre of Cambridge will be the speaker tomorrow evening at the annual banquet of the Women's Council of Boston University's School of Religious Education and Social Service. She will speak on "The Home."

The College Woman's Responsibility for World Peace," before the student gathering which will be at 6.30 at the Twentieth Century Club.

WHAT YOUNG MEN DEMAND OF SWEETHEARTS

Beauty Comes First With Princeton Freshmen

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

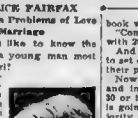
WOULD you like to know the qualities a young man most admires in a girl?

There a questionnaire submitted to the freshman class of Princeton University and answered by 302 young men may be regarded as a straw showing which way the wind blows.

Not winds from all four points of the compass certainly, but at least a zephyr from an institution which has given us scores of important men.

The requirements are very modern—up to the minute, in fact.

But before taking the preference of these boys too seriously please bear in mind that the average age of a freshman is only eighteen and that very likely none of the boys answering was more than twenty-



Beatrice Fairfax

One of the 302 the largest number to agree on any single quality was 74, who decided "the most essential quality in an ideal girl is BEAUTY!

Personality—or those qualities which make a girl stand out from the "bunch"—got 65 votes.

The third highest vote, 45, went to the "ability to dance well."

The next in order of popularity was "good sense and humor," which chalked up 34.

Thirty-one were in favor of an "interesting conversationalist." It would be instructive to know if the young gentlemen who demand good talker and are afflicted with shyness, if they are just naturally good listeners, or if perhaps they may not be gathering material for books. The first to discover the "flapper" type and put her in a book was a Princeton man.

"Constancy" took the next place with 29 votes.

And only 24 boys had the courage to set down in black and white that their preference was for "brains!"

Now please don't shake your head and imagine, if you happen to be 30 or thereabouts, that the country is going to the dogs because a majority of these youths decided in favor of things that appear—to 30—a good deal like the frosting on the top of the cake, as 18 ones can digest frosting—even if it begins to pall at 30.

It's not unlikely that those splendid old worthies whose portraits look down from the walls of Nassau Hall might not have put down the same dazzling demands in a questionnaire as their great great grandsons—if the truth were told.

What seems to have completely escaped the 278 young men who demanded everything but brains is that intelligence is likely to be back of the qualities they thought "essential." Only young brains of 18 and men who are older, much older, would do well to bear in mind that the girl with real brains is too clever to let them know she has them.

Be brains are her weapons, and she uses them to appear to be the type they most admire. She's far too clever to let you find out how much intelligence is back of her turning in with your moods.

In this day of the beauty parlor and the fine art of good grooming almost any girl can appear to be beautiful—or at least interesting looking—but back of this must go the brains which will enable her to choose clothes becomingly, even if they must be inexpensive, and to make the best of her good points.

And, pray, what is "personality" but brains? To dance well you've got to have the sense of rhythm (musical ear, qualities that do not go with a lack of intelligence.

But this has gone far enough—why give away valuable secrets?

Girl Unafraid -:- By Gladys Johnson

"I'm going to open a shop and you are going to run it for me," said Jeanette, blowing a stream of cigarette smoke down her nose. Ardeth regarded her with puzzled eyes.

There was a frightened and exulting note in Ardeth's voice.

"Done!" Jeanette rose and crushed the cigarette in an ash tray. "I'll run along and start the wheels turning. I'll see you tomorrow—"

She departed in a glow of action and importance. Already Jeanette was boasting in her mind to an imaginary audience. "—I hired this girl I had in mind and inside of a week the place was running, my dear! I'm like that when I start anything—red hot decisions—"

Ardeth was swept by doubts and fears. Yet under the thoughts which she tried to make deliberate and staid, was beating the consciousness of Ken Gleason. Fate . . . rushing her toward him . . .

That night, at the dinner table, she announced her decision to an unappreciative audience.

Aunt Stel regarded her from beneath knit brows. "Be sure you don't come to grief with your high and mighty ideas," she said darkly. "Your fine friend will get tired of her scheme over night an' you'll find yourself holdin' the bag, my girl!"

"Think you're going to bust into society?" inquired Pet acidly. "I suppose we'll be reading all about you running with the Burlingame crowd now you're as popular with the Parkers! Well, they aren't marrying shop girls, let me tell you that!"

Ardeth's golden eyes blazed under level brows. "You'd tell me anything that's provoking it was nasty enough!" she said in a low shaking voice.

And the real battle came with Neil. He was waiting in the dark hall when she let herself into the house the next even ng.

She gave a little startled cry as he s apped out of the shadows and grasped her arms. In the thick light his face was white, and the black eyes burning down into her own were wild.

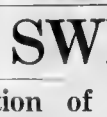
Action of Vitamins in Our Food

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York; Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

EVERYBODY knows that food is a necessary and vital factor in life. But it is only recently that we have had knowledge of just what happens to it in the body. We better appreciate what the scientists call "food, meta bolism" Even now it is not fully under stood.



Dr. Copeland

Food has been studied for its protein, fat, carbohydrate, mineral and water content. The calories, or the heat - producing elements in food have been talked about, too often. But the most important may be considered proper from the chemical and mechanical standpoints, this may not supply all our needs.

There are specific substances in food that regulate the individual organism. They are called the "vitamins." Their presence is necessary in food in order that full nourishment of the body may be secured.

When sufficient vitamins are lacking in the diet of the young they do not attain normal growth Without them an adult will be reduced in weight and lack vigor He becomes an easy mark for infectious diseases. As a result of such an ailment one of the many deficiency diseases may attack the body.

Let us consider some of these ailments.

"Vitamin A" is found in animal fats, especially in cream and its products, in cod liver oil, egg yolk and bone marrow. We find it also in the leafy vegetables, yellow corn sweet potatoes, tomatoes and raw carrots, always in the yellow vegetables.

When Vitamin A is absent the appetite fails, there is poor digestion and growth. The sinuses may have pus formation Eye trouble may result. A deficiency in this vitamin often causes general physical weakness, susceptibility to lung and eye trouble or certain forms of anemia

"Vitamin B" is a sensitive substance. It is destroyed by heat easily We find it in milk, egg yolk, vegetables, legumes—that is, peas, beans and lentils—and spinach. Nuts contain it, and so do malt, whole grain cereals and red meats.

Absence of Vitamin B results in poor appetite and digestion, loss of weight and emaciation. There will be loss of vigor and perhaps enlarged diuretic glands The nervous system may be affected.

Its presence in the diet not only increases the appetite and digestion, but it promotes growth. Nerve diseases are prevented by its presence in the food. It increases both the quantity and quality of the milk of the nursing mother

Another vitamin regulates the mineral supply of the body. Especially does it control the lime and phosphorus changes in the system. It prevents rickets and assists in overcoming tuberculosis and diseases of the teeth.

Space prevents any description of the other vitamins but milk carries all of them Everyone should make the most of this perfect food. The diet should be so regulated that these nourishing vitamins are always present in quantities sufficient to maintain good health.

Listen, World!

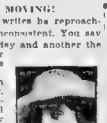
By ELSIE ROBINSON

KEEP MOVING!

"YOU are," writes he reproachfully, "inconsistent. You say one thing one day and another the next I never know where you stand.

In which case, brother, you have been living on me! I plan, never know where I'm going to stand anyhow. I want to keep moving.

As far as I can see, this present age has no use for anything but Movers. Time was when Stand Patters won all the medals. Life changed little from one generation to another. Invention did not bring out a nice, respectable set of ideas for himself at twenty and use them, with occasional bad mends ninety. Indeed, most people didn't bother to select their own ideas They just took out their fathers' or grandfathers had used, and nobody knew the difference



Elsie Robinson

IT was a very comfortable state of society and people who professed that comfort, consistent people who stayed stationary and didn't wiggle, were highly esteemed While, on the other hand, people who bounced about and tried to start something were naturally given the dog eye. Civilization is on the flit.

But those comfortable days are no more. The consistent person who thinks today what he thought last month and who follows the program which he followed five years ago, is no longer an asset to his community. He's a pest. He gets in everyone's way, including his own. He ties up traffic

This is the 40-minute parking. By the time you've parked that long on one idea, the signals have changed, the traffic is moving and it's up to you to move with it. If you don't move, you're out of luck and the peeved spectators will speedily make you realize it.

KEEP moving! Keep changing' This world in which you are living changes every hour. Its knowledge . . . its knowledge . . . its equations . . . its social attitudes are in flux You do not need to accept all these new ideas and attitudes but you should recognize them, study them and adapt your life to them. Unless you do keep adapting, you're not worth a hoot to yourself or anyone else

Consistency? Pooh! You might as well boast about wearing the same shirt steadily as boast about thinking the same thoughts steadily.

KEEP MOVING!

LIKEN MOVING AHEAD . . .

Children Seek Attention

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

WE all know that a child will do something, if it isn't something outstandingly good it will be something annoying just to command the attention of its adult.

This probably explains why when several children get together they act like little rascals just to arouse the attention they are accustomed to when they are alone with Mother.

A mother and one son visited several children's homes. In three children there was a boy of his age. Things had been going smoothly until at dinner one evening one of the three children of the house, a boy of seven years, began a rampage. Casting all previous training aside, he threw his grahamed food, he picked food off the plates of his nearest neighbor with his own hands, leaned across the table to snatch a piece of bread and otherwise acted like a barbarian. Underneath the whole performance of course was the subconscious desire to get mother to notice him. Being highly satisfactory, shocked way he had expected which would have focused all eyes on him

Picking up his plate, she refilled it, in the form and handed it to him, saying: "Here, Bobbie, take your plate and go out in the backyard with the rabbits."

They won't mind a bit if you eat with your fingers and make loud noises over eating. But it annoys us exceedingly."

Her eyes held his quietly, but there was a little twinkle in them, too, he" So he took his plate and went down by the rabbit hutches and ate solemnly and slowly. Now what that was there in that?

Just a quiet, logical result of what he had done. No horrified exclamations and scolding. No eyes of everyone upon him, just a lonely dinner out in the grass for a light with a few unconcerned rabbits.

Let's forget the nagging and scolding and use our heads in working out behavior problems. Make the punishment merely a logical result of the deed.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

HINTS FOR THE BRIDEGROOM

EVERY young husband has to learn a brand new signal code and master the domestic sign manual during the first year of marriage.

No sooner has a bridegroom discovered where to find his razor and the talcum than he has to start in memorizing his wife's signals, for public use. And, as no two women have the same system of signals, he is always in danger of "setting the Stop and Go signs mixed.

For instance, a long, cold, steely arresting gaze that goes right through a man and hitches up the back may mean, "You are making a fool of yourself." Or, "Your shirt front is bulging; pull it down." Or, "Everyone is watching you—and I'm not missing anything!"

A SIGNIFICANT lift of the left eyebrow may mean, "You are using the wrong fork." Or, "You are drinking too much." Or, "Why did you pull that one?"

And a veiled glance out of the corners of the eyes may signify, "Let's go home; I'm tired." Or, "Did you KISS that?" Or, "It's time to finish your salad." Or, "Watch your step; you're telling too much."

WHILE a loving pinch on the arm may mean, "For the Lord's sake, let them say good night and GO!" Or, "It's your turn to pay; pick up the check."

A flutter of the handkerchief from the far corner of the room may be an imperative S O S meaning, "Come and rescue me; I'm being bored to death!" Or, "This man is getting too clubby. Come and show him who's paying my bills."

Or, "Are you going to leave me sitting here in this corner all evening?"

While a faint but significant frown may mean, "I'm getting nervous; let's get out of this." Or, "Try to STOP me; I dare you to make a scene!" Or, "You've told that one ten times to those people."

AND a strained smile may mean, "Yes, isn't he cute? Just wait till I get him home!"

Or, "Go on; don't mind me; I'm only your wife!"

Or, "Now, you've spilled the beans! Just as I expected!"

Mental telepathy may work beautifully during courtship, when a man's mind is working at high pressure to please the girl he's trying to win. But after the honeymoon a code system is much more reliable than any mere masculine intuition. And it's a wise husband who takes time off to master his wife's signals, and learns to understand the sign language.

But many an innocent man has almost driven his wife to first degree murder, by that reproachful "What-have-I-done-now?" look in his eyes, after one of her little code kicks under the table.

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER 53.

"TOM is having his lunch upstairs," Aunt Em reported sourly when she came back from the door with Tommy in her arms

She carried him into the kitchen and fed him his spinach and his orange juice and his milk.

And, sitting there, she delivered herself of some things that were on her mind.

"If you two people had just stayed in that little house," she said loudly, so that Lovejoy could hear her in the next room, "there wouldn't have been all this rowing and fussing! You wouldn't have spent all your money on a lot of linen and stands and [illegible] furniture! It was getting in with all that fly-by-night crowd that ruined you both—"

Lovejoy put her hands over her ears . . . Aunt Em had said that a dozen times before, and she was sick and tired of listening to it

"You were just like a lot of the people that made so much sudden money during the war a few years back!" Aunt Em was saying when she took her hands from her ears "They were making ten and twelve dollars a day in the factories—and spending it on silk shirts, if you please! And silk stockings, if you please! And automobiles to ride themselves around in—instead of putting it into the banks

Lovejoy broke up from the dining room table, where she had been eating, and went into the bathroom She turned on the water in the bathtub . . . and mercifully it shut out the sound of Aunt Em's voice saying harsh things that hurt because they were the truth

She emptied the bottle of verbena bath salts into the steaming water. . . It was lovely to be able to do it, somehow

To have enough of everything at last! she thought, looking ahead into the future

She loved Reeve, too, of course Not in the silly puppy love way that she had loved Tom, but in a quieter, surer way

At 5 o'clock a florist's boy brought a square white box to the flat. It was filled with white gardenias and Aunt Em gave a gasp when she lifted them from their tissue-paper wrappings

"They're from Oglehay, of course!" she exclaimed "Now isn't that horrible? Sending you a lot of white flowers as if you were a bride goin' away on her wedding trip instead of a woman sneaking out of town for a divorce—"

I wonder what shed say if she knew that Steve was going West with me, thought Lovejoy and she burst out laughing

She pinned the flowers on her coat that night when she was ready to leave the flat. They were a bit bridal looking, she had to admit to herself. But they were vastly becoming.

"The baby is sound asleep," she told Aunt Em as she kissed her good by. "Please don't give him anything with sugar in it and please make him drink his spinach juice every day whether he wants it or not"

Aunt Em was crying If this isn't the craziest thing a woman ever did! Running off to get a divorce when you could stay right here and get it! I do believe you're planning to marry that Oglehay out there afterward, so help me, Hannah"

Code in the dark street an automobile horn honked.

But at the door she turned and took a thin packet of envelopes from her handbag. She held them out to Aunt Em.

"These are some letters that belong to Aline Alderson," she said to her. "You'll see that they're addressed to me But Tom and his letters belonged to Aline and always had belonged to her!—Not that it made any difference what he thought about them now!

Love's Beauty Secrets

By LALUNA de SERRANO
The Beauty Sorceress

AGE holds no fear for women who take care of their beauty, who develop their talents and who keep themselves young.

—Laluna de Serrano.

NINON DE LENCLOS was truly a beauty. But she was much, much more. Indeed, it has often been said that that which made her one of the most fascinating women of all time, would have made her so, had she been without beauty.

Nor was this beauty an outstanding one, rather symphony of perfections. Eyes, teeth, lips, ankles—each of these has its legend, yet the composite is the enduring legend.

Ninon de Lenclos Was an Artist in Love

She was an artist in love, and had the unusual ability to make real and enduring friends of her many lovers long after (to use her own words) her "caprice was over."

AGE made no inroads on the loveliness of Ninon, because it was a loveliness that did not depend upon mere physical beauties. In the paradise of her autumn the leaves did not become yellow and the nightingales did not cease to sing. Love still smiled in the tiny wrinkles around her eyes. And young men did not notice that Ninon was old, whilst old men became young in her presence

She was already 79 years old when the Abbe Gedoyn fell in love with her. What better proof of a beauty that lives over the most dreaded of all antagonists—time?

AGE holds no fears for beautiful women who make themselves lovely, who develop their talents and who keep themselves alive One should live for what one has to be sure, but keeping in mind the value of inner loveliness and charm, and should, above all things, never fear age.

Protect your skin always, by keeping it clean and when it is about to be exposed, giving it added protection in the form of a vanishing cream and veils for a long motoring trip.

Take care of your hands and neck; they are the first to show age unpleasantly. For the hands, acquire the habit of massaging them in a washing movement with oils and skin food, and learn to wear cosmetic gloves every night Never neglect or forget your gloves when you go out, either

Do not deny or dislike the all wer that gleams through your hair—instead, take good care of that hair with brushing and treatments, and it will always be lovely, even while it changes to gray.

Proper Wedding Attire

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

I am to be married soon and I would like to know if it is proper to be married at the ministers house in a white dress and veil If not, would you please tell me what is the proper attire?

Dedham. FRANCES D.

Since a wedding held at the minister's house would be classified as a quiet wedding, it seems consistent that the bride should wear her informal attire, a dress and coat and hat, or ensemble.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been asked by a girl I know very well to go to a birthday party given for her chum. Is it proper for me to call on her and present a present, even if I do not know her as I never even saw her?

Milton. ROBERT

No, it is not necessary for you, nor would it be in good form for you to give a consequential birthday present to the girl But there is an opportunity for you to make a polite gesture in taking her one of the gifts always in good form for just such occasions as this: a box of candy or other sweets such as glace fruits or fruits, or, if you wish, a corsage bouquet. A dance record for her phonograph would also be in good taste. These gifts would be thoroughly appreciated by Miss Grundy and would do a great deal toward the right sort of impression for your part.

In fact, I should like to add that this kind of gift-flowers, candy, a late book perhaps, a sheet of music or a phonograph record, is always appropriate for the ladies to send or take to his hostess. So many men, especially young men accept such hospitality from hostesses, and never have a generous impulse of taking to her some little token of his thoughtfulness and appreciation. This is an excellent solution for the young man who, for instance, is asked many times in dine at the same house and who is not in a position to repay the hospitality in its own terms, but he can always plan a little thing for the hostess, although inexpensive, delicately registers the spirit of his appreciation.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1 I am a widow of 47 years of age and have grown children. I wish to know whether it is customary to wear my wedding band or not

2—Also what first name do I use as a signature, my first name, or the first name of deceased husband.

Melrose. MRS. F

1 Is it customary for a widow to wear her wedding ring I cannot understand why a widow ever wants to discard her wedding ring if she had any love for her husband. Why should she discard it? If she loved him and loves his memory, she is still spiritually married to him.

2—As an informal signature, use the first and last names of your maiden name before the surname of your husband: Mary Smith Robinson for instance This is the correct signature for a business letter, or a letter to someone who must be informed of your formal name:

Very truly yours,
Mary Smith Robinson
(Mrs. Edward Robinson)

A widow uses the same form for her name that she used when her husband was alive

Mary, Melrose—Yes, I know, girls and women are wearing all sorts of almost flashy gowns in business, but that doesn't make such garishness right. The shops are full of good looking things to wear that are not loud. Take a look around at once.

John L. F. Brooklina—You cannot ask a friend to propose your name for membership in a club He should take the initiative. You should praise the club, its members, etc Then if your friend thinks you might like it he is certain to ask you to join.

Frederick H. Prince, Boston financier, president of Chicago Junction Railways & Union Stock Yards Co. in annual report says: "Receipts of cattle for 1929, compared with 1928, show a decrease of 116,434 animals. The number of calves decreased 89,538. Receipts of hogs were 246,454 less than in previous year. Receipts of sheep show a decrease of 83,019 compared with previous year, but the quality received about equalled the five and ten-year average. Total number of all animals received 4,000,000 against 4,336,489 from previous year, and total valuation of animals, received was $721,251,764 compared with a valuation of $822,551,608, a decrease of $1,175,845.

"Present outstanding bonds at the Central Manufacturing District are aggregate $3,909,000 at face total issue of $10,000,000. During the year bonds to the amount of $205,000 were retired. During 1929, forty-two sales and leases were consummated, with industries for space in Central Manufacturing District and vicinity on Chicago Junction and Chicago River & Indiana rails. Building for the year was $3,000,000 about normal. Total construction for the year reached approximately $925,000. Numerous negotiations are pending with prospective industries." This spells further activity.

There were big offerings of new stock issues in Wall and State sts. yesterday. They included a $14,000,000 preferred stock issue by Standard Oil Export Corp. and a $12,500,000 preferred stock issue of Alleghany Corp. This larger offerings are the first of the sort since the stock crash of 1929, and are prosperity straws indicating the extent to which public confidence has been revived. If the confidence did not exist, the underwriting could not exist the offerings could not be successfully made.

Report of the committee on finance for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. indicates that nearly $10,000,000 has been invested in new funds during the first two months of 1930, of special interest is the fact that of this amount, $3,700,000 was invested in public utilities, $3,408,000 in farm and city mortgage loans and $750,000 in railroad and miscellaneous securities. Total assets are $258,000,000.

Of the mortgage loans accepted in the two months, $2,479,611 was in 381 farm loans yielding 6.68 per cent and $2,929,290 on 168 city properties to yield 5.80 per cent. The city loans include 108 single family dwelling houses and 20 apartment buildings, housing in all 781 families.

"Despite the general market depression and production curtailment here and there American industry is in a real healthy condition, ready to expand to normal output at short notice," says G. I. Rhea, chief engineer of Norton Co. Bros. Inc., nationally known production engineers and experts in industrial conditions.

"One of the reasons for this sound condition he says is that the industrialist of today as a result of lessons learned from past depressions is much better equipped with a knowledge of the fundamentals of manufacturing than the predecessor.

* * *

"Another contributing factor is the close attention paid today by the manufacturer to the principles of inventory control and production planning which has resulted in a general healthy condition of inventories. Production is being utilized more effectively by the manufacturer than ever before and is steadily bringing about greater productivity per dollar invested."

Orpheum Gains

Best Business Asset Is Many Real Friends

Read This Letter From a Father to His Three Young Sons

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, March 12—A father has written a letter to his three young-men sons, embodying on a recent statement in this column. His observations contain much unofficial human nature and so much homely philosophy that they are worth giving.

The article which inspired the letter included this from a veteran millionaire business man:

"It would be a wonderful thing if all of us who are engaged in business could realize early enough in life that the greatest thing in the world is not making money—although that is necessary—but making friends. The older I grow the more I see that the thing which counts most of all is the friendships we have succeeded in forming."

"If the younger fellows who are now carrying on could only learn the value of friendship, the harshness of the world would be carried on much more harmoniously. There would be far less fighting and quarrelling. There wouldn't be so much misunderstanding and bitterness. They would always have in mind that the wealth most worthwhile of all is a wealth of friends, and they would not be very ready to do things that cost them friends."

The fatherly letter, written away from home and addressed to sons at home, follows:

"I want you to read the enclosed column by B. C. Forbes, show it to your mother, and then, when you two have read it word for word, send it to Stanford University.

"If you will sit down and read this article as I want you to, you will have a very much better idea of what the old man meant when we had our family conference last Saturday night, when he spoke on building up a background of friendliness and friendships.

"If you will recall, I not only stressed the need of that, but tried to emphasize the importance of you boys beginning to put in an enduring foundation now.

"I was delighted to learn last night that plans have already been made to make a more companionable use of your Brad. Didn't know of nothing that has pleased me more than to feel and to know that notwithstanding the fact that we had at the family conference a few nights ago, the real seriousness of it did sink in.

"Sometimes I do a lot of thinking as just how we all would feel if bad luck should come to us and we should have to give up some of the many things that we now enjoy. If it should come tomorrow, I for one would be a little ashamed of the fact that we hadn't made the most of our stewardship while fortune favored us.

"No one can say that bad luck will or will not come to us, but this much I know to a certainty, that if we handle success well, and if we make the proper use of the tools that we have in our hands now, then in the event that bad luck should ever come to us, we can laugh at it.

"Always remember this—that ill-fortune never stays long with any one who can look it in the eye and make fun of it. Those of us who lived through the earthquake and fire discovered that in the rebuilding of San Francisco.

"So read this article. If it does you the good I think it does, we all should be very thankful.

"DAD!"

This week a prominent out-of-town financier said, when the name of a not particularly popular big New York banker was mentioned in an unflattering way, "But they tell me he is loyal to his friends." And that was considered a priceless offsetting asset.

• • •

Why should those of us still youngish wait until too late to appreciate that the best asset of being is genuinely rich who is poor in friendship?"

Koppers Gas & Coke

Koppers Gas & Coke Co. reports for net profit of $5,000,066 after taxes, depreciation and interest.

I. R. T. Votes Payment in Accord With Plan of 1922

New York, March 12—The Interborough Rapid Transit Co. voted payment of 40 cents per share as of April 1, 1930, installment of dividend-rental on Manhattan modified guaranteed stock. This is in accordance with 1922 plan of readjustment and was based on earnings of Interborough Co. for quarter ended December 31, 1929. It will be paid April 1, 1930, to stock of record March 21, 1930.

$16,000,000 FOR N. E. POWER DEVELOPMENT

At annual meeting of shareholders of New England Power Association Charles E. Cotting was added to the board of directors. Other directors were re-elected.

Action on creating a new issue of 750,000 shares of $2 dividend preferred stock was postponed until March 18, owing to lack of quorum of preferred stock.

This new stock, it was explained by Pres. F. D. Comerford, would be issued from time to time to customers and employees as conditions warrant. It would be of decided value to the association over a period of years, to have its customers own its stock, he stated.

The Fifteen Mile Falls development is progressing satisfactorily in his opinion. Work is now a month ahead of schedule. Up to the end of 1929 the association had expended $16,000,000 on the development, in addition to stock issued for water and land rights.

Approximately 85 per cent of its output will be sold quarterly next to the Boston Edison Co., he told stockholders, so that the association is not apprehensive of securing a market for the power to be generated at this point.

Commenting on price paid for Worcester Electric Light stock, $235 a share, Mr Comerford stated that the price was high and not justified by current earnings. Over a period of years, however, the purchase will prove profitable, he said, declaring that the property is right in the heart of the association's system and the price had to be paid or the company would have gone to a competitor.

The year 1929 he termed a "healthy one" so far as earnings were concerned. The distribution system was broadened by addition of the Worcester company, Fall River Electric and Attleboro Steam & Electric companies.

Balance sheet of New England Power Association as of December 31, 1929, showed current assets of $15,232,177, against current liabilities of $8,180,391. Total assets amounted to $297,138,731.

Initial Payment on New Otis Issue

New York, March 12 (AP)—The new common stock of the Otis Elevator Co. was placed on a $2.50 annual basis today when directors declared an initial quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share, payable April 15, to stock of record March 31. The new dividend rate is equal to $10 a share on the old stock, which paid $6 annually before the 4-for-1 stock split-up.

Calif. Standard Raises Oil Price

New York, March 12 (AP)—The Standard Oil Company of California has advanced the price of crude oil 25 cents a barrel for the higher gravity oil. The prices for lower gravity oils have been advanced, and the 14-degree gravity oil being increased 6 cents a barrel.

Aircraft Merger Offer Expected

Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc., expected to make offer to exchange its shares for those of Berliner-Joyce Aircraft Corp. at special meeting of latter in Baltimore March 21.

Everett Trust Co.

Everett Trust Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, payable April 1 to stock of record March 20.

Railroads to Spend Over 4 Billions in Next 6 Years

The railroads will spend for improvements a total of approximately 4½ billion dollars during the next six years, according to a statement by Les G. Lauck, economist, of Washington.

"Events sometimes transpire that radically alter the operations of the railroads relative to expenditures," Mr. Lauck states. "Hence, the executives do not believe there is anything in existing conditions to warrant a contemplated abandonment of any part of their present program."

Analyzing this subject in detail in The Iron Age, Mr. Lauck continues:

"The demand for railroad service is constantly increasing. There may be an occasional falling off in this demand, due to temporary business conditions, but nothing is more certain than that there will continue to be a progressive increase in the demand for railroad service as the country grows.

"Railroad improvement is also and is essential to the conduct of all forms of business, and naturally business must expand to meet the requirements of national development.

"The growth of railroad service in the past 46 years may be seen in the following figures, showing the number of tons of freight carried one mile in the years indicated by decades, with 1929 added:

	Tons Carried One Mile
1883	30,064,923,445
1893	93,658,111,833
1903	173,221,278,993
1913	293,722,528,693
1923	413,582,132,000
1929 (Est.)	468,000,000,000

"There is no doubt about the continuance of the growth of railroad traffic, although there may be a difference in opinion upon the rate of growth that should be expected. Beyond the next six years it is not made of this question and at the time it was estimated that between 1925 and 1935 there probably would be an increase of 33⅓ per cent in the number of tons of freight carried one mile. This estimate is less than the actual increase in any of the four 10-year periods shown above.

"According to an authoritative estimate the railroads will be required to make the following additions to their important facilities in the next six years: Trackage, 23,000 miles; locomotives, 7920; freight cars, 435,000; passenger cars, 1380, and other equipment and improved facilities it is further estimated that the railroads must spend in the next six years, in addition to their actual expenditures for maintenance, a total approximately $4,724,000,000, an average of more than $787,000,000 a year. This estimate corresponds roughly with other estimates that have been made in the past several years.

"Most of the money that is to be spent for better facilities will have to be borrowed. Ability to obtain credit largely determines railroad expansion, and the prosperity and growth of business demands that the railroads have adequate credit. In other words, there must be left after payment of operating expenses, taxes and other charges against income) a balance sufficient to assure persons having money to invest that it is safe in railroad investments. If the railroads are not allowed to raise and spend this money, or whatever sum is found to be needed, every form of business will suffer as a consequence."

CURB MARKET LOSSES CUT OR CANCELLED

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

New York, March 12 (AP)—The Curb market reacted moderately in the morning today, but leading issues showed strong support after concessions of 2 points or so, and losses were reduced or cancelled by the afternoon.

As short selling is a lesser factor on this market, it did not decline as sharply as in the big board did during the morning break.

Utilities again bore the brunt of the selling. American & Foreign Power warrants sagged to a new low for the year, along with the stock on the big board, and Electric Bond & Share, the parent company, dropped 2 points before rallying.

Duke Power dropped nearly 8 points. A firm spot was Central Public Service of Delaware, which sent up fractionally into new high ground.

Technicolor, Loews debenture rights, Crocker Wheeler, Radio Products and Arcturus Tube were among issues in the specialty and industrial group to rise 1 to 4 points in the morning break. A firm spot was Petit Radio Tube, which moved up 4 points on a new high for 1930, despite heaviness in other radio shares.

Oils were steadied by the favorable crude production figures for last week, and Standard of California's increase in crude prices. These shares, however, failed to make much progress. Humble and Standard of Kansas sold up a little. Continental of Maine came out of inactivity with a gain of a point, in connection with recent strength of Continental of Delaware on the big board. In the mines, Newmont picked up 2 points.

Lehman Corp. dropped 2 points, then rallied smartly.

Low Price Records Set in Grain Mart

Chicago, March 12 (AP)—Under pressure of new 1930 crop offerings, corn and rye all smashed down here early today to new low price records, with recent strength of Democrated market conditions at silverpoint. Wheat suffered an overnight drop of 4¾ pence a bushel, was largely responsible, together with reduced

MEDICAL

X-RAY

Examination, sensitive and trial treatment absolutely free to all who call before Mar. 16th. The wonderful power of the X-ray and mercury quartz light treatment is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonders in diseases of every description. No matter what your disease may be, remember D. J. Walsh, M. D., will make good the above offer.

NEURITIS

Miss Bridget Linton, 4 Hutchinson St., Cambridge, says: "I had neuritis, my eyes were so bad I could scarcely move my head. I could not sleep at night. Since using Dr. Walsh's Neuritis Tablets I can sleep three or four hours at a time. I feel like doing something terrific." Mrs. H. Cosgrove, 173 Auburn St., Cambridge, says: "I am now Dr. Walsh had healed her of arthritis and neuritis after many years. I can treat me. I did so and now I am pleased to testify to the fact that Dr. Walsh healed me of Neuritis."

Mrs. Chas. Crawford, 1187 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, says: "Mrs. Cosgrove told me of Walsh's wonderful cures. He healed me of Rheumatism and Skin Diseases."

Miss Anna C. White, 197 Ravenswather St., Cambridge, says: "I was afraid to go publicly, my cousin, told me what Dr. Walsh had done for Mrs. Cosgrove and advised me to have Dr. Walsh treat me for Spinal trouble and Rheumatism, and Dr. Walsh healed me."

D. J. WALSH, M. D.

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Let the President Speak Out and Talk United States!

WE are sunk low in the scale of nations when British admirals openly boast that they count on the House of Representatives not to vote the money necessary to give the United States a navy equal to England's.

The British admirals are quoted by Edwin L. James, correspondent of the New York Times at the Naval Conference. In commenting on the radio address of Secretary of the Navy Adams, asking American public opinion to support the expenditures necessary for naval parity, Mr. James said in a London dispatch dated March 2:

"This part of Mr. Adams' speech recalls the talk often heard in London to the effect that the British admirals, as distinct from the British Government, WOULD DEPEND MORE ON THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES THAN ON THE SENATE TO PREVENT AMERICA FROM ACHIEVING NAVAL PARITY WITH GREAT BRITAIN.

"Even if the Senate should approve the treaty made here, some British naval experts doubt whether the House will provide the money to build the billion dollars of ships America would have to construct to achieve naval parity with Great Britain by 1936."

Well, maybe the House is less patriotic than the Senate.

Maybe the House, at the demand of foreigners, internationalists and pacifists, will scuttle the nation's declared policy of naval parity and do what the British admirals want and expect them to do.

If that happens, we shall have a very different House when the November elections roll around and the people have their say.

However, this newspaper is of the opinion that the House of Representatives, like the Senate, is an American and not a British lawmaking body and that it will demonstrate the fact to the British admirals in no uncertain way.

Moreover, we think the House, the Senate and all intelligent and patriotic citizens are fairly well informed on the source of the un-American pacifistic propaganda now being conducted in this country with the purpose of preventing the United States at all costs from building its navy up to the British level, and incidentally giving the British admirals their strange ideas.

The climax of this propaganda was a cable signed by 1,200 names, sent to the American naval delegation in London, and published in the New York Times of Monday, March 4. The cablegram says:

"We protest against any possibility that this policy of reduction may be abandoned."

In other words, America must still further decimate her navy even if other nations refuse to follow.

The cable also urges the American delegation to adopt:

"The principle of joint conference in the case of disputes that might otherwise lead to war."

That is, the delegation is urged to agree to a "consultation" or "security" pact, which means joining the League of Nations under another name. Indeed, Josephus Daniels, one of the signers, was frank enough to approve his signature to the cable with these words:

"ALL THESE HALF-WAY MEASURES ARE VALUABLE CHIEFLY BECAUSE THEY LEAD US INTO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS."

Let us see just who it was that composed this cablegram and rounded up the 1,200 signatures. The announced authors were Raymond B. Fosdick, Professor James T. Shotwell, James G. McDonald and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt.

Raymond B. Fosdick is CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS ASSOCIATION, working to get the United States into the League. Mr. Fosdick is also on the Advisory Council of Frederick W. Peabody's AMERICAN ASSOCIATION FAVORING RECONSIDERATION OF THE WAR DEBTS, the chief debt cancellationist organization of the country.

Professor James T. Shotwell, of Columbia, on January 9, issued a statement through the League of Nations Association saying:

"SOONER OR LATER THE UNITED STATES WILL BE A PARTNER IN THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS. IT MAY NOT THINK SO NOW."

James G. McDonald is a member of the Council of the League of Nations Association and is director of the Foreign Policy Association, which last Saturday in a statement asked "WHY DOES THE UNITED STATES WISH TO MAINTAIN A NAVY AS LARGE AS THAT OF BRITAIN" and complained that the United States alone was UNWILLING TO JOIN IN "MACHINERY" TO PUT TEETH IN THE KELLOGG PACT.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the Conference on the Cause and Cure of Wars, is a notorious pacifist who has publicly advocated for America to abandon the principle of self-defense as a move in the cause of peace.

A careful check shows that the signers of the cablegram include fifty-six persons publicly identified with the League of Nations Association and five of the Advisory Council of Peabody's association for cancelling Europe's war debts to our Government.

This would be an appropriate time for the President and the House of Representatives to let the American people, the American delegation abroad and the British admirals know just where our Government stands in this matter.

The people have a right to know whether their Government proposes to attend to the security and defense of the United States, or whether it is interested only in assuring continued domination of the seas by Great Britain.

It would be reassuring to hear from the President that he has no sympathy with representations made by foreign and internationalistic and pacifistic sections of our population, broadcast in news and echoed in editorials by the unpatriotic wing of the metropolitan press.

We have a right to know whether the Administration intends to slide us into the League of Nations system under cover of a naval conference, and whether the Administration is contemplating any form of security pact binding us to consult on how to save imperialistic France from the trouble it is bringing on its own guilty head—France, which we saved once, only to be called Uncle Shylock when we tried to collect only HALF of the money our Government lent France in the hour of its desperation.

Finally, the President might tell us the reason—if there is a reason—why he doesn't recall a delegation which has so far done nothing but convince the London Conference, the foreign diplomats, the British admirals and the foreign press that Santa Claus has come to Europe again and if they want anything in the world America will give it to them.

If the President at this time would speak up and talk United States the whole country would be grateful to him for it, and he would dispel the dread which has arisen in some narrow minds that his long residence abroad may have prejudiced him in favor of certain European nations.

What's a Little Parking?

Malden Police Officers Are Told to Be Considerate of the Out-of-Town Shopper

IT appears to be the judgment of the new police commissioner out in Malden that the police officers of that brisk and bustling suburb should regard themselves as a reception committee.

"Be sure your uniform is clean and well pressed," Commissioner Sweezey advises his constables, "see that badge and buttons are shining brightly and keep your shoes shined.

"Don't bawl people out. That sort of thing will not be tolerated. Malden needs trade from out of town. Police officers can help to win and hold it. Use judgment. See to it that the out-of-town shopper is not driven away from us because of a few minutes of overtime parking."

Mr. Sweezey's advice appears to us to be 99 per cent excellent. The smart-looking police officer IS a good advertisement for his city. The courteous man is a better one.

The difficulty of the traffic officer is likely to appear when he is asked to determine how many are a "few minutes." Did the commissioner mean ten, fifteen or twenty minutes? What shall be done about the offender who leaves his car parked a "few minutes" beyond the limit?

The commissioner had these questions in mind, perhaps, when he cautioned his men to use their judgment.

H. G. Wells Writes on 'Science of Life'

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and G. P. Wells

THE tapir, for example, is an anachronism. At one time it had a wide and extensive distribution, but now it lingers on insecurely and prowls by night in one or two marshy patches of jungle, in South and Central America, in Malaya, and Java and Sumatra. And the okapi, lurking in the deepest recesses of the forests of the Belgian Congo, evaded scientific description until a short time ago.

H. G. Wells

It may be that other forest-dwelling mammals lurk on in the same way. But these creatures in many note are not very striking departures from those that are more widely distributed; the tapir is a distant poor relation of the rhinoceros and the okapi is a closer poor relation of the giraffe.

Even here, unless some novel ape or monkey amazes the world, there is little chance of a really striking departure from the forms of life we know. In passing, we may set aside as quite untenable the very wild rumors of gigantic survivors from the reptile age that invade the press from time to time.

The reptile age was very much more ancient than the forest mammal age to which we have just referred, its climatic condition may have been very different from any now on earth, and it is so improbable as to be inconceivable that any of the dinosaurs, for example, should have lingered on unseen to the present day.

To sum up, then, it is probable that the range and variety of life as it exists today is already pretty well charted.

Perhaps an unromantic conclusion. One likes to dream of strange, evasive creatures that are still at liberty, that have eluded the cold systematic dockeeting of science. But there is wonder enough in what we already know.

In our brief review we have noted something of the variety of life, of the astonishing diversity of its forms. Consider, for example, its range of size.

The largest organisms living today are the whales and giant trees; the smallest that we know of are somewhere about a tenth of a micron across.

The largest organism weighs about 10^{16} times—10,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 times—as much as the smallest.

The sun weighs about 10^{24} times as much as the largest; the whole material universe, according to a recent calculation, weighs somewhere about 10^{52} times as much as the sun. An electron, the smallest known particle of matter, weighs about $1\ 10th^{27}$ as much as the smallest organism.

So that the range of size of organisms is over a quarter of the total range of size within the universe. And within that size range there is room enough for a wealth of different anatomies and ways of life.

Compare, for example, the life of Mr. Everyman and his wife with the life of an amoeba, a life where an individual tears himself without residue or wastage into two and in which two individuals blend permanently and without reserve to form one.

Consider the reconstitution of a sieved and scattered polyp, or the alternation of forms in the life-story of a liver-fluke. The world as we know it is surely strange enough to satisfy the most curious; the fabled sea-serpent and the fabled African brontosaur are banal imaginings compared with such mysterious as confront us already.

BOOK III.
The Incontrovertible Fact of Evolution.
CHAPTER ONE.
The Fact To Be Proved.

Sec. 1.—Evolution and Creation.

HITHERTO we have described the forms of life, avoiding as far as possible the introduction of any controversial matter. We have now to take up aspects of our subject that have been the centers of great controversies.

We have first to tell of the gradual recognition of a great reality—the Evolution of Life. And having done that as clearly and plainly as we can we shall have to discuss in the book that follows certain theories about which opinion still varies widely and at times violently.

Be Cautious! Temperate!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. M'INTYRE

NEW YORK, March 12—This column today was written by a life prisoner in one of New York's State prisons—a man whose name loomed big in headlines during his sensational trial a number of years ago. His observations are pertinent and follows:

It is almost a certainty I shall never see Broadway again, and although it was for many years the only world I knew I am rather glad. I am not referring to the physical Broadway of lights and gaiety, but the real Broadway that is "a state of consciousness."

In my rather brief hour I was a part of its sham, its insincere fellowship. It was my idea of heaven on earth. Not until my disaster swept away my fair weather friends as leaves of autumn are swept by the frosty winds did I realize the utter indifference of its purious soul to misfortune.

This sounds like a whine but isn't so intended. Should it serve as a warning to just one of the thousands as weak as myself it will fulfill a purpose. I came to Broadway with no particularly high ideals. But I was, as men go, fairly decent and I was truthful.

I FINISHED up thoroughly dishonest and a liar. Cynics may say my end would have been the same wherever I was, but I do not believe so. The first lesson Broadway taught me was that false values have a cash potentiality. This has undone better men than I.

I began, like so many others, to pose as something I was not nor ever would be. The sailing was so smooth I became a living lie and what moral stamina I had was soon undermined. Being myself established no credit or made me welcome where I wished to go. But posing did.

The finale, of course, was inevitable. I became a despicable crook—and later the murderer of one who had been my friend. All the while I realized whither I was drifting, but the Broadway stream runs swift. And there are few who stem its current.

I remember a relative of mine, a God-fearing gentleman, visiting me in the flush of those hectic days. His only comment upon starting for home was to call me by a favorite nickname of his and say: "You are not associating with the right kind of folks. Environment often does more harm than drink." I was inclined to indulge a secret sniff then, but in my long travail I have thought of what he said a thousand times. How true it was.

I HAVE spent as much as $500 a night—high spending for those days—entertaining my Broadway cronies. From the time of my arrest until now I have yet to receive word of sympathy or a personal visit from anyone of them. That is the indifference that typifies the Broadway heart—its utter coldness.

The only human being who stood by me when my world tottered were two schoolday friends from my home town. The irony of it all is that I used to avoid them when they came to New York. In my foolish worldliness, they seemed simple minded yokels. They have continued to write me once a month while in prison—my sole contact with the world outside.

Broadway, with the morals of a mink, lures by its sheer sickliness like the invalid who so often dominates an entire household of healthy people.
